YANKS BREAK INTO CITY'S OUTSKIRTS; WIN KEY HILLS

BULLETINS.

LONDON, June 24 (Saturday)—(AP).—The German radio said early today that the Cherbourg fortress had been pounded for the last 24 hours by a thousand allied guns of all calibres in the most powerful artillery barrage on the invasion front so far. The broadcast, by Transocean, Nazi news agency, said that aerial bombing also had been going on almost without interruption.

A TOWN IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND, June 24 (Saturday)—(AP).—The reverberation of terrific gunfire which seemed to come from a distance of 40 to 50 miles was heard on the English coast for more than an hour after midnight. The ground and houses shook from the ferocity of the barrage.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 24 [Saturday].—Breaking thru the German fortress line guarding Cherbourg, American troops early today were on the southern outskirts of the prize port.

The break-thru, south of the city, between Mont du Roc and Octeville occurred as other American forces closed in from the east and southeast after storming key hill positions near Tourlaville and La Mare a Canards.

Octeville and its nearby fort are on the edge of Cherbourg and only a mile from the center of France's third largest port. From atop the La Mare a Canards hill, the Yanks could see the city's quays only 2½ miles distant.

City's Fall Near.

The fall of Cherbourg appeared to be near despite fierce resistance by thousands of German troops. Headquarters war bulletins yesterday and last night said that "pressure on the Cherbourg defenses is increasing," and that "a prolonged siege is unlikely."

The fate of Cherbourg apparently was sealed by the capture of the Tourlaville hill. It is only a mile from the sea and gives the Americans complete observation over the eastern sector of the city. It cuts the highway to Eglise and also cuts off all enemy troops in the eastern part of the peninsula from the defenses of the city.

In a yard by yard advance thru woods and orchards the Americans drove wedges up the slopes, knocking out pill boxes, machine gun nests, and big guns. They made a general advance on the less than 20 mile are around the port of about 2,000 yards. Yesterday the Yanks held an arc varying from two to three miles from the city, with a maximum penetration into the fortified zone outside the town of two miles

Second Flattop Hit and Warship Sunk by Planes.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, June 23 (AP).—A Japanese aircraft carrier, one of the enemy's largest and newest of the 28,000 ton Shokaku class, probably was sunk Sunday, hit by three torpedoes from an American submarine, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said in a bulletin today.

This blow brought to five the Japanese carriers sunk or damaged in the June 18-19 Philippine sea battle. One of these is definitely known to be sunk.

Destroyer Sunk by Planes.

An enemy destroyer, previously reported as severely damaged by air attack, definitely was sunk, Nimitz said in his supplementary bulletin. A small carrier, previously reported damaged, was hit by two aerial torpedoes.

Nimitz also said that two navy twin engined bombers were shot down by American planes returning Monday from their attack on the enemy fleet force.

That made the score of the two day action:

Definitely sunk—A Hayataka class carrier, a destroyer, and three tankers. [5].

Probably sunk—A Shokaku class carrier. [1].

Damaged—A Hayataka class carrier "left burning furiously"; a Zuikaku class carrier, hit with three 1,000 pound bombs; a light carrier, hit by two aerial bombs; a Kongo class battleship, a cruiser, two destroyers, and two tankers. [9].

Down 370 Planes.

In addition, the Japanese lost more than 370 planes.

Two United States carriers and a battleship sustained superficial damage and lost 70 planes.

Meanwhile, task force 58, under immediate command of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher—the greatest naval armada the world has ever known—was prowling the far western Pacific still eager for the showdown with the Japanese navy that appeared so close at hand earlier.

Smash at Truk.

American ground forces, aided by the sea victory, were last reported boring northward in steady gains. Enemy forces were under constant pressure from the air, land artillery, and big naval guns.

Joining Southwest Pacific based air forces of Gen. MacArthur in a two way smash at by-passed Truk, in the Carolines, heavy bombers of the 7th army air force dropped 70 tons of bombs on that target Tuesday and Wednesday, Nimitz reported. All planes returned to their base in the Marshall Islands.

JAPS ADMIT ALARM.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Etsuzo Kurihara, chief of the naval press section of Japanese Imperial headquarters, said in a formal statement broadcast by Tokyo today that the "battle situation in the Saipan area is the most critical one since the beginning of the war."

Tokyo added: "Altho during this period [of engagements off the Marianas], five enemy aircraft carriers and more than one battleship were sunk or damaged, we were unable to inflict a decisive blow upon the enemy."

A Tokyo broadcast beamed to North America said last night that "at least 60" American carrier-based planes attacked Guam today. The Domei agency report asserted 15 planes were shot down. It also said Japanese planes had "heavily damaged" two American aircraft carriers off Saipan yesterday.

NEW COLOR MAP.

On the back page of today's Tribune appears a color map of the Pacific theater of war, showing the progress of the forces under the command of Gen. MacArthur and those of the navy, and including this week's great battle in the waters west of Guam. The map illustrates a radio address which Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, will deliver between 8 and 9 o'clock this evening over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network as a part of the Chicago Theater of the Air program.

WAR CASUALTIES GIVEN PRIORITY ON RAILROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The office of defense transportation today announced that it and the interstate commerce commission have ordered railroads to cancel reservations or tickets and cancel or discontinue passenger train service when necessary in handling war casualties.

J. M. Johnson, ODT director, in a letter to J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said issuance of the enabling certificate and order "will give the railroads full legal support in carrying out their plans."

An ODT spokesman said there is no available information on the time when the influx of casualties from European fronts will start.

There are approximately 1,700 hospitals to which the wounded may be moved.

Report 86 Killed, Hundreds Injured by Tornado in East

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 23 (AP).—More than 86 persons were reported killed tonight and hundreds injured by a windstorm of tornadic force that twisted thru southwestern Pennsylvania and northcentral West Virginia.

Hundreds were made homeless as many dwellings were demolished. Hospitals were overcrowded with the injured. Uprooted trees blocked some highways and power and communication facilities were impaired.

Striking at nightfall, the storm lasted but about 15 minutes as it skirted Pittsburgh, hitting suburban communities to the south and east and sweeping down into West Virginia. Areas within 100 miles south of Pittsburgh were affected.

"Worst Yet to Come."

The heaviest toll was reported at Shinnston, W. Va., and nearby communities, where at least 27 were known dead and ambulance drivers reported "the worst is yet to come," as they brought in the casualties.

Late reports showed the 86 killed as follows: West Virginia, 50; McKeesport, Pa., 10; Greene county, Pa., 22; Washington county, Pa., 2, and Indiana county, Pa., 2.

Many persons in the storm described it as a "twister," accompanied by a funnel-shaped cloud, which tore an erratic path of destruction over farms and towns.

Early reports showed more than 200 persons injured as the wind cut a swath thru three West Virginia counties, leveling homes by the dozen.

Report Bodies Along Roads.

Ambulance drivers there, frantically trying to get over blocked roads up Shinn's Run, near Shinnston, said they had reports of bodies along the roads.

Scores of those injured in Pennsylvania were in hospitals in McKeesport, Waynesburg, Washington, Uniontown, and Brownsville.

The Red Cross mobilized its disaster relief forces and sent workers with blood plasma, medical supplies, cots, and food to the stricken areas.

Military police and army medical corpsmen were sent from Pittsburgh into nearby McKeesport, one of the hardest hit Pennsylvania cities. All civilian defense forces were mobilized.

The little mining community of Chartiers, visited by disaster only two weeks ago when a mine explosion and fire killed six men, was hardest hit in Greene county, Pa.

There were eight known dead in Chartiers and between 40 and 50 houses, most of the dwellings in the town were leveled. Most of Greene county was in darkness due to power failure.

Supt. William Hacker of McKeesport hospital said "dozens" were in the hospital with serious injuries, and "hundreds" were treated and discharged.

The storm unroofed an estimated 20 houses in Wellsburg, W. Va., and damaged more than a score more.

Fire Chief Paul G. McAtee of McKeesport reported at least 110 houses were leveled in suburbs of that city.

Many workers were injured when sections of roof were blown off three steel mills in McKeesport.

Storm Near Akron.

Akron, O., June 23 (AP).—Six persons were injured and property was damaged extensively tonight as a high wind lashed a strip five miles long and a half a mile wide near Ravenna east of here.

9 Dead, 2 Missing

Platteville, Wis., June 23 [Special].—Nine persons dead, two reported missing, and an estimated million dollar property loss was the toll tonight of a tornado that struck southwestern Wisconsin and northwestern Illinois last night. Wisconsin counted seven dead, including six in the village of Belmont, and Illinois two. Twenty-two persons, some in critical condition, were in hospitals at Platteville and Monroe, Wis., and Freeport, Ill.

PLANE BEHEADS AUTOIST; ACCUSE TWO OFFICERS

Wittmann, Ariz., June 23 (AP).—Army charges were filed today against two Luke field officers following the beheading of William Nepple, 57, by the tip of a plane wing as he drove an automobile along the highway last night.

The men charged with "violation of flying regulations" pending further investigation were announced by Col. John K. Nissley as 2d Lt. Howard Stittsworth, Wakefield, Kas., and 2d Lt. Dean C. Fundingland, Grand Forks, N. D.

DEWEY BANDWAGON RUMBLE STARTS; PLANK AGAINST GLOBAL POLICE SOUGHT

Resolutions Group Will Start Writing Policies Today.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Efforts to word the Republican party's foreign policy plank so voters will have no doubt as to its stand against a global police force will be made today when the resolutions committee starts drafting the national platform, it seemed likely yesterday.

Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan submitted a proposed plank drafted by the foreign policy group formed at the G. O. P. Mackinac conference last fall. Some committee members later said the plank appeared to be ambiguous.

They did not quite call it a straddle between nationalists and internationalists, but said the drafting committee would have to "reword it to say what it means."

Sen. Ball Gets Hearing.

Public hearings were ended last night, but Sen. Austin of Vermont, chairman of the foreign policy subcommittee, announced that Sen. Ball of Minnesota, a follower of Lt. Comdr. Harold Stassen, may be heard this morning. Ball has argued that peace will not be lasting without the use of an international police force.

Gov. Dewey of New York ripped into the New Deal in a message to the resolutions committee. As head of another Mackinac subgroup on government reform on the home front, he sent his communication with a bulky factual report of 42 pages. The New Yorker said the national administration has become a sprawling, overlapping burocracy.

"It is undermined by executive abuse of power, confused lines of authority, duplication of effort, inadequate fiscal controls, loose personnel practices, and an attitude of arrogance previously unknown in our history," he said.

"Times Cry . . . for New Spirit."

"The times cry out . . . for an entirely new spirit in our federal government.

"We need an administration wherein the President, acting in harmony with congress, will effect these necessary reforms and raise the federal service to a high level of efficiency and competence."

Gov. Kelly of Michigan, as head of another Mackinac advisory subgroup, denounced the New Deal for placing shackles on business and labor and throttling private enterprise.

The post-war foreign policy plan which Sen. Vandenberg submitted with the unanimous approval of his Mackinac advisory committee was against a world state and advocated organized international coöperation to preserve peace and freedom.

Ambiguous Wording Cited.

Some members pointed out what they called an ambiguity: the proposed plank in one paragraph said peace and security do not depend on the sanction of force. In another passage it advocated a post-war cooperative organization among sovereign nations. Such an organization, it said, should develop effective coöperative means to direct peace forces to prevent or repel military aggression.

Some asked if this might mean outside nations might direct American peace forces. Others remarked that altho the question of an international police force is not mentioned, both opponents and advocates of such a police force might find reason to read the plank as inclining to their side.

Still others said the plank does not reflect as it should the definite nationalism embodied in the state platforms of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana, and in the speeches of Gov. Bricker of Ohio, who has hammered against a superstate and against an international police force in which America might be under the thumb of outside nations.

Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, a committee member, said the sug-

One Ballot or More? Pennsylvania and Illinois to Decide.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

The rumble of the Dewey bandwagon was distinctly audible last night in and about the lobbies of the Stevens and Blackstone hotels. Republican national convention leaders were jostling to get front seats on the bus.

Such phenomena were interpreted by the political sages as a reliable portent of the nomination of Gov. Dewey of New York for President, probably on the first ballot of the Republican national convention, which meets in the Stadium Monday.

Centers of attention were the Illinois delegation of 59 and the Pennsylvania group of 70 votes, which, according to common view, will determine whether there will be more than one roll call on the nomination.

Claim Dewey Majority in Illinois.

With California, the first big state on the alphabetical roster, slated to cast 50 votes for Dewey on the first ballot, the Illinois delegation, the next big group on the roll call, will be in a position to start a stampede to Dewey if it should decide to plump for the New York governor. Illinois is divided between support of Dewey and of Gov. Bricker of Ohio, with the Dewey partisans reported to be in the majority. The Dewey members of the Illinois group are rarin' to go on the first ballot.

The Illinois and other delegations might vote for favorite sons on the first ballot, but at the risk of being run over by the Dewey bandwagon before the end of the roll call.

This possibility is what is worrying the Pennsylvanians, who are so far down on the alphabetical list that Dewey easily could be nominated before they got a chance to vote. They are going to caucus tomorrow night to decide their course. Joseph N. Pew, Philadelphia oil man and ship builder, is reliably reported to have told his colleagues in the delegation that unless they announce tomorrow night for Dewey they will "miss the bus."

Recalls Missing Bus in 1940.

Pew missed the bus at Philadelphia in 1940 when Pennsylvania's favorite son, Arthur James, then governor, insisted on holding the delegation to his support so long that Willkie was within four votes of the nomination before the squabbling Keystone state men could record their votes.

Sen. Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, national party treasurer, reached Chicago with tidings from Gov. Saltonstall of that state that the New England delegations will meet in a general caucus Monday morning to decide on a regional program of action on the nomination.

Weeks experienced the unpleasant political sensation of a candidacy he was about to espouse being shot out from under him. He was about to declare for Willkie when Willkie was blown out of the contest by the Wisconsin primary, in which the party's 1940 standard bearer failed to get a single delegate. Willkie's principal strength was in New England, a majority of whose delegates now favor Dewey.

Griswold Asks 7 to Back Dewey.

Gov. Griswold of Nebraska, who harbors Vice Presidential ambitions, released seven delegates pledged to him for President and recommended that they support Dewey. Seven of Nebraska's remaining eight are for Lt. Comdr. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, but eventually will divide between Dewey and Bricker.

All is not peaceful in the Wisconsin delegation, 17 of whose 24 members are pledged to Dewey. Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman and Julius Spearbraker, both pledged to Dewey, are at swords' points over the job of national committeeman, which each covets. It is related that Zimmerman recently went to New York to see Dewey, but the governor would not

Spending Curb to Win Peace Urged by Taft

Banishment of the idea that deficit federal government spending is a cure-all for economic ills was demanded yesterday by Sen. Taft [R., O.] in a speech before the Executives' club of Chicago. More than 1,500 persons, said to be the largest attendence in the 33 year history of the club, heard the address, which was viewed as a plea to the national Republican convention opening Monday.

The New Deal spending idea has so permeated the people that even those against the principle are in Washington searching for government money, Sen. Taft asserted. He pointed to plans for post-war public works programs being piled up by many cities.

The senator said the job of the American people in the Republican convention and the November election is to make ready for the post-war America.

Four New Deal principles to be combatted by the Republicans in peace time were listed by Sen. Taft as: [1] Federalization, including education, at the expense of the county, local and state governments, which the speaker termed the backbone of republican government. [2] Delegation of powers to bureaus which make their own rules and regulations and judge those who offend. [3] Disregard for individual freedom. [4] Belief that everything can be solved by federal spending behind the theory that prosperity can be produced by this method.

He pointed out that a peace time budget will run from 17 to 20 billion dollars, and added that addition of public housing, social welfare, security, and other such projects, if financed federally, will force expenditures to an astronomical high. He urged that such measures should be undertaken by the states.

receive him because he [Dewey] is not a candidate. If there should be a second ballot the Wisconsin delegates for Stassen and Gen. MacArthur and some of the Dewey men will go to Bricker, a Wisconsin leader asserted.

A scheme to get Bricker to withdraw and present the name of Dewey for the nomination was pronounced absurd by the Ohio governor.

Scoff at Byrd for 2d Place.

Suggestions that Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] be named as running mate for the Republican nominee for President are not taken seriously by party leaders. Some thought that after the sad experience with Willkie the party would have no stomach for adopting a Democrat again. Others said a Democratic candidate for Vice President would bring few Democratic votes to the ticket that it will not get anyway.

The principal talking point for Dewey is that he is best qualified to carry New York, with its 47 electoral votes, in an election in which it probably will be the pivotal state. The candidate who wins New York will be elected, the argument goes. Particularly stressed are Dewey's election as governor in 1942 by a 350,000 majority and the election of a Republican lieutenant governor in 1943, which was a test of popularity between Dewey and Roosevelt, by a majority of 400,000.

Such claims are disputed by the Bricker supporters, who contend that Dewey would be a weak candidate in the nation at large. Against Dewey, they argue, are his youth [he is 42] and inexperience, and an instability of conviction, illustrated by his espousal of a strong nationalism in 1940 and his veering to internationalism in 1944.

Dewey Wins Willkie Backers.

The Dewey speech to the publishers, advocating international cooperation without specific reservation of American sovereignty and national interest, caused the eastern internationalists to take him to their bosoms with every evidence of enthusiasm. He thereby won the Willkie following—without, however, winning the support of Willkie, who is still on the fence with regard to Dewey and the Republican platform being framed in Chicago.

By the same token the western nationalists were chilled by the Dewey speech and it is particularly in the middle west, stronghold of nationalism, that Dewey, if nominated, would make a weak candidate, according to the Bricker partisans. By contrast, according to this view, Bricker, who takes a strongly nationalist stand, would be a strong candidate in this territory. And without the midwest a Republican candidate cannot be elected, it is asserted.

Dewey, it also is contended, would be handicapped as a candidate by his lack of a war service record, tho he was under 40 at the beginning of the war. He is compared unfavorably with Bricker, who served as a chaplain in the first World war after being rejected for heart weakness, and with Harold Stassen, who resigned as governor of Minnesota to serve in the navy in this war.

Never Heard of "Honest' Draft.

Also a liability for Dewey, it is argued, would be his pledge when elected governor to serve out his term ending in 1946 and his statement that he never knew of an "honest to goodness draft" of a person for any office, that he never knew of a "draft" that was not connived in by the beneficiary.

Dewey was the pre-convention favorite at Philadelphia in 1940, but failed to win the nomination under circumstances that have strong parallels with the current maneuvering in the Stevens and Blackstone hotels, said Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, who is to be floor manager for the Bricker forces.

"If Dewey doesn't win on the first or second ballot, he is thru," Brown told a press conference. "You know it and I know it and so do the Dewey managers."

Brown conceded that Dewey would have 385 votes—possibly a handful more—on the first ballot and placed Bricker's opening figure at from 200 to 225, which is lower than estimates of the other Ohio strategists. The rest, including the big Illinois, Pennsylvania, and California delegations, will be scattered among favorite sons early and be supporting Bricker on later ballots, Brown insisted.

3 or More Ballots, says Brown.

"My opinion is that this convention is not going to nominate any one on the first ballot and isn't going to nominate on the second," Brown said. "Along about the third or fourth ballot a nomination might be made, or it might run longer."

Talk of a Presidential ticket on which Bricker would be teamed with Sen. Byrd was deflated by Brown, who declared that only Republicans would be considered by the convention.

Dr. R. C. Radabaugh of Hastings, Minn., chairman of the Stassen for President committee, announced that the name of Stassen will be presented for the nomination by Sen. Ball of Minnesota. Radabaugh tallied about 40 votes for Stassen on the first ballot—25 for Minnesota, 4 from Wisconsin, 6 from Nebraska, and others from the Dakotas.

"We are for Harold Stassen because we believe in the things he stands for and because we think he will make the strongest candidate in November," said Radabaugh. "We are not against anybody and are not participating in any movement to stop anybody. We want to have Harold Stassen's name presented and his qualifications fully considered by the delegates.

"We believe Harold Stassen will make the strongest race in November because he has, in addition to wide general appeal, strong following among three groups in which Republicans must increase their strength to win—workers in the cities, farmers in the great midwestern farm states, and young people."

G. O. P. PLANK AGAINST GLOBAL POLICE SOUGHT

gestion that an international organization "develop effective cooperative means to direct peace forces" was meaningless. "It must be changed to say what it means," he said.

Sen. Brooks said he will insist today that the Vandenberg subcommittee language include a pledge to consult our fighting men on foreign policy.

Vandenberg Plank "Less Clear."

"There was almost universal approval of the Mackinac statement," Sen. Brooks said. "This current proposal is in my opinion less clear than the statement.

"Omitted has been the agreement that 'we favor the widest consultation of the gallant men and women in our armed forces who have a special right to speak with authority in behalf of the security and liberty for which they fight.'

"Having faced the fathers of the young German soldiers we are fighting on French soil, I certainly would want to consult with these boys. . . . Any declaration on our part should contain an honest pledge to give them the widest consultation when they return."

Sen. Vandenberg predicted the plank would be approved, but there was a definite feeling that efforts will be made to put some teeth in the final draft. The proposed plank was published in yesterday's TRIBUNE.

'Point Way,' Says Senator.

Vandenberg in a speech said that the key to American sentiment on America's place in the post-war world, which must be written in the final plank, is "We preserve America and we coöperate with a free world."

"We have clung faithfully to the Mackinac formula which we wholly affirm," he said. "We are confident we point the way." He remarked that the Mackinac charter gave "the country pre-view proof that the Republican party and its fast approaching Republican administration are wholly competent to be trusted with our foreign affairs."

Sen. Taft of Ohio, chairman of the resolutions committee, presented another report from a Mackinac subcommittee. It recommended:

Post-war reduction of income tax rates for individuals.

Abolition of the excess profits tax and the capital gains levy, and alleviation of duplicated taxes.

Abolition of federal excise taxes except on tobacco and liquor, with gasoline taxes turned back to the states.

13 Principles Advanced.

Government should not compete with private industry in the post-war world, Gov. Kelly said in his report. The Michigan chief executive submitted a list of 13 principles which he said should be enunciated in the platform. Chief among them were:

"Every effort should be expended to resist a tendency to socialize business. Individual initiative must be unshackled.

"Elimination of all unnecessary regulation of individuals and business.

"Provide incentive and equal opportunity for the youth of America.

"Give veterans assurance the party will do all in its power to provide an economy that will give prompt employment."

Gov. Hickenlooper of Iowa, head of a Mackinac group on agriculture, said his report would be ready Sunday. "Republicans," he said, "must assure farmers economic equality with business and labor, an equality which they have not had.

Asks "Economy of Abundance."

"Future farm programs must be based on an economy of abundance instead of an economy of scarcity." This brought applause.

Reporting for another subcommittee on economic problems, Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York said that altho foreign trade is important it is "not important enough to gain if it means sacrifice of our American standard of living; the highest in the world."

Reed said the New Deal reciprocal trade agreements have been a subterfuge to lower tariffs, and this might invite an invasion of foreign goods which would be ruinous to our economy following the war.

"The hope of the world," he said, "is not in destroying the American market but in preserving it."

John Brandt, president of the National Coöperative Milk Producers federation, told the resolutions committee that the handling of crop surpluses is the crux of the agricultural problem. He urged that that part of the crop consumed by the domestic market be maintained at domestic prices and that the farmer—not the taxpayer—be assessed for handling the surplus in the foreign market.

Herbert Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, told the committee private business is ready in the post-war period to "rebuild America if the government will get out of competition and remove restrictions."

Hickenlooper, convening the agricultural subcommittee of which he also is chairman, indicated some attention will be given in the agricultural plank to the "vast and unknown" stores of food supplies accumulated under government purchases that will be left after the war.

Farm Planning Criticised.

Questioning Earl C. Smith, vice president of the American Farm Bureau federation, at the subcommittee's session, the Iowa governor suggested these accumulated supplies might, to a large extent, take care of the immediate demand from war devastated areas.

Smith declared that "all this farm planning is certainly not intelligent planning" and cited the recent crisis in the egg market when government purchased eggs were sold at 5 cents a case.

Included in the 13 point program Smith submitted to the subcommittee was the recommendation that "reconversion [to peace] should be handled in a democratic manner under definite policies outlined by congress."

Wins Decree

MRS. ETHELWYNNE HILL.

Mrs. Ethelwynne Hill, 38, of 999 Lake Shore dr., who charged her husband, Christopher, a soft drink bottler, with desertion, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court. Attorneys Benjamin H. Ehrlich, representing Mrs. Hill, and Samuel A. Rinella, counsel for her husband, announced that she had accepted a $70,000 property settlement in lieu of alimony. They were married Jan. 5, 1936, and separated Oct. 1, 1942. Mrs. Hill sued her husband for separate maintenance in 1938, when he was president of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company of Chicago, but they were reconciled when she became ill and he brought flowers to her in the hospital.

WOMEN HELPING DRAFT PLANK ON FOREIGN POLICY

BY MARCIA WINN.

Five women, representing as many areas of the United States, including Hawaii, sat yesterday as part of the 15 member foreign affairs subcommittee of the Republican convention resolutions committee as public hearings opened at the Stevens hotel. A sixth woman on the subcommittee, Rep. Clare Luce of Connecticut, has not yet arrived. They sat all day, attentive, alert, and quick to cross-examine, as men and women filed into the hearing room to give their views on what America's part in the post-war world should be.

One came frankly with an open mind. She is Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal of Arizona, a woman who combines politics with her jewelry business. She became the first woman assistant chairman of any major political party when she held this post for the Republicans in 1936.

At Give and Take Stage.

"Four years ago I would have told you our foreign policy should be thus and so," she said in a brief interview outside the hearing room. "But now I'm at the give and take stage. I'm listening to all these people. I thought Sen. Vandenburg's declaration this morning was fine, but I'm willing to consider all views.

"I've had too much experience in public life to feel you can tell any person or any party the exact procedure that should be followed to build and maintain peace. I will always be a strong supporter of a strong national defense, for I feel keenly that we might have avoided this conflict had we had such a strong defense system."

Asked if she thought she reflected the views of the west, Mrs. Hoyal said she thought the west had no indigenous views, and added, "There's just as much division of thought in the far west as in the east. You can't group thinking geographically."

Would Go Step Further.

Mrs. F. Peavey Heffelfinger of Minnesota, the young mother of five children [a son in the navy; a daughter, Jinx, in the New York cast of "One Touch of Venus"], is frankly an internationalist and at one point in the hearings engaged in a sprightly bit of repartee with Gerald K. Smith, who gave the committee his sternly nationalist views. She lives in a suburb of Minneapolis and is a candidate for the state legislature.

"I think this thing [the Vandenburg declaration] they read this morning is very fine," she said, "but we need to go a step further. We need some means of having economic sanctions, and, failing that, some sort of force should be available."

Miss Marguerite Kamehaokalain Ashford of Honolulu, a dark eyed woman with white hair who was a first deputy attorney general of Hawaii, phrased her stand briefly with the sentence: "I don't think any one who had been in Honolulu on Dec. 7, 1941, would be totally isolationist." "We are not fanatics," she elaborated. "We are realists. If we get into an international organization, the only way we can get along is by compromise."

Miss Ashford, together with the entire Hawaiian delegation [all pledged to Dewey], came by clipper.

Other women on the subcommittee are Miss Albina R. Cermak of Ohio and Mrs. Addison P. Green of Massachusetts, who is serving as secretary.

BYRD SAYS 'NO' TO G. O. P. BID ON VICE PRESIDENCY

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—A group of Republican congressmen started a Byrd for Vice President boom today, but the Democratic senator from Virginia declared: "I'm not a candidate on any ticket whatsoever."

That also had been his response to southern anti-fourth term moves to make him head of the Democratic ticket.

The talk of a G. O. P. excursion outside party lines continued, however, with Rep. Knutson of Minnesota, ranking Republican on the house ways and means committee, saying he will promote at the Republican national convention the idea of offering Byrd the second place on the ticket. Knutson said that with Byrd on the ticket "we can carry Virginia, North Carolina, and several other southern states."

HOOSIER CALLS ON REPUBLICANS TO DRAFT TAFT

A plea to draft Sen. Taft [R., O.] for the Republican nomination for President, was made last night at a meeting of the Citizens U. S. A. committee at 205 W. Wacker dr. by Carl H. Mote, an Indiana delegate to the convention, and president of the Northern Indiana Telephone company.

"I came to Chicago hoping that Gov. Bricker of Ohio would be nominated," said Mote. "I have become convinced that Gov. Bricker cannot defeat young Mr. Dewey.

"The state of Ohio has another son, Sen. Taft, a sound Republican, who had he been nominated four years ago would have been elected. At this late hour, I think Sen. Taft might defeat young Mr. Dewey, win the nomination, and be elected in November."

LABOR'S NEEDS BARED BY GREEN IN PLEA TO G. O. P.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday told the resolutions committee of the Republican national convention that the government's department of labor should be organized, and that all labor matters should be coordinated and placed in the department under a secretary "satisfactory to labor and really representative of the interests of labor."

William Green.

Green presented 10 planks in the interests of labor. The one which called attention to the many matters affecting labor that have been taken from the jurisdiction of Mrs. Frances Perkins, who has headed Roosevelt's labor department for the last 11½ years, was considered one of the main points.

Would Amend Labor Act.

The AFL president also urged an amendment to the national labor relations act so that "workers would be clothed with authority to determine for themselves the kind and character of a collective bargaining agency which would be suitable and serviceable to them."

The national labor relations board should be deprived of authority to determine arbitrarily the kind of collective bargaining agent for workers employed in a plant, and instead the authority should be conferred on the workers themselves, Green stated.

Such a change would permit craft unions to be represented by bargaining agencies of their own selection instead of being forced to accept bargaining agencies selected for them by other groups of workers, it was explained.

Anti-Strike Bill Blasted.

Green advocated passage of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill, now pending in congress, and repeal of the Smith-Connally act, the anti-strike bill passed in protest against strikes which crippled plants producing badly needed war materials last year. The AFL has kept its no strike during the war pledge, Green asserted, altho the Smith-Connally act authorized some strikes that were called after 30 days' notice had been given.

The veteran head of the AFL did not elaborate on the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill, but he said labor's social security program is incorporated in it. Aside from this bill, he urged enactment of a form of social security legislation which would provide for the establishment of a national system of social insurance upon a contributory basis.

Aid to Business Urged.

The AFL has a definite program for post-war reconstruction, Green advised the committee. He said it proposes an emergency unemployment fund, demobilization payments and a short work week not exceeding 40 hours. The government, he added, also must facilitate the resumption of civilian operations by private business.

"A federal program of needed public works should be launched, and should be awarded to private contractors in order to supplement employment in private industry during conversion," Green said.

A comprehensive housing program "to provide suitable homes for the families of our citizens" and "just exemptions on income taxes of low income families in order to assure decent standards of living and to enable wage earners to make contributions to social insurance funds" also were urged.

William L. Hutcheson, a delegate from Indiana and president of the Carpenters' International union, was named head of a convention subcommittee on labor. He is a vice president of the AFL.

WOMAN HIT BY TROLLEY DIES.

Mrs. Lillian Nienstedt, 76, died yesterday in the MacNeal Memorial hospital, Berwyn, of injuries suffered Thursday when she was struck by a street car at 26th st. and Desplaines av. in North Riverside. She lived at 175 Southcote rd., Riverside.

F. D. R. Refuses to Talk of 4th Term Reports

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt declined with a grin today to confirm or refute a prediction by Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia that the chief executive soon would express his willingness to accept a fourth term.

STEVENS RALLY HEARS BRICKER SPEAK TONIGHT

Gov. John W. Bricker, the only Presidential candidate attending the Republican national convention, will speak at a meeting in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel at 8:15 o'clock tonight. His speech will be rebroadcast by CBS-WBBM at 10:45 p. m.

The Chicagoland Bricker-for-President committee announced that the balcony would be reserved for delegates and alternates, with the public invited to the main floor seats to hear the Ohio governor. Frank C. Rathje, chairman of the Chicagoland committee, will open the meeting, and George I. Haight, attorney, will introduce Bricker.

Bricker's philosophy that preservation of Americanism must be the fundamental issue for every governmental official was restated in NBC and Blue network broadcasts last night. He said the first political convention he attended was a township meeting in Ohio 43 years ago when he was 7 years old. His father took him to see county delegates named.

Bricker said that "humbleness, a feeling of responsibility and devotion to service of the country" are essentials "if we keep our eyes on the fundamental issues of protecting representative government and preserving Americanism."

BRITISH EMPIRE WRITERS GATHER TO COVER G. O. P.

British and Australian newspapermen covering the Republican convention will make their headquarters at the Ambassador West hotel. Twenty rooms have been reserved for 15 newspaper officials and correspondents.

Among those who will be present during the convention week is Keith Murdoch, editor and director of several Australian newspapers and chairman of the Australian Associated Press. Murdoch, who is also director general of information for Australia, is on his way back to Melbourne after having attended a recent communications conference in London.

Another correspondent who will cover the convention is Willmott H. Lewis, Washington representative of the London Times.

TELLS OF $10,000 FUND PUT UP TO KNOCK OUT NYE

Langer Accused of Deal with Democrats.

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—An attempt to swing the North Dakota Republican primary against Sen. Nye, Republican senior senator, by entering a Democrat backed with at least $10,000 in Democratic money, in the campaign was revealed at a recent secret session of the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures, THE TRIBUNE learned today.

Sen. Langer.

The committee was told that Sen. Langer, Nye's Republican colleague in the senate, offered to make Fay De Witt, Minot, N. D., "the next United States senator," and that a Democratic leader identified as "Tom McSheehan" said in Langer's presence he was prepared to back De Witt with $10,000 "and at least $50,000 more."

Report De Witt Declines.

The testimony was given to the committee, it was learned, by Neal Williams, Fargo, N. D., special assistant attorney general of North Dakota and former department commander of the Disabled American Veterans.

De Witt declined the offer, the committee was reported to have been told. Nye is now opposed by Lynn Stambaugh, former American Legion national commander, and Rep. Burdick [R., N. D.], Langer's political protege. The primary election will be held next Tuesday.

The senate committee had announced Williams appeared before the committee June 12, but the nature of his testimony was not revealed. Williams insisted upon being subpenaed for the hearing.

Declines to Release Testimony.

Today the committee issued a carefully worded statement asserting it "has received testimony concerning an alleged attempt to induce a candidate to file in the North Dakota primary."

"The facts as alleged," the statement continued, "would constitute a serious violation of election laws and the committee has decided not to release the testimony taken until a more thoro investigation has been made."

Members of the committee are Senators Green [D., R. I.] who is chairman, Ferguson [R., Mich.], Ball [R., Minn.], Tunnell [D., Del.], and Stewart [D., Tenn.].

Meeting in Capital.

Williams told the committee, it was learned, that the meeting at which attempts were made to induce De Witt to run took place in the Hamilton hotel, Washington, D. C., Sept. 14, 1943. Present were Williams, De Witt, Langer, McSheehan, and three other North Dakota Disabled American Veterans officials.

Williams is reported to have told the committee the Disabled Veterans [De Witt is an officer in the organization] were in Washington to discuss veterans' legislation with Langer before proceeding to their national convention in New York.

Langer and McSheehan came to their room, according to Williams' reported story, and said he was going to make one of them the next senator from North Dakota, naming De Witt.

Denied League Indorsement.

Williams was reported to have said he then asked Langer if De Witt would receive the indorsement of the Nonpartisan league, the North Dakota Republican faction headed by Langer. Langer was alleged to have replied no, that would have to go to Oscar Ericson, state insurance commissioner. Ericson is now running for reelection, Burdick having subsequently received the league's indorsement.

Langer reportedly said that if De Witt didn't win, he would be "taken care of" by being made a United States marshal.

Williams is reported to have intimated De Witt was suggested as a candidate only to split the primary vote allowing the league candidate to win over Nye. He declined to say, it is reported, whether he believed Stambaugh, now running independently, had been induced to run by Langer.

Nye Was "Obnoxious."

Williams is said to have attributed to Langer a statement that he had to beat Nye because Nye was "obnoxious" to him in Washington and that he [Langer] "couldn't get any place" as long as Nye was in Washington.

Williams is said to have testified he told Langer it was a "tragic thing" for Langer to try to induce Williams' disabled comrades to be political footballs. Langer then left the hotel room with tears in his eyes, Williams reportedly said.

Williams was reported to have told the committee McSheehan was not a North Dakotan. He is said to have told the senators Langer introduced McSheehan as general counsel in Washington for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company and an assistant United States attorney general in the Wilson administration.

McSheehan told Williams, according to Williams' reported testimony, that he had $10,000 in his pocket the night he and Langer visited the veterans and that it was "Democratic money."

Williams was alleged to have denounced Langer's offer so vehemently that when the conference was over Langer wasn't interested in De Witt or discussing $10,000 with anybody. All he wanted was to get out gracefully, Williams is said to have told the committee.

G. O. P. National Convention Notes

One thousand persons are expected to attend the dinner in honor of Gov. Green to be held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House tonight.

Gov. Green's courtesy committee will welcome and entertain officials, delegates, and visitors, starting with a get-together party in the Stevens hotel tomorrow night. More than 300 persons have offered their cars and will drive visitors with extra gas authorized by the office of price administration.

Convention parking is prohibited in Warren and Washington blvds. from Paulina st. to Damen av. and in Michigan av. between Balbo dr. and 8th st. Official automobiles will be parked at the west end of the Stadium, credentials to be furnished by T. P. Sullivan, in charge of traffic and transportation.

Western Union Telegraph company yesterday completed installation of facilities capable of sending 6,525 words a minute from the Chicago Stadium. There are 50 teletype machines and 100 Morse code transmitters.

Jack Peterson, assistant attorney general of Illinois, said he was a little disappointed because he could not find Ancel Whissenand of Jasper county. The reason Whissenand didn't come to the Republican convention, Peterson admitted, is because he is a Democrat.

Deneen Watson, who ran slowly for United States senator in the Republican primary, was spending his time hopefully in the Stevens hotel. Watson, who was running Eric Johnston for President until Johnston said he wished Watson wouldn't, was asked how his candidate was coming. It developed that it is difficult to run a fellow who is in Russia and doesn't want to run.

Rep. Dirksen, who reports he is running for President, but whose friends say he is a candidate for Vice President, was exuding cheer about the Stevens hotel.

Riley A. Bender, who got his name on the Illinois Presidential primary ballot and received 37,000 votes, was about pointing out that his vote exceeded the combined vote of Dewey, Stassen, and Willkie in Wisconsin. He also reported that he beat Dirksen in the latter's home district. He neglected, however, to point out that Dirksen's name was not on the ballot.

An electrically operated bookkeeping machine will replace a dozen tally clerks in counting the vote at the Republican convention. It is arranged to record the vote for 20 candidates at the same time and total the vote as the roll call proceeds.

After putting 5,000 gallons of paint and 160,000 feet of lumber in the job, Thomas D. Garry, in charge of the installation, announced the Stadium is in readiness for the opening session of the convention.

BUSBEY URGES BAN ON REDS AT GOP CONVENTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Rep. Busbey [R., Ill.] today urged the Republican national convention to prohibit the attendance of Communists at its sessions in Chicago next week.

In a letter to chairman Spangler of the Republican national committee, Busbey urged the convention to adopt a resolution barring "all Communists, and all those who have followed the communist line or have indicated by their behavior that they are subservient to the dictates of Communists."

The congressman said the issue in the coming campaign will be Republican constitutional government versus a New Deal regimented dictatorship.

"Inasmuch as the control of the Democratic party," Busbey wrote, "seems to be securely lodged in the hands of the CIO political action committee, Communists, and New Dealers, the people of this country have no one else to look to but the Republican party to save our republican form of government."

BYRD DEMANDS: CUT 300,000 OFF U. S. PAY ROLLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] today called upon the senate to direct Man Power Commissioner McNutt to fire 300,000 government payrollers.

Byrd offered a resolution for the action by McNutt after submitting a blistering report on behalf of the Byrd house and senate joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures, of which he is chairman. It showed that there are now 3,305,460 government civilian payrollers.

And, the report warned, the number is steadily increasing, the total increase for the latest four months reported being 47,619.

Demands Action Now.

Byrd gave the administration notice that it had better act at once to reduce the number of federal employes. If it does not, he said, he will demand action on his resolution as soon as congress reconvenes Aug. 1.

Charging the government is the chief hoarder of man power, Byrd's committee sternly rebuked McNutt for not correcting the situation, which the committee chairman called "a national shame."

The war department was singled out for particular censure.

"It is true," said Byrd in presenting the report, "that in the period between July 1, 1943, and Jan. 1, 1944, a reduction in civilian personnel was made by the war department, which has been much publicized. But an investigation which has not been completed will indicate that much of this reduction can be accounted for by the substitution of men and women in uniform who are doing the work previously done by civilian employes."

Finds No Sincere Effort.

Recalling the committee's previous recommendation for a 300,000 cut in government civilian personnel, Byrd said there is not a single agency of the government that is not "grossly over-manned." This, he emphasized, includes the war and navy departments.

Byrd said neither the man power nor the civil service commission has given a satisfactory explanation why the recommended cut has not been made, and told the senate no "sincere effort" has been made to eliminate useless employes.

"With the secretaries of war and the navy and the chairman of the maritime commission advocating a national service law," Byrd said, "and with the induction into the armed services of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers and agricultural workers, it is an outstanding fact that the government has signally failed to utilize efficiently the great reservoir of man power represented in the more than three million civil service employes.

Unfair to Citizens.

"It is grossly unfair to the millions of citizens who are subject to governmental direction, both in the enlistment of their personnel in the services and the utilization of their employes for the best interest of their country, to have a different standard of dealing with the employes in the federal service."

The report brought the statistics up to May 1.

It showed that 30 government agencies added a total of 47,619 employes during the first four months of the year, and Byrd commented:

"It should be understood that these figures do not include a single man in uniform doing clerical work, nor does it include the thousands of WAVES, WACs, and SPARS doing clerical work.

Examples of increases in April were:

Department of Agriculture, 2,056, raising the total to 82,071, in addition to which the department has 75,000 part time employes. Treasury department, 1,723, raising the total to 92,093. Office of war information, 668, raising the total to 7,201. Office of price administration, 1,173, raising the total to 59,015.

McNutt's man power commission itself had an increase of 229, making a total of 26,075.

While the committee is concerned principally with man power, its report said the elimination of 300,000 employes would save the taxpayers $700,000 a year.

Cashier Held Up

Mrs. Alice Iwicki in currency exchange which was robbed yesterday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Police last night were seeking two masked bandits who invaded the Chicago Kedzie currency exchange, 3150 Chicago av., yesterday morning, scooped up nearly $15,000, and fled after firing a shotgun blast into the wall.

Mrs. Alice Iwicki, 34, of 6129 S. Fairfield av., the cashier, told police the men ran into the exchange a few minutes after an armored car had delivered $10,000 in currency. She said the robbers raced up to the cage and began pounding at the bulletproof glass with their heavy hammers. She dropped to the floor beside the telephone and called "police" to the operator before she became faint, she said.

When the men had hacked a hole thru the window, Mrs. Iwicki said, one told his companion to get busy. The smaller of the two climbed thru the aperture and began stuffing his pockets with bills. He then picked up the money bag which had just been delivered and the two fled, she said.

AFL UNION SUED FOR DELAYING WAR CONTRACTS

Baltimore, Md., June 23 (AP).—A Maryland contracting firm, the James Gibbons Co., engaged in work on airports and highways filed suit for $500,000 damages in federal court today against an American Federation of Labor union, charging a strike of employes had interfered with essential war work.

The concern charged the strike was called on June 7 following company insistence on a collective bargaining election and "without giving the notice and carrying out the procedure required by the war labor disputes act," and still is in progress.

Named defendants were the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, the local union, local President Harry Cohen and others. Attorneys for the company said they believed it was the first suit of its kind brought under the Smith-Connally act.

CIO Election Petition Is Denied Wallpaper Firm

The national labor relations board yesterday announced it had dismissed a petition by a CIO union for a plant election at the United Wallpaper company mills, 3930 Federal st., where a strike June 1 crippled production. The firm has a closed shop agreement with an AFL union and the strike followed dismissal of 15 workers who refused to join the latter union.

Mayor Kelly's Brother Gets Wedding License

Stephen J. Kelly, 7724 Normal av., supervising engineer for the board of education and brother of Mayor Kelly, obtained a license yesterday to marry Ida J. Keating. Kelly introduced his prospective bride to the mayor, who said he understood she is a nurse from Bloomington.

WINS TRIBUNE PIN FOR DEVICE SPEEDING 'FORTS'

STUDEBAKER DAY.

Today is Studebaker day at the War Products exhibit at Tribune Tower. The event is dedicated to workers of the Studebaker corporation. There will be a concert by the Navy Pier band from 12:15 to 12:45 p. m., to be broadcast by W-G-N from 12:30 to 12:45. The Tribune War Workers award will be broadcast in ceremonies at the bandstand from 1:30 to 1:45 p. m. over W-G-N.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Charles M. Caldwell, 63 year old toolmaker in the Chicago aviation engine plant of the Studebaker corporation, this afternoon will receive the Chicago Tribune War Workers' award for May for service to his country on the production front. Presentation of the award — symbolized by a diamond studded gold victory pin—will be the high spot of Studebaker day being observed today at the War Products show at Tribune Tower.

Charles M. Caldwell.

Col. John G. Salsman, chief of the army air forces materiel command in the midwest, will present the award to Caldwell in a broadcast over station W-G-N from 1:30 to 1:45 p. m. Visitors to the Tribune war show will have the opportunity of watching the broadcast which will be given on the bandstand at the War Show.

Device Speeds Engines.

Caldwell's achievement was the development of a device that helps speed production of engines for the army air force's mighty Flying Fortresses. One of the Wright engines built by Studebaker for the "Forts" is one of the most popular exhibits at the War Show.

The Caldwell device saves long hours of tedious work and a substantial amount of money on the replacement of cutting edges used on tools that make parts for the "Fort" engines.

Hard Cutting Tips.

Cutting tips on tools at the Studebaker plant are made of tungsten carbide, an extremely hard material. When a tip came off the tool it meant an extremely tedious job of replacement under the old system.

"The success of the new device—it's really a fixture—lies in its ability to hold cutting tips firmly in place while they are being soldered to the tool in slots previously prepared," Caldwell explained. "The fixture consists of a circular base to which are fitted finger-like devices which exert pressure against the tips while heat is applied to the silver solder used."

Caldwell was born on a farm near New Holland, Ill. He went to high school at New Holland and attended the University of Illinois for a time. He lives with his wife, Harriett, at 6113 Kimbark av. For many years he had an interest in a small factory at Champaign, Ill., which produced electrical equipment.

PLANE MISHAP FATAL TO PILOT IN ENGLAND, PARENTS ARE ADVISED

Lt. Charles W. Starck, 23, of 6924 Sheridan rd., pilot of a Thunderbolt fighter, died May 31 at Ringwood, England, of injuries suffered May 29 in an aircraft accident, the war department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Starck. A graduate of Senn High school and student in Illinois Institute of Technology, he received his wings at Marianna, Fla., Dec. 5, 1943, and went overseas last April. Also surviving are a sister, Sgt. Jane of the WACs, and a brother, Thomas, a senior in Senn High school. A memorial mass will be said at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Jerome's church.

GUFFEY LASHED ON SENATE FLOOR FOR 'COWARDICE'

Attack on Sick Colleague Stirs Storm.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.] suffered such a rebuke today as rarely has been heard in the senate after the Pennsylvania New Dealer had attacked ailing Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.] in an effort to offer a Roosevelt administration defense of Sidney Hillman, Philip Murray, and the CIO political action committee.

Sen. Byrd.

The rebuke came from a member of Guffey's own party, Sen. Byrd [D., Va.]. Byrd called the senate's attention to the fact that Guffey made his attack while Bailey was out of the city, ill and then shouted:

"It is said that the senator from Pennsylvania has the political hide of a rhinoceros. But when Josiah Bailey gets thru with him, he will hang that hide up on the wall of the senate, and I hope all the members will be present to listen, because it will be a rare exhibition."

New Deal Work Protested.

The rough and tumble battle today had its beginning May 9, when Bailey protested to the senate the New Deal activities of Hillman's political action committee. Bailey told the senate then of a report by the Dies committee on un-American activities of the Hillman organization and discussed the CIO, which is headed by Murray.

Bailey threatened to bolt the Democratic party if it permitted Hillman and "the Communist crew" to assume the party leadership.

Guffey gave the administration's blessing today to Hillman and Murray and twitted Bailey, according to the interpretation of other senators, about Dies committee members who will not be in the next congress.

Dies Among Group.

One of these is Chairman Dies [D., Tex.], who is retiring because of illness. His enemies have sought to show that he fears defeat at the polls.

By indirection, Guffey linked Bailey's name with that of Hermann Goering, commander of the Nazi air force. With what some senators said was sarcasm, Guffey said he doubted that Bailey based his communist accusations on the files of "a certain committee." [Guffey did not name the Dies committee.]

"Neither," Guffey went on, "do I believe that the senior senator from North Carolina has assumed, even unconsciously, the attitude attributed to the Nazi leader, Hermann Goering, who, when shown a secret file which proved that one of his [Goering's] private secretaries was what they called non-Aryan, indignantly retorted: 'See here. I'm the man in Germany who decides who is a Jew.'"

Guffey Tells Contributions.

Guffey said he himself might be a Communist in Bailey's view, since Guffey subscribes to PM, a Marshall Field publication known in New York as the uptown edition of the Daily Worker, official organ of the Communist party, and has contributed to movements accused of communistic bias.

Guffey then read a letter from a North Carolina resident who made a point of the fact that Bailey was editor of a Baptist publication in the '90s and did not then always see eye to eye with the Democrats.

Following are the highlights of Byrd's reply to Guffey:

"I have never heard a more bitter, vindictive, and I think untruthful attack made upon an absent senator.

"The senator from North Carolina has been absent for some weeks because of the necessity for an operation. The senator from Pennsylvania knew the senator from North Carolina was not here today when he made this attack.

"Bun-Out" Habit Cited.

"I see that the senator from Pennsylvania has returned to the chamber. [Guffey had left after his speech.] I wish to say in his presence that we southerners do not appreciate being lectured by the senator from Pennsylvania. If the senator from Pennsylvania is seeking to create disunity and destroy the Democratic party in the south, he could not do more than he has attempted to do today.

"The senator from Pennsylvania has the habit of attacking other senators and then leaving the chamber. But, as long as he is present, I wish to say he has made a cowardly attack on an absent senator, who was not on the floor because of illness.

"If we are to read, on the floor of the senate, charges made about senators by others, I can read charges which have come to me about the senator from Pennsylvania. I have a great stack of charges about him."

DIVORCED WIFE OF F. D. R.'S SON WEDS HIS PILOT

Secret Service Agent Stands Guard.

Fort Worth, Tex., June 23 [Special]. — While two of President Roosevelt's grandchildren watched the proceedings under the eye of a secret service agent, their mother, Mrs. Ruth Googins Roosevelt, was married here today to Lt. Col. H. T. Eidson, former pilot for her divorced husband, Col. Elliott Roosevelt.

The bride, who obtained a final divorce decree from the President's son last April 18 on charges of cruelty and desertion, is a member of a wealthy Fort Worth family. The bridegroom's home is in Indianapolis, Ind., where his father is a railroad engineer.

The bride is the daughter of the late Joseph B. Googins, a former Chicagoan who was manager of the Fort Worth plant of Swift & Co. He died in 1922.

The brief ceremony was held in St. Andrew's Episcopal church 15 minutes after Col. Eidson had obtained the marriage license at the Tarrant county courthouse. The ages of both were given as 34.

Bride Stockingless.

The bride was stockingless. Her clothes were a symphony in blue—hat, pumps, and taffeta dress. Her only jewelry was a diamond pin at the neck of her dress.

Two of Mrs. Roosevelt's three children, Ruth Chandler, 10, and Elliott Jr., 8, sat in a front pew on either side of their maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Googins. A secret service agent, guarding the President's kin, sat in the last pew.

Young Ruth broke into tears as she emerged from the church. Her brother, known to the family as Tony, looked solemn. Their brother, David, 2, wasn't present.

Eidson Injured in Crash.

The air force officer was injured last Nov. 27 when his airplane crashed as he was flying from the United States to Italy. His injuries included a fractured leg, which he supported with a cane today. He had been a patient of Lawson General hospital at Atlanta, Ga.

Col. Eidson was awarded the distinguished flying cross for heroism on a photographing mission over 2,500 miles of enemy territory at treetop level in the North Africa area. He also piloted Col. Roosevelt, who commanded the photographic group, on many missions during the opening phases of the African campaign. Col. Roosevelt is now in England.

Miss Mary Ruth Googins, a niece of the bride, said Mrs. Roosevelt met Col. Eidson during the summer of 1942 when the photo reconnaissance group to which both he and Col. Roosevelt were attached was organized at Colorado Springs, Colo.

LONDON PAPERS PLAY UP G. O. P.'S MEETING HERE

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—The British press has begun to show intense interest in political maneuvers in the United States preliminary to the opening of the Republican national convention.

The Daily Telegraph's Washington correspondent sent a three column story that was published on the editorial page. It was devoted to explaining the methods of nominating a Presidential candidate, but gave Britons the comforting assurance that Thomas E. Dewey, second only to Wendell L. Willkie in popularity here, has the nomination in the bag. The majority of papers agree on this, and it is interpreted here to mean that even if President Roosevelt should be defeated his foreign policy and his promises to Britain and the world will be fulfilled.

Circumstances "Baffling."

The London Times devoted a column and a half editorial to the Republican ticket and said the Republican party was meeting in Chicago in circumstances "more baffling than it has known since it first met in Chicago in 1860 and nominated a comparatively obscure Illinois lawyer [Lincoln] over such great national figures as [William H.] Seward and [Salmon P.] Chase."

Overshadowing the convention, the Times said, are the battles in "Normandy, Italy, and the Pacific." "In the face of the invasion of Europe, with the thronging political, military, and economic questions that it brings home to American hearths and hearts, the political ideal of an average, typical, safe man in the White House may well seem inadequate," the Times said.

The Weekly Economist in its American survey warned that Dewey's nomination was not yet in the bag. It said: "Dewey's strength still falls short of the necessary majority by 138, and the general assumption that he will be nominated may possibly be upset."

Roosevelt "Compromised."

Roosevelt, it claimed, already has compromised himself on a foreign policy by making public his "thought on the nature of an international organization to preserve the peace."

Gov. Bricker is the "chief victim of this change of emphasis," the Times asserted, because he is known as a "regular" which in ordinary times was a great asset, but not in these times, which call for "skilful and daring statesmanship."

The Times continued:

"It is developments like these, combined with skilful management, that have built Dewey into a near certainty, into what Grant was in 1880 or Blaine in 1884." It noted parenthetically that "Grant was not nominated and Blaine was not elected."

Dewey Has "Moved On."

Dewey, the Times said, is a much more important candidate than he was in 1940. It recalled that he was the first Republican to be elected governor of New York since 1920 and asserted that "to shake the President's control of his own state" was no mean achievement. What seemed more pleasing to the Times, however, was that "Dewey has moved on from the hesitant isolationism of 1940."

The Times discussed other Presidential possibilities. Harold E. Stassen, it said, "in policy and forthrightness has been the main representative of the ideas we associate here with Willkie."

Boy, 13, Drowns Trying to Cross Park Lagoon

Joseph Saia, 13, of 1124 W. 62d st., was drowned yesterday when he attempted to swim across the Jackson park lagoon. He called for help and Russell Waterman, 30, of 6151 S. Spaulding av., went to his aid. Waterman dived from a rowboat, recovered the body, and applied artificial respiration, but the boy could not be revived. Young Saia had been swimming in the lagoon with his brother, Anthony, 14, and Arthur Martin, 14, of 8042 South Park way.

CONGRESS TAKES VACATION, WILL COME BACK AUG. 1

Calendar Cleared in Both Houses.

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Congress left Washington today for a five week vacation after a six month session devoted largely to charting the course for return to normalcy when peace comes. The house and senate will reconvene Aug. 1.

Reflecting the belief of many of its members that the major battles of the war will have been won in the not too distant future, congress rushed thru in the final days of the session legislation to expedite the return of industry to civilian production and put a one year limitation, to June 30, 1945, on the extended life of the war time price, rent, and wage control act.

The business legislation was designed to expedite settlement of terminated war contracts and give industry quick capital for conversion to civilian production.

Aid Voted to Veterans.

Fully half of the six month meeting was spent blueprinting a program of aid to returning service men. The main measures give them mustering out pay, and provides, thru the "G. I. bill of rights," a program for their restoration to civilian life thru educational and job opportunities, hospitalization, and loans.

Congress passed a soldier ballot law to expedite voting by members of the armed services abroad, resolving a bitter controversy in favor of giving the individual states the maximum of control over the absentee voting.

66 Billions for War.

On the other side of the financial picture, appropriations fell to the lowest figure since the war started, aggregating approximately $66,000,000,000 in new money, compared with last year's $114,564,008,594 and a record of $147,071,208,961 the year before. Largest single allotment went to the navy, which received $27,569,798,301, almost the same as last year. The navy appropriation bill was signed by President Roosevelt today.

The army's share fell to $15,434,814,795, plus some $33,000,000,000 left over from previous appropriations. This season's appropriations, however, boosted to an estimated $220,000,000,000 the war and defense funds authorized in appropriations and obligations since July 1, 1940.

The dramatic highlight of the session came on Feb. 22, when the President tartly vetoed the $2,300,000,000 second war time tax bill. The administration had asked for $10,500,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt's sharply worded message led to the bitterest break between the White House and congress since he took office, with senate majority leader Barkley of Kentucky, the "Dear Alben" of past years, parting company temporarily with his White House chief. Congress overrode the veto and put the legislation on the law books.

ARMCHAIR OFFICERS VOLUNTEER AND GO TO WAR WITH REPORTERS

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—United States army public relations officers normally are arm chair chaps, but a group of them now are deep in front line war in France. They all volunteered to become the army's first specially-trained conducting officers for front line war correspondents.

They include Capt. Robert Casey Dempsey, 33, Urbana, Ill.; Lt. John Hanssen, 35, Davenport, Ia., and Lt. Ross Hazeltine, 26, Columbus, Ind.

Lt. Robert Hibbard, 31, 7632 Euclid av., Chicago, news scrip writer for radio station W-G-N, another of the conducting officers, expects to be assigned to the invasion soon.

RUSSIANS GAIN IN BIG OFFENSIVE AGAINST NAZIS

LONDON, June 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Red army crashed into German lines on two sides of the fortified city of Vitebsk in White Russia yesterday, opening the long expected soviet summer offensive, and early today Moscow announced that "enormous losses" had been inflicted on the enemy.

The westward onslaught, which the German radio said actually opened on Thursday, third anniversary of the Nazis' declaration of war against Russia, was on a mighty scale, with artillery and aircraft joining in hours of terrific bombardment before the infantry started forward, a supplement to the Russian bulletin stated.

Double Blow Struck

The Red troops struck northwest and southeast of Vitebsk, near the center of the 2,000 mile long eastern front, and in the first day gained nearly 10 miles and liberated more than 150 localities.

Carving swiftly thru enemy defenses, the twin offensive cut the last railway line connecting German troops in Vitebsk to the rear, and battered German fortified positions into a tangle of debris.

The supplemental bulletin said: "The enemy is suffering enormous losses. German trenches and battlefields are littered with Hitlerite corpses, smashed equipment, and material. Our troops captured booty and prisoners."

Gain on Wide Fronts.

An earlier Russian bulletin said the Russians had gained seven and one-half to nine and one-half miles on a 19 mile wide front northwest of Vitebsk and five to six miles on a 16 mile wide front southeast of Vitebsk.

The Russians' new drive, along the Smolensk-Orsha road which Napoleon traversed more than 100 years ago, did not diminish the fierce fighting on the Finnish fronts and the supplement said that Red troops continued to swarm across the Svir river between Lakes Ladoga and Onezhskoe [Onega], and to advance north of Viipuri at the top of the Karelian isthmus.

8 Red Attacks Indicated.

From the sector north of Lake Onezhskoe to the area northwest of Tarnopol, in old Poland, the Russians appeared to be pressing at least eight attacks. Besides those in the Vitebsk region and against the Finns, Moscow and Berlin mentioned assaults in the Pskov-Ostrov sector, in the Mogilev district, northwestward from the Pripyat [Pripet] marshes toward Pinsk, and finally on a line pointed toward Lwow in old Poland.

[The German radio said early today that Nazi combat planes had intervened in the "bitter fighting at many points on the Karelian isthmus and smashed repeated soviet attempts to break thru." It said also that Finnish fighter planes had sunk two large ships and several small ones on Lake Ladoga and that the Finns had shot down eight soviet planes.]

Moscow's supplemental bulletin said soviet torpedo planes sank three enemy transports totaling 12,000 tons in the Baltic sea on Wednesday night.

Murder Verdict Returned in Slaying of Druggist

A verdict of murder was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Ben Brussell, 50, of 817 Lakeside pl., who was shot and killed June 14 in his drug store at 1658 Roosevelt rd. Joseph Falcone, 1140 S. Marshfield av., testified he had seen a short, stocky Negro, carrying a smoking pistol, flee from the vicinity after the shooting, but clerks and customers in the store said they had not seen the slayer. Police said they believed the slayer was a robber.

PROPOSES COALITION POLISH GOVERNMENT WHEN LAND IS FREED

The desirability of a temporary coalition government in Poland, which would operate from the time the Nazis are driven out to the day when the Polish people could freely express their will, was suggested yesterday by Oscar Lange, Polish-American professor of economics at the University of Chicago, at a luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House.

Dr. Lange, who visited Russia this spring at the invitation of the Union of Polish Patriots [an organization of Poles in Russia] and with the coöperation of the soviet government, and who interviewed Premier Stalin May 17, explained that such a coalition government would consist of representatives of the Union of Polish Patriots, of the democratic members of the Polish government in exile [in London], and of the two main divisions of the Polish underground—that which supports and that which opposes the London government.

"This would give Poland a government on a broad basis," he said, "and would avoid a civil war which might under other circumstances take place."

7 NAZI OFFICERS REPORTED SLAIN FOR HITLER JIBES

New York, June 23 (AP).—The office of war information today said a captured document issued by the German high command showed that seven officers in the German army had been executed for "breach of their oath of allegiance to the Fuehrer by slandering, mocking, and insulting his person," among other charges.

"Declaring that "mercy for saboteurs and traitors to the Fuehrer and his work is out of the question," the document said that in the event of the discovery of more opposition to Hitler, "an inquiry will be made to see whether superior officers have failed to carry out their duty in the field of National Socialist leadership and ideological training."

The document said Hitler had ratified the death sentences against the seven officers. OWI said the paper was captured in Italy.

TRAVELERS TELL OF GUATEMALAN STUDENT STRIKE

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, June 23 (AP).—Travelers arriving from Guatemala today reported that a general student strike had broken out this morning in the National university. They said they believed that it was an initial public reaction to presidential suspension of constitutional guarantees.

The strike, the travelers added, was called for the ostensible purpose of ousting the rector, Ramor Calderon, but informed sources said they considered that might be the beginning of a general passive resistance in the San Salvadorean pattern to force President Jorge Ubico to resign.

Guatemalans here say that Ubico suspended the constitutional guarantees in anticipation of the passive resistance, which was to have begun June 30, when an undisclosed number of persons had agreed not to attend the official celebrations of the anniversary of the 1871 revolution.

FLIGHT LEADER MISSING ON HIS 47TH MISSION

Lt. Louis W. Bishop.

Lt. Louis W. Bishop, a flight leader attached to a fighter squadron of the Sky Dragons, has been reported as missing in action in the Asiatic theater of operations, the war department notified his father, William Bishop of 203 Grace st., Bensenville. It was the lieutenant's 47th mission over Burma from which he failed to return, his father said he had been informed. His father said his son had realized his ambition when he began flying, namely to take off against the Japs from the flying fields used by the Flying Tigers. He was using one of these fields when he made his last mission, Bishop said.

YANKS CAPTURE KEY CHERBOURG HILL POSITIONS

Storm Up Heights Mile East of Port.

Use Self-Propeled Guns.

The Nazis used self-propelled guns which they switched about in narrow forest lanes. It was necessary to knock out these guns and dig suicide squads out of pillboxes. Bayonets, hand grenades, and flame throwers were used.

One of the points of fiercest fighting was the Maupertus airdrome near the coast and five miles east of Cherbourg, but capture of the Tourlaville heights cut it off. Another was the ammunition dumps at Gonneville.

A headquarters spokesman said that the rapid advance up the peninsula had made the capture of Cherbourg to some extent more difficult. He pointed out that had the Yanks only the garrison troops in the base to contend with, there was little doubt that they would have taken the port by this time. However, two new field divisions moved into the area before the Yanks cut off the peninsula and, when certain of these field formations tried to break out southward the Americans repulsed them and thus added to the concentrations in the Cherbourg area.

It was stated that if the Americans had been only 12 hours later in cutting the peninsula some of these German units would have got away to the south. Altho the allies made their job harder, the spokesman said, they made the prize greater because of the elements of the 12 divisions which now are doomed.

Defenses Still Strong.

The spokesman said that altho the Cherbourg defenders might be able to hold out for a day or two, they certainly would not be able to stand any great amount of attrition. Most of the Germans in Cherbourg were said to be men over 40. They cannot be reenforced nor do they have the food or equipment to launch a counter-attack.

The last inland defenses of Cherbourg itself were described as better than those at Tunis or Bizerte, but not nearly as strong as those in the Crimea or along the Normandy invasion beachhead where the allies blasted their way into France.

So far there has been no great bag of prisoners, but that is expected to come in the final collapse of the port and probably will more than double the present total of some 15,000 captured in the whole invasion campaign.

The rest of the Normandy front remained primarily static as it had been for a week. The Americans pushed a slight wedge south of St. Lo-d'Ourville near the west coast 20 miles below Cherbourg.

A German tank attack was beaten off by the British near Longraye, nearly four miles southwest of Tilly-sur-Seulles.

[One German broadcast said the allies had landed air borne troops near Granville at the west base of the Cherbourg peninsula some 35 miles beyond American positions in the St. Lo-d'Ourville area. There was no allied confirmation.]

New Fighting Flares.

On the British end of the front heavy fighting was said to have flared up near Ste. Honorine-La Chardonnerette, four miles northeast of Caen.

German units caught in the Cap de la Hague on the western side of Cherbourg also were threatened with early doom.

Carneyville, a mile and a half from the sea and two miles north of Maupertus, was captured during the day.

The German overseas radio claimed that the Nazis recaptured a number of fortifications taken by the Americans earlier on the eastern sector. It also said that the British tried to land a fresh supply of tanks in the area of the Orne estuary, and claimed that "five of the tank transports were sunk and the tanks which had already been landed were set on fire." The German telegraph service declared that in the Carentan sector "German parachute troops made a thrust into American artillery positions where they blew up five super heavy trench mortars."

TROOPS ON WAY FROM U. S. TO FRANCE: BERLIN

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—The Berlin radio said tonight that "fresh troops are on the way from the United States, to be landed directly in France."

"The allies are trying to capture Cherbourg with the utmost speed because fresh troops are on the way from the United States who will be landed directly in France," a military spokesman was quoted. "Concentrations now assembled in Britain are to be used for the invasion of northern France and Belgium."

Indications that the Germans were concerned with a possible strike at Holland were seen in reports to "Vrij Nederland," Dutch newspaper published in London, saying the Nazis were making "desperate last minute preparations, including the building of all manner of obstacles and formation of special corps, called explosion Commandos, who mine, wire, and blow up evacuated buildings" in a scorched earth policy.

Hellmich 3d General Lost by Germans in Normandy

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Heinz Hellmich whose death was announced in yesterday's German bulletin, was the third German general killed in action since the Normandy invasion began. The Germans previously announced that artillery Gen. Eric Marcks and Maj. Gen. Fritz Witt, commander of the 10th [Hitler Youth] panzer division, had been killed on the invasion front.

Battle line and developments yesterday. Inset: Other fighting in Normandy.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 23 (AP).—Tonight's allied war bulletin, the 36th of the invasion, said:

"Pressure on the Cherbourg defenses is increasing. Patrols east of Cherbourg are finding little opposition in the sector between Cap Levy and Saint Vaast.

"Local fighting continues in the Caen-Tilly area.

"Early this morning an escorted convoy was intercepted south of Jersey [island] by light coastal forces. One enemy armed trawler was sunk. One of the convoy was left ablaze and damage was inflicted on the remainder by gunfire.

"The weather restricted air operations this morning. Fighters and fighter-bombers attacked varied rail targets beyond the battle area, including yards at Mezidon and a junction north of Le Mans. Rail lines south of Tours and Orleans were cut, bridges and tracks at Nantes, La Roche, Saumur, and Nilort and to the east and southeast of Granville were attacked.

"Locomotives and other rail targets in the Paris area and the Chateaubriand area were shot up. Preliminary reports show that 11 enemy aircraft were destroyed. None of ours is missing.

"Heavy day bombers, escorted by fighters, attacked without loss flying bomb installations in the Pas de Calais.

"Coastal aircraft attacked E-boats in the eastern channel, sinking two, probably sinking three more, and damaging several others. A minesweeper was also damaged.

"Reconnaissance photographs show much rolling stock was destroyed in attacks by heavy night bombers on railway yards at Laon and Reims last night. Main lines were effectively blocked at many points by direct hits."

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Following is the German war bulletin broadcast by Berlin yesterday and recorded by the Associated Press in New York:

"The enemy with strong forces started an attack against the land front of Cherbourg yesterday. Fierce fighting in which strong enemy naval, artillery and air formations participated developed, particularly on the southeast and the eastern front of the fortress. Counterthrusts have been started at all points, where some of our centers of resistance within the widespread fortress were lost. Coastal batteries of the army and naval commands joined the battle on the ground all day long and scored direct hits on enemy deployments and concentrations.

"At the remaining front of the landing head there was fighting of local importance only. Our artillery shelled enemy ship concentrations and disembarkations off the landing head. Two enemy freighters were hit, two enemy gunboats in the Orne mouth were forced to turn tail.

"Bombers and torpedo-carrying planes sank two destroyers, one troop transport of 10,000 tons and one freighter of 8,000 tons last night. Two cruisers, two destroyers and three freighters totaling 28,000 tons and another four merchantmen were seriously damaged.

"Seventy-two enemy planes were downed over the Normandy coast and the occupied western zones.

MEDAL OF HONOR IS AWARDED FLYER WHO SAVED 15 UNDER FIRE

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Lt. Nathan G. Gordon, Morrilton, Ark., received the congressional medal of honor today for the daring rescue of 15 flyers from the harbor at Kavieng, New Ireland. The citation said Gordon flew a Catalina flying boat into the harbor after an army bomber had crashed there. Defying fire from Japanese shore guns, he made three landings in a rough sea and picked up nine men, several of them injured. With the flying boat overloaded, he took off only to learn that six more men were on a rubber raft 600 yards from shore. He landed again under heavy fire and rescued them.

BRITISH EXECUTE FORMER BELGIAN OFFICER AS SPY

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—Execution of a 28 year old former Belgian army officer convicted of being a spy in the pay of the German secret service was announced by the British home office today. The office identified him as Pierre Charles Neukermans, and said he was found guilty under the treachery act last month.

Neukermans was the 15th spy executed in Britain in this war and the second this year. The home office gave this account:

He was discharged from the army in Belgium in 1938, and after the German occupation, joined the German secret service, which trained him for espionage in Britain. He came to London posing as a refugee from Nazi oppression and found employment as a clerk in the Belgian government office.

REPORTS NAZIS' OIL DEARTH MAY SHORTEN WAR

LONDON, June 23 (AP).—A spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare said today that Germany's critical oil shortage has crippled the German army's operational mobility on the fighting front and could shorten the war.

Aerial bombardments in the last three months against oil refineries in Romania, Poland, Austria, Hungary and Germany, and attacks on synthetic oil plants in the reich have reduced the German output of liquid fuel from 15 or 16 million tons yearly to about five million, he said.

As a result, the wehrmacht is getting less than half the gasoline it needs, the spokesman added.

GERMAN TRICK ENDED BY TANKS OF CHICAGOAN

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN CASTIGLIONE D'ORCIA, Italy, June 23 (AP).—The Germans have dug machine gun and infantry positions in wheat fields and painted helmets and some equipment pale brown to blend with the grain.

The trick worked briefly. French infantry, marching up a road seven miles east of here, was caught by fire from a grain field. American tanks then came thru the fields like reapers and wiped out the positions. "We are having a real field day with these Jerries," Lt. Bernard Bergman, Chicago, wirelessed to headquarters. He was commanding a tank platoon. Lt. Col. Walter C. Dickey, Des Moines, Ia., tank commander in this area, said a large number of Nazi helmets painted wheat color were without an extended metal piece to protect the back of the neck and were something like the Germans' paratrooper helmets. His outfit has knocked out four tanks this week.

The Nazis sent half a dozen planes over yesterday. "They appeared to be clipped-wing Spitfires," said Maj. Robert C. Erickson, Spartan, Wis.

Invasion Censors Handle 2,281,900 Words in Week

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 23 (AP).—Approximately 2,281,900 words—the equivalent of 22 books—were handled by supreme headquarters censors in the week ended June 18. The censors also handled 37,436 photographs in the same period.

SENATE AGREES ON PROMOTING EX-GOV. DAWLEY

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Sen. Connally [D., Tex.] withdrew today an earlier protest against the promotion of Col. Ernest J. Dawley to the rank of brigadier general, and the senate confirmed the nomination.

Connally said he objected originally because of "reports" reaching him that Col. Dawley, then a temporary major general commanding an army corps at the battle of Salerno, had ordered a battalion to undertake a dangerous mission against the advice of the division commander.

Connally added that Maj. Gen. Dawley subsequently was demoted last September to his permanent rank of colonel on orders of Gen. Eisenhower, returned to the United States, and now is stationed at Camp Hood, Tex.

The senator said he decided to withdraw objections to the promotion after Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, had appeared before the senate military affairs committee in an executive session this morning to "strongly recommend" the promotion. Connally quoted Gen. McNarney as saying it was not the intention of the war department to assign Dawley to a combat command.

HEAR MUSSOLINI HAS A RELAPSE, CALLS HIS SON

CHIASSO, Switzerland, June 23 (AP).—Frontier reports considered reliable said today that Benito Mussolini again had suffered a relapse and had summoned his son Vittorio from Germany and his wife to keep a vigil beside his bed.

The deposed Italian dictator is reported living at Garda lake. He is expected to be taken to Germany should the Nazis withdraw to the Alps.

Concetto Pettinato, editor of the fascist La Stampa of Turin, wrote today that fascism in northern Italy was "at the mercy of the rebellion" as rump government authority dwindled and Partisan strength grew. Pettinato declared that military operations were going badly. Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the fascist party, was reported to have gone to Munich. Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Mussolini's minister of war, was said to have gone to Vienna.

GERMANS ORDER FIGHT TO DEATH FOR CHERBOURG

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH ADVANCED AMERICAN FORCES OUTSIDE CHERBOURG, June 23.—German soldiers, many of them held at their posts by officers' guns, were holding on stubbornly today while three American columns pounded slowly thru the defense belt of the fortress of Cherbourg.

One unit, on a push to the west, reached the shoulders of Mont du Roc, just north of a small forest of the same name, only three and one-half miles from Cherbourg. This represented an advance from the jump off point, which was 1,200 yards behind yesterday's bomb line, of two and one-half miles thru densely covered terrain and strong points.

The German commander at Cherbourg, Gen. Schlieben, has thrown all available men into the defense, including labor battalions, signal units, anti-aircraft crews and even headquarters companies, cooks, and orderlies.

Nazis Describe Scene.

Men from one mixed German naval unit who surrendered early today described their own front line scene. They said that all along in every machine gun nest and every pillbox and at every gun, officers stand with drawn pistols ready to shoot any one who attempts to give up.

They are acting on the direct orders of Von Schlieben, who said:

"Withdrawal from the present positions is punishable by death. I empower all leaders of every grade to shoot on sight any one who leaves his post because of cowardice. The hour is serious. Only willpower, readiness for fighting and heroism to the death can help."

The allied assault, despite artillery and aerial bombing, is again proving that to take these positions you need tough, well-trained doughboys and good leaders. The Germans not only have poured concrete to make strong pillboxes, but have dug deep, well connected and elaborate systems of trenches, dugouts, and individual fighting foxholes.

Bayonets Dig Out Foe.

It means that the ordinary G. I. with gun and bayonet or the barrel of his machine gun must dig these determined men out of their holes. Sometimes the Germans withstand artillery plastering only to pop back to their guns the moment the barrage lifts. This is when our doughboy assault teams go into action.

On the whole, it can be said that the Germans appear to be short on artillery and ammunition. If they had many guns of long range our positions, even from where I write, would have come under fire long ago. But it is apparent he is husbanding what guns he has, using them sparingly and it also appears that he has no resupply of ammunition.

Where we can call for a "serenade" [a concentration of gun fire] on the area suspected of holding a strong point the German has fired only when we give him a definite target.

Nazis Dominate Road.

The Germans' domination of the last high ridge before the city gave them a clear observation down this straight macadam road marked with the motorist aids of the Touring Club of France. And whenever we sent any small convoy forward their guns would range in.

It was the same on the back roads as we worked forward to our advanced positions. Having had years in which to work out every artillery problem for emplaced fortress guns, it was child play for the German gunners to smack bursts over and around us.

The job of collecting news in this sector ceased abruptly while the Nazi shells pinned our group to the sheltering walls of a peasant home. Then, realizing that our shelter was a fine target in itself, we decamped to the rear, having talked ourselves into the need of writing immediately.

EDEN TELLS COMMONS KILLING OF 50 FLYERS WAS A NAZI 'MURDER'

LONDON, June 23 (AP). — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, disclosing to an angry house of commons the official German report on the killing of 50 allied airmen after a prison camp break in Germany last March, today rejected the Nazi explanation and branded the incident a mass murder. He pledged that Britain would track down and bring to justice the "foul criminals" involved.

The killings were first revealed last month in a neutral Swiss report that told of 47 deaths. The official German report, raising the toll to 50, said that all were shot resisting arrest or trying to make a new break after their capture.

[A statement similar to Eden's was read before the Canadian house of commons at Ottawa, Ont., by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.]

A DOG-GONE PET SITUATION SPOILS SALE AT POUND

Lured by Police Commissioner Allman's announcement that the city would sell stray dogs at the dog pound, 34th st. and Lawndale av., 60 children and more than a few adults were waiting there when Harry McCaverty, assistant poundmaster, opened for business yesterday, but the pound was bare.

"There's not a dog in the place fit for a pet," McCaverty told them. "They are all biters or otherwise undesirable." He said the dogcatcher's trucks were scouring the city, however, and he expected to have some nice dogs available at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Allman said Thursday that dogs would be sold on payment of $3 for a license, 50 cents for operating expenses, and 25 cents for each day the dog had been boarded at the pound. Every dog is kept a minimum of five days to be reclaimed by the owner. Allman coined "caninitarian" as the word for persons who induced him to release impounded dogs for sale.

19 RANGERS GET D. S. C.'S; 2 FROM CHICAGO AREA

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 23 (AP).—Nineteen officers and enlisted men of a Ranger battalion, who were in the first assault wave to hit the Normandy beach, received distinguished service crosses at a ceremony at field headquarters today.

The medals were presented in recognition of "extraordinary heroism displayed" when under heavy fire they assaulted the cliffs and beaches and put down three enemy counterattacks.

FRENCH MAQUIS BATTLE NAZIS OVER WIDE AREA

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 23 (AP).—Large German armored, artillery, and air forces are fighting the French underground over a large part of the countryside, a special war bulletin said today.

Systematic disorganization of enemy transport has "contributed directly to the success of allied operations in Normandy," said the bulletin of supreme headquarters. It pictured resistance reaching full battle pitch as the Maquis harrassed and impeded the Nazis.

In some sectors, the Partisans have been forced to give ground, but not without inflicting losses on the enemy, the announcement said.

Many Cuts in Railways.

"In addition," the bulletin said, "numerous engagements are reported from the Pyrenees, the Vosges, Marne, Ardennes, Aisne, and Creuse. Elements of several German divisions and a large number of local defense troops are estimated to have been contained inside France by the action of the resistance forces.

"Many cuts on the railways, and numerous obstacles on roads have effectively hindered the passage of German reinforcements to the beachhead. In this way two armored divisions have been seriously delayed in southwest France. In the Bordeaux region, the Bordeaux-La Rochelle, La Reole-Periguez, and Bayonne-Angouleme railway lines have been sabotaged. . . . Railway cuts also were reported thruout the Rhone valley and in Brittany, the Loiret, Aisne, and the area north of Paris."

Claim Gestapo Chief Slain.

The French press service quoted authoritative French sources as stating that the Gestapo chief, Gissler, in command of the southern France zone, had been executed by French patriots at Murat.

As this all-out underground offensive got under way, a reliable source stated that Gen. Charles de Gaulle, head of the French committee of national liberation, suddenly had reversed his stand and permitted French representatives to serve as liaison officers and governors in liberated sections of France, under supreme headquarters control.

The agreement was said to have been on a day to day basis, and to have brought about without any formal meeting between De Gaulle and Gen. Eisenhower.

Seize Supplies in Town.

PORT BOU, Spain, at the French frontier, June 23 (AP).—Just a week after the Germans moved Vichy's remaining reserves of foreign exchange from the vaults at Chamalieres in central France, strong forces of Maquis raided the town, removing large quantities of supplies belonging to the dissolved Vichy youth front, then retired to the hills again, it was reported here today.

ADJOURN BRIBE TRIAL TO ALLOW STUDY OF BILLS

Mason, Mich., June 23 [Special].—With a mass of testimony in the record regarding bills that died in legislative committees during the 1939 session, Judge John Simpson today adjourned until Monday the trial of 22 men charged with a legislative bribery conspiracy.

The court said the adjournment was ordered to permit defense counsel to study the bills before starting to cross-examine Myles F. Gray, clerk of the house of representatives, who traced the history of bills described by the prosecution as having been opposed by the "small loan" lobby.

Five of the defendants are finance company executives charged with having raised a slush fund with which to bribe the 17 legislative defendants.

Preceding Gray on the stand was Fred I. Chase, senate secretary, who had testified over a two-day period regarding bills killed in senate committees. When asked if he knew of any bribes being paid Sen. Jerry T. Logie [R., Bay City], he answered in the negative.

CHINA TO PASS HER 'DARK HOUR' SAYS WALLACE

CHUNGKING, China, June 23 (AP).—Vice President Wallace today expressed confidence that China can survive "this very dark hour," an indirect reference to the situation in Hunan province where the Japanese have captured Changsha and are driving southward in a drive to split China in two. He said he had several discussions with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and would have more. Correspondents were informed the Vice President would not answer any questions on the forthcoming United States election.

200 REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO BE W-G-N GUESTS

More than 200 wives of delegates and alternates and other women working in connection with the Republican national convention will be studio guests during the broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak. A war map of the Pacific in color on the back page of today's TRIBUNE will illustrate Col. McCormick's address.

The Theater of the Air tonight will present "Starlight Interlude," a story of a soldier wounded on a tropical isle, told in drama and music. The musical portion of the program will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, with Virginia Haskins, soprano, and Bruce Foote, baritone, as soloists.

OPA SEEKS AID OF STATE COURTS ON RENT CASES

The office of price administration yesterday, for the first time in Chicago, sought the aid of state courts to enforce rent control regulations. Seven injunction suits were filed against landlords, four in Superior court, two in Circuit court, and one in the Federal District court. In each the court was asked to force the landlord to register living units with the OPA.

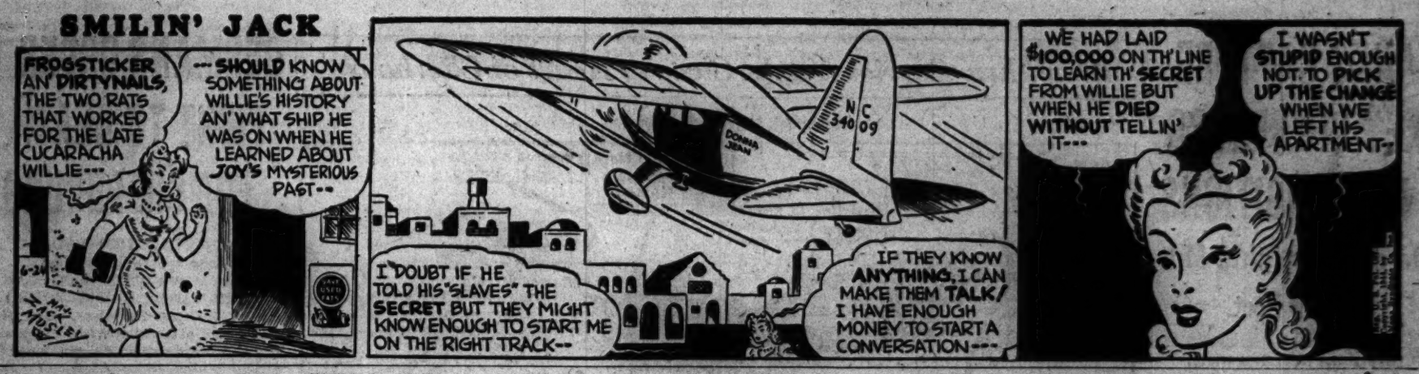
The suit in federal court was filed against Clarence E. Lyon of Barrington. Circuit court suits named Tekla Strysinskas, 6935 S. California av., and Nannie Y. Knox, 4735 S. Champlain av. Defendants in the Superior court suits were J. M. Stone, 2312 Calumet av.; Morris Williams, 4723 S. Champlain av.; Walter and Susie Reynolds, 4641 S. Indiana av., and Gottlieb Stelzer, Forest Park.

Britain and Nazis to Trade 10,000 Civilian Internees

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—Ten thousand British civilians interned in Germany since the war began soon will be exchanged for 10,000 Germans held by Britain, the foreign office said today. An agreement was reached thru the Swiss government. Priority will be given old and sick persons and women and children, and persons of military age will not be exchanged.

SMILIN' JACK



CONDEMNS USING LIBERTY SHIPS TO HAUL TROOPS

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—The senate Truman committee today praised the Liberty ship's contribution to the war as "the truck horse of the sea," but scored its use as a troop carrier or hospital ship.

In its long awaited report on the maritime commission's merchant shipping, the war investigation group declared that "because of its slow speed, necessity for convoy, and the possibility of damage at sea from fractures, the Liberty ship ought not to have been used as a carrier of troops or as a hospital ship."

Those Liberties already converted to transport, it added, should not be used to move soldiers "except in cases of very great emergency, and then only after special precautions are taken to strengthen the ship and to provide adequate convoy protection."

Carried 800,000 Troops.

The committee quoted a war department report that thru conversion of the all welded, one-time "ugly duckling," it "has been able to deploy overseas upward of 800,000 troops that otherwise would not have reached the fighting front" without loss of personnel that could be attributed to the ship.

The committee termed "without merit" the explanation that only 50 troop transports were constructed for 1943 because additional construction would have been "at the expense of the cargo carrying program."

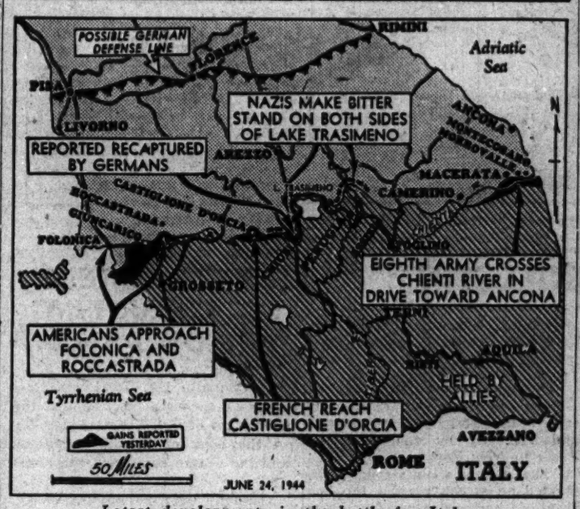
Reporting on its exhaustive inquiry into cracks and other damages to 510 of 2,159 Liberties investigated, the committee found in 240 cases only minor damages corresponding "to a large degree to those that would be encountered in normal ship operation," while 103, or 20.2 per cent could be considered "in the serious classification."

Construction Improved.

Improvement of construction in the latter part of 1943 and early 1944 "have apparently reduced the danger of structural damage," it reported, and it agreed with Adm. Emory S. Land of the maritime commission that available records indicate "more riveted ships than Liberty ships have completely failed structurally."

The report said six Liberty ships have been converted for use as hospital ships, 22 others converted to troop transports, and four others are in process of conversion for that purpose. The navy has taken delivery of 15, of which six are now operating as cargo-troop combinations in limited service and nine are under conversion for that use, and in addition to these, 235 Liberties have been fitted out for transporting 300 to 500 prisoners of war per vessel, the report added.

Nazis Halt Flight in Italy



Latest developments in the battle for Italy.

F. D. R. REBUFFS MOVE TO SET UP FRENCH REGIME

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt today asserted that more of France must be liberated from the Nazis before action is taken to set up civil government administration in that country.

You can't capture a hill a half mile from a town and immediately set up a civil government, he observed.

He made the remarks to a news conference as word came from supreme headquarters of the allied expeditionary force that French officers will do liaison work in France, under control of SHAEF, on a day to day basis.

An Informal Arrangement.

This new cooperation between Gen. De Gaulle and the supreme command was worked out without any formal agreement between the French general and Gen. Eisenhower, a reliable informant told Wes Gallagher of the Associated Press.

President Roosevelt made no direct comment on Gen. De Gaulle's recent action in setting up civil administrators behind the allied lines in France, but he told a questioner that military liberation must come first. The Cherbourg operation is going along according to schedule, he said, but he added that only 1/10th of 1 per cent of France has been retaken by the allies.

July Conference Expected.

Mr. Roosevelt said he has heard indirectly from French sources that De Gaulle hopes to come to Washington, probably between July 6 and 14, second of two dates the President made available to him.

Commenting on the state department's recent action in expelling Hjalmar Procope, the Finnish minister, Mr. Roosevelt remarked that the present Finnish government is allied with Germany and fighting our ally Russia.

The Procope expulsion, he said, raised the question whether this country's foreign policy is on sale for $140,000 and answered himself with an emphatic no. The sum is the approximate amount of the Finnish war debt payment Procope made to this government shortly before the state department ordered him out of the country.

REVEAL MISSING JOLIET ACE IS A NAZI PRISONER

Lt. Carl J. Luksic, 23 year old fighter pilot ace of Joliet, reported missing in action a month ago, has been taken prisoner by the Germans, his relatives learned yesterday thru the international Red Cross. Lt. Luksic, who downed 15 enemy planes during April, was captured uninjured, according to the information. The pilot was last seen March 24 when he leaped by parachute from his disabled plane over enemy lines. Lt. Luksic, with a total of 17 planes to his credit, has been awarded the distinguished service cross, the distinguished flying cross, and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. He also equalled the war combat record of destroying five enemy planes in one day. His wife, Eleanor, after whom he named his plane "Elly's Lucky Boy," lives in Elwood. His parents live at 714 N. Central av., Joliet.

ELGIN BOMBER PILOT KILLED AFTER D-DAY

Second Lt. Craif Alan Gilbert, 25 years old, P-47 Thunderbolt dive bomber pilot who arrived overseas March 1, was killed in action over Europe on June 7, his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Tyler Gilbert, 212 Perry st., Elgin, has been advised. A graduate of Elgin academy, Lt. Gilbert attended University of Illinois before entering service a year and a half ago. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gilbert, Rural Route 3, Elgin. In a letter written June 6th he mentioned participating in D-day and wrote "I wouldn't have missed it for anything in the world."

CENTRAL ITALY GERMANS LASH BACK AT ALLIES

Open Counter-Blows at 8th Army.

ROME, June 23 (AP).—German forces have halted their flight in central Italy and are making a bitter stand against the allied 8th army on both sides of Lake Trasimeno, about 85 miles north and slightly west of Rome, field dispatches reported today.

Eyewitness Tells of Air Battle Near Guam.

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN.

[Representing the combined American Press.]

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP, U. S 5TH FLEET, June 21 [Delayed]—[(AP) via naval radio].—This huge force today completed the rout of the Japanese grand fleet from waters east of the Philippine Islands—without firing a salvo from its formidable battleline or losing a ship.

The first phase of the battle occurred June 19 when planes and anti-aircraft guns of Adm. Raymond Ames Spruance's fleet, within sight of Guam, turned the Jap attack into one of the war's greatest aerial disasters for the axis.

Naturally it was impossible to see much of the first phase which was a series of encounters from 10 a.m. until dark, but part of the battle did rage within sight of the flagship.

2 Enemy Planes Crash.

The first action was the take-off of hundreds of American planes as the Japs were reported approaching. In a few minutes black puffs of anti-aircraft fire appeared over battleships on the horizon.

Almost immediately bomb bursts spouted in the water and two enemy planes started burning in the air and crashed.

The enemy was reported approaching from three sides.

The first attack was repelled on the fringes of the fleet. An hour later more bombers appeared. One crossed our stern under intense anti-aircraft fire and dropped one bomb. It missed. The bomber caught fire when the flagship's 40 mm. shells found it. The plane hesitated like a tired bird and fell slowly into the sea.

Torpedo Bomber Downed.

The fleet turned and twisted but other Japs came in.

A torpedo bomber off our starboard quarter passed over fire of destroyers without apparent hurt, but then calmly banked over the waves and crashed wing down into the sea, afire.

Overhead the war in the clouds went on silently and invisibly, the guns of the ships drowning out that conflict.

Another torpedo plane flew over a destroyer and then died spectacularly, the destroyer blowing it apart. A wing came off and floated down like paper. The engine fell out flaming and the plane dived slowly as a torpedo fell out of its belly end over end.

Spruance Goes to Lunch.

Before noon the air battle was over. Ack-ack still dappled the horizons but no more planes came in. At 12:30 Spruance set the example by going to lunch.

New attacks hit the fringes of the fleet during the afternoon but the battle center moved toward Guam and Rota, Marianas Island to the north, where Americans caught the fuel-less Japs trying to land. There also were fighters there trying to protect the air fields and they were downed.

At dusk the last American planes returned to the circling carriers and added up the incredible score—353 to 21.

Picked Up Later.

Some of the downed American pilots were picked up later. Carriers worked until after dark easing stragglers onto decks.

One landing in full darkness was made on a carrier which proudly flew the lone star flag of Texas under the United States emblem.

By 10 p. m. there were no further alarms, nothing anywhere on the sea as the fleet rushed toward Japanese ships to the westward, nothing except occasional floating wreckage of what had been Nippon's sea based aerial fleet.

This phase ended the immediate threat to the Marianas landings but Spruance was still trying desperately for a surface battle with the Japanese.

Jap Fleet Located.

The Japanese were definitely located the next afternoon by scout planes and a big American bombing and torpedo fleet was launched late in the afternoon to try to reach and slow down the Japanese so that fast battleships could catch them.

Finally, long after dark, planes broke radio silence just once:

"Two carriers smoking."

Then there were more hours of silence.

Then the first planes returned to the blacked-out fleet. First there was one lone bomber circling overhead with landing lights showing on wings. The fleet below sprouted lights—red mast lights on ships, dull landing illumination on carriers, finally one lone powerful searchlight beam thrown up into the sky as a home marking beacon.

More and more planes appeared, more lights covered the sea. [Remember this is halfway between the Marianas and the Philippines and well west longitudinally of Tokyo.]

Within a few minutes the first planes with dry tanks were forced to land on the sea, unable to get aboard the carriers quickly enough. Crewmen of the downed planes clambered on rubber rafts illuminating the sea from every direction.

Planes Circle, Drop.

Starshells fired to aid stragglers hung on the edges of the clouds. Plane lights circled, dropped lower, lower, approached the sterns of flight decks guided by illuminated paddles held by perspiring deck officers. Sometimes they made that perilous last 10 feet safely. Sometimes they were too high as the pilots strained to see in the dark. Then they bounced sickeningly, sometimes wrecked landings gears or smashed into barriers where plane handlers dared whirling propellers to haul wrecks forward so others could land.

The planes returned faster than they could be landed. This flagship changed course a few yards just enough to miss a rubber boat from which frantic signals were coming. The pilot in the boat and men on the rails stared thru the dark at each other as the ship pounded past. Behind us destroyers slowed to pick him up.

Resume Chase.

In a couple of hours it was all over. Ship lights went out and the fleet resumed its almost hopeless chase after the Japs.

Most of the flyers downed because of lack of fuel were picked up during the night or next morning.

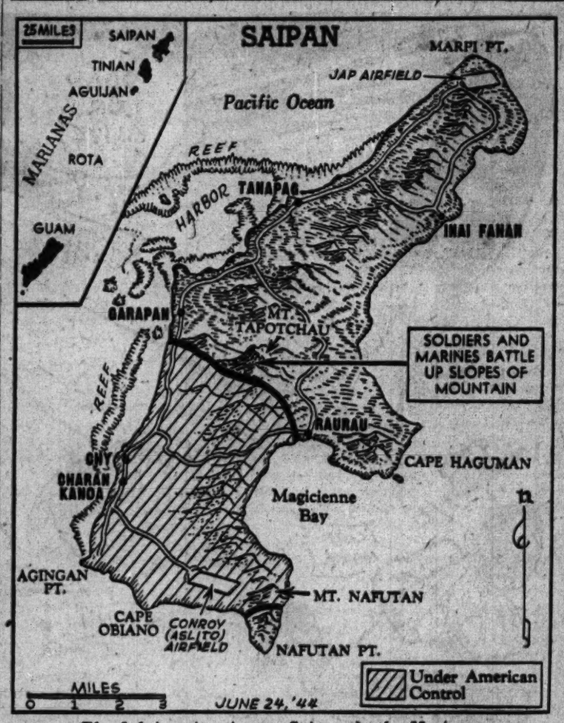
A pilot named Wilkinson said:

"I got on a raft. I saw one Jap carrier blow up. Another with planes on deck was flaming brightly." This report was verified by other pilots.

We never did catch the Jap fleet and today nothing remains anywhere in the waters east of the Philippines except a few pieces of floating wreckage and some huge oil slicks.

The admiral took his customary two-hour walk on deck this afternoon. But his step was a little more springy than it was yesterday.

Battle for Peak on Pacific Isle



The fighting situation on Saipan, in the Marianas.

LIBERATOR BOMBERS SINK OR DAMAGE JAP SHIP OFF NEW GUINEA

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ, New Guinea, June 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—Liberator bombers sank or damaged a 3,000 ton merchantman off the northwestern tip of Dutch New Guinea, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

The attack, made June 22, continued land-based assaults against Sorong, which has been described as Japan's last effective air base on New Guinea.

Five coastal vessels and three barges were sunk or damaged off Sorong June 22. In other attacks, Noemfoor Island—west of American-invaded Biak in Geelvirik bay—Truk, Rabaul, and Buka were bombed.

YANKS DRIVE UP KEY MOUNTAIN OF SAIPAN ISLE

'Going Gets Tougher,' Says General.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands, June 23.—With American marines and army forces pushing up the slopes of Mount Tapotchau toward a climax in the battle for Saipan Island, the commanding general warned, "The going is tough and will get tougher as it goes."

We have outkilled the Jap by a wide margin, he indicated. While our dead in the first eight days of the Saipan operation are fewer than for the first 76 hours of the Tawawa engagement, Japanese losses run into the thousands, he said. An accurate check of enemy casualties is difficult because for the first time the Japanese are hauling their dead to the rear in trucks, the general added.

Hold Nearly Third of Isle.

"We now occupy nearly a third of the island and are pushing up vital Mount Tapotchau, the highest and most valuable terrain feature of this rugged battleground," the general said. "When we get to the top of Topotchau we'll be looking down their throats," he added.

The American commander said that much booty had been taken including weapons and ammunition "now being returned with interest." The booty has swelled the stores of food and clothing for the aid and rehabilitation of the increasing number of civilian internees which now totals more than 2,000.

Among hitherto unreported items was a steel turtleback armor under which Japanese troops crawl on the ground or thru shallow water. Four of these units were captured and were being studied.

Included also among captured materials were 15 tons of Jap mortar ammunition fitting our weapons, which was thrown back at the enemy in a heavy bombardment yesterday; 41 mountain type pieces taken intact; 14 serviceable anti-aircraft guns, and numerous other weapons.

Fighting Spirit Praised.

The general paid high tribute to the fighting spirit of American troops here. He praised also the artillery men for their energy and accuracy and the beach parties who had worked straight thru tirelessly, leanding 9,000 tons yesterday and 7,000 the day before.

The general warned against overoptimism, pointing out that we have yet to meet the bulk of the enemy force, which is excellently dug into mountains which are guarded by steep approaches. It was estimated there were about 20,000 troops in the Japanese force, which was believed to be outnumbered by the Americans.

The general expressed contempt for the Jap treatment of their own civilians, recounting what he termed substantiated instances of Jap cruelty on their own people. "These soldiers are like animals," he said.

Japanese air raiders caused several alerts this morning by dropping 12 bombs in various attacks, but caused few casualties, and small losses.

This morning we saw a beautiful sight—our own island based planes wheeling in to land on newly captured Aslito, now Conroy, air field, at the south end of the island. This squadron was the first of many and soon will be operating from this newest of American territory.

U. S. SUBS SINK 16 JAP VESSELS; HIT 774 IN WAR

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Another heavy blow against waning Japanese sea power was disclosed today in a navy announcement that roving American submarines had destroyed 16 more enemy ships, including 15 cargo vessels and a naval auxiliary.

The report came out almost simultaneously with an expression of regret from President Roosevelt that the Nipponese war fleet fled instead of accepting battle to the finish after losing heavily in a long-range aerial engagement with a United States task force east of the Philippines this week. Before it ran, however, the Japanese armada lost one aircraft carrier and three other vessels certainly sunk and 10 more damaged.

The newest bag by submarines includes 11 medium cargo vessels, four small cargo carrying ships and a medium-sized naval auxiliary not otherwise identified. These sinkings boost to 774 the number of Japanese craft sunk, probably sunk or damaged by American submarines since the war started.

Missing Chicago Flyer Prisoner of Germans

Lt. William Echert, 23, a bombardier in the army air forces, who was reported missing April 3 in a raid over Hungary, is a prisoner of war, his mother, Mrs. William Echert, 2446 Wilson av., was informed yesterday in a letter from her son. Lt. Echert wrote that all the crew of his plane had parachuted to safety. Lt. Echert, a former member of the Illinois National Guard, has been overseas since January.

REPORTS MISSING $102.

Mrs. Morton Cohen, 7734 Kingston av., told police yesterday that a wallet containing $102 was missing shortly after a maid hired Thursday disappeared.

KOHIMA-IMPHAL ROAD CLEARED OF JAP TROOPS

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, June 23 (AP).—The Kohima-Imphal road has been cleared of enemy forces, a bulletin announced tonight, and allied vehicles already are using the highway in the previously surrounded Imphal plain, heretofore supplied and garrisoned by air transport.

There were evidences of still more Japanese withdrawals in the India theater, particularly in the Bishenpur area, where the bulletin said the enemy was laying mines.

The steady allied pace in the theater must be continued thruout the monsoon period, a spokesman said, to thrust the enemy completely out of positions whence he can continue to menace the Manipur road.

Grim Fighting Ahead.

Present indications were that the Japanese intended to make a grim effort to hold the Tamu-Palel and the Tiddim road areas, and a bitter struggle was expected in the neutralization of his forces in the Ukhrul area.

The 10 mile gap in the Kohima-Imphal road was closed when British forces driving northward routed the enemy from roadblocks and met other British units driving southward from Kohima.

Only the Japanese in the north of Imphal, now in scattered parties, remain to be mopped up.

75,000 Japs Defeated.

The scope of the Japanese attacks in Manipur and Assam were fixed officially for the first time after the clearance of the Manipur road.

The Japanese were said to have used 75,000 troops in a "major effort" and to have lost 14,000 dead in the fruitless campaign. Two-fifths of the mauled enemy force remaining in the Manipur area now are retreating toward Ukhrul and the remaining three-fifths are concentrated south of the Imphal plain, the spokesman estimated.

Andaman Isle Raided.

WITH A CARRIER TASK FORCE OFF THE ANDAMAN ISLANDS, June 21 [Delayed] (AP).—Fighters and bombers of the allied eastern fleet caught the Japanese by surprise early today and delivered a smashing blow at the enemy's installations at Port Blair, capital of the Andaman Islands group in the Bay of Bengal and an outpost guardian of Japanese shipping lanes to Rangoon in Burma.

Attacking thru a rainstorm, carrier borne fighters first sent Japanese ground gunners scurrying for cover and then bombers went in and pin-pointed their targets. No air opposition was encountered and only one allied plane failed to return.

Radio Station Hit.

Among the structures demolished or damaged was a radio station and tower, a seaplane station, and troop barracks. Port Blair's air field was raked with bombs and bullets and two grounded Zero fighters were set afire.

[A Japanese English language broadcast said damage was confined to "one small boat, which was hit by an enemy bomb and set ablaze." It claimed six allied planes were shot down and four damaged by anti-aircraft fire.]

This, the third allied strike at the Andamans, was commanded by Vice Adm. Arthur Power, second in command of the eastern fleet.

"Now Elmer has stayed with us six weeks! He's known around here as Old Timer."

CIVILIANS FLEE CHINA RAIL HUB AS JAPS PUSH ON

CHUNGKING, China, June 23 (AP).—Thousands of Chinese civilians are fleeing the rail junction of Hengyang, the Chinese announced tonight. No attempt was made to minimize the city's peril as the Japanese pushed within 25 miles of it in a drive that may become a virtual battle for China.

Fighting raged in Hengshan, 25 miles northeast of the city, and the Japanese were pouring in troops in an all-out drive to split China in two and prepare to fight Americans who may land in the country.

Upward of 120,000 Japanese were estimated to be engaged in the drive southward from fallen Changsha along a broad front.

More Pressure at Rail Gap.

Coupled with this offensive was the increasing pressure against the Chinese defenders of a gap in the Peiping-Hankow railway to the north in Honan province, part of the Japanese campaign to win complete domination of the north-south Canton-Hankow railway.

A Chinese spokesman said that in northwest Honan the situation had been stabilized with Chinese recapture of Lingpao on the Lunghai railway, near the eastern Shensi province border, and with the reoccupation of Sunghsien, 45 miles southwest of enemy held Loyang.

Burma Road Block Hit.

On the Yunnan province front near the Burma border, the Chinese attacked Sungshan, called by the bulletin the "last Japanese position blocking the re-opening of the Burma road west of the Salween river."

Chinese troops in that area were said to have cut the enemy's westward retreat line and to have captured enemy barracks and 55 pillboxes.

East of Lungling, from which Chinese forces had withdrawn to prevent encirclement, a Japanese attack was blocked by counter-attacks.

The high command reported that all enemy forces had been driven west and south of the Shwell river and that one Chinese group reached a point less than 10 miles north of Tengchung, main Japanese Yunnan base. Chiangtso, about 20 miles northeast of Tengchung, fell to the Chinese in this drive, the bulletin said, and large quantities of artillery, ammunition, and small arms were taken.

TEN ILLINOISANS IN NAVY LIST OF 68 CASUALTIES

Chicagoan Missing, 3 Wounded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The navy department today made public the names of 68 casualties of the United States naval forces not heretofore released on navy casualty lists. THE STRONGEST NATION.

From the lips of Rear Adm. Arthur W. Radford the world has been given some idea of the size and power of Task Force 58 now operating under command of Adm. Spruance in the area about Saipan. No such striking force has ever before been assembled at sea. It contains only a part of the American navy, but in every respect it is by far the strongest fighting organization that has ever appeared on any ocean in all naval history. It dwarfs all the other grand fleets, all the high seas fleets, all the armadas that have ever existed or been conjured in imagination. A captured Japanese flyer is quoted as saying that when, a few minutes before he was shot down, he saw all those ships, stretching in all directions to the limits of vision, he recognized the certainty of his country's defeat.

The meaning of this aggregation of power in the military sense has just been revealed in the routing of the Japanese task force that was intended to relieve Saipan. Our planes did so much damage to important elements in the enemy's fleet that he could only withdraw. Meanwhile the conquest of Saipan is proceeding. The concentration of naval guns against shore positions there must be far greater than it was in Normandy. We now know that, thanks to such concentrations, landings can be made without a stupendous sacrifice of life. In sum, we know that there is no outlying island base held by the Japanese that we cannot take with the force now available to us.

Upon the Republicans gathering for the national convention here, the statement of Rear Adm. Radford should have a profound influence in establishing two cardinal points of Republican doctrine.

1. Our aggregation of power at sea and our parallel strength on land and in the air mean that America is first among the nations in power and so far in the lead that all the others can be regarded almost as auxiliaries of no great importance. In these circumstances the notion that our government should in any sense be subservient to foreign interests is not only degrading but also absurd.

We don't have to ask favors of anybody. In good morals our strength should not make us arrogant and we are confident that it won't; but there is no reason for our being obsequious, with a foreign policy formed, as it is now, upon fear for our own safety and a desire to enjoy the support of allies. If it ever was true, as the internationalists insisted, that our security was dependent upon the British fleet, it isn't true today and it need never be true again. We can cooperate with the British or not, as our interest demands. That goes equally for the Russians, the Chinese, and every other nation. Their need for our friendship is far greater than ours for theirs, and we should conduct our foreign affairs accordingly.

That attitude ought to be expressed in the Republican platform unequivocally. There must be an end to an American foreign policy founded on fear and fawning.

2. The Republicans can hardly fail to recognize that the strength symbolized in the fleet off Saipan is the product of free enterprise in this country, the same free enterprise that the New Deal administration and its Communist allies are determined to destroy. Free men built the ships and free men have armed and supplied them. Task Force 58 is the product of a way of life that has given encouragement to men with vision, ideas, and technical skill. If Mr. Roosevelt's policies of repression and control by burocrats had been introduced a generation or two ago there would be no Task Force 58 today. If he is reelected we may never again be able to rise to an emergency for lack of the spirit of self-confidence and the material means to produce for the national need.

DEMOCRACY—THE JUDAS WORD.

John Maynard Keynes, English economist, devised a scheme of spending and taxing which, on acquaintance, proved to be pleasing to all rulers, here as well as in the United Kingdom and elsewhere. It provided new reasons for taking the subject's money and conferred on the spending of it the attributes of a great virtue. Mr. Keynes' grateful government, recognizing an uncommon man, made him a lord. Thereupon he became neither a better nor a worse economist but in his, as it were, democracy, he was recognized as a better man. What nature couldn't do, the king on the advice of his ministers could. Like the late Mr. Curzon, likewise a lord, he has become a most superior purzon and presumably a more exalted democrat.

Possibly the dictionary can help us out of a dilemma. A democracy is a system of government in which the sovereign power is vested in the people as a whole. By number two definition a democracy is a state or civil body in which the people themselves exercise all legislative authority and confer all executive and judicial powers either by direct collective action or thru their representatives. Examples are limited. They include ancient Athens, the canton of Appenzell in the Swiss confederation, and "towns of the northern United States."

A New England town meeting, like old Athens, is a democracy. The Greek democrats were a busy lot in public affairs. Any day one out of three of them might be going about the public business, exclusive of the days when ecclesia took nearly all of them. Every court day 6,000 citizens selected in turn to serve as judges got up early to hear the litigants and give out homespun justice. Democracy was an exacting and exciting business. It's marvelous that the democrats had time for imperishable art, drama, philosophy, oratory and trade, and war. Our town meetings take less time, produce no art and conduct no wars.

Then there is the third definition of democracy as "political and social equality in general, a state of society in which no hereditary differences of rank or privilege are recognized: opposed to aristocracy." Here the dictionary is notably blunt. "Opposed to aristocracy." Making the world safe for the aristocracies is not a good commercial. It lacks the appeal which a good soap should make to the heart as well as the mind. So from hitherto unashamed monarchies we began hearing of democracy. Now the kings, queens, princesses, and princes in England and on this side of the water after long exile feel that the wind is shifting into the right quarter for the homing flight.

Our progenitors were not aiming at straw men when they enumerated among the prohibitions of the Constitution: "No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States." The declaration that all men are born equal was in some apparent difficulties when it was adopted, but despite the embarrassment of slavery a principle was uttered and efforts have been made to keep it alive. A parliamentary system alone cannot convert a monarchy and its usages into a democracy of any sort, obviously not of the second class described above and certainly not of the third. And only by self-deception could the subject of a king regard himself as sharing and possessing all the rights of government, of being the sole source of authority.

The conservative Mr. Churchill, the servant of the crown, would not prefer monarchy to republicanism if there were no essential difference between the two. He must think that it is not desirable to entrust the people with all the responsibilities for government, that they would constitute a state, as an Englishman said of us, all sail and no rudder. As to Europe he is yet to be proved wrong. So democracy is a treacherous word, a Judas word, used by some to deceive others and by others because they have deceived themselves. The thesis being false, the antithesis is the fact. That is why so much hypocrisy flows along in the wake of our battle slogans. The forces engaged are not likely to create their opposites.

The Atlantic Charter is a piece of mythology because in the major powers, the United States excepted, there is no conviction that its utterances are moral imperatives and much awareness that it would be damned inconvenient. Mr. Wilson's principles were accepted in war because they were useful. They were discarded after war because they were not. Comparatively the forces in Europe against nazism are intelligent, humane, and decent, but they are not democratic. That word has been misused until it is worthless.

SPEAK OUT FOR AMERICA, GOVERNOR.

William J. Grace, addressing the Republican platform committee, said that "it begins to look like we're going to have a Russian candidate for President on one side and a British candidate on the other." This remark is obviously unfair to President Roosevelt, because he has done a great deal more for the British empire than he has for soviet Russia, his Communist coterie in this country notwithstanding.

Nor is the witticism going to do Gov. Dewey any good if he goes before the people as the Republican Presidential nominee, as Mr. Grace seemed to imply. People consider Mr. Roosevelt a Russian candidate because he has surrounded himself with Communists, toadied to them, and attempted to force his brand of collectivism on America. They know from Mr. Dewey's assertions at Mackinac, from the tone of some of his speeches on foreign policy, and from his association with John Foster Dulles, a one-worlder of some note, that he at least has listened to the promptings of the internationalists. The stamp of super-state internationalism would make any Republican nominee Britain's candidate, for that is a British—not an American—policy.

Nobody who is the candidate of a foreign power can defeat Mr. Roosevelt. Gov. Dewey can put an end to the insinuation that he is a British candidate if he announces unequivocally that he is an American candidate, prepared to promote and defend American sovereignty, rights, and interests thruout the world. This is the only policy upon which he can lead the Republican party to victory and he owes that kind of a statement to the millions of Americans who will give him that victory in return for the pledge of pro-American leadership.

FINNISH PEACE TERMS.

Finnish resistance in the first Russian war collapsed soon after the fall of Viipuri. The second capture of that city by the Russians may have the same consequence. However dark their immediate future may appear to the Finns, surrender will at least relieve their anomalous position in relation to the United States.

Finnish war debt payments, the latest of which was made only last week, and the clear Russian aggression in the first war aroused the sympathy of Americans. But when, in renewing the struggle, the Finns made themselves allies of Germany, they became the declared, but nonbelligerent, enemy of Great Britain and the technical, but undeclared, enemy of the United States.

It is not likely that Stalin, having broken the military power of Finland, will be disposed at first to offer more lenient terms than he offered while the Finns possessed some means of resistance. It devolves upon Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill to exert such persuasion upon their ally as they are capable of, if any shred of confidence in the validity of their Atlantic Charter is to be saved.

The coming Finnish peace will furnish a test of Russian intentions in the post-war world. It will demonstrate what, beyond the destruction of our enemy, Hitler, the Americans are fighting for at Cherbourg. Is it the promised new world order or the old European system of power politics?

Test Your Horse Sense

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS' LONGEST DAY.

24th June—Celebrated the Longest Day by speaking favorably of the weather for the first time this month. Met other citizens who were saying, "O, what a wonderful morning," or afternoon, or evening, but after nightfall the weather began to act up again, with thunder, lightning, and rain, and my little dog went into her thunderstorm jitters and had to sleep under my bed for protection. The setting sun that evening was swelled up to such a size that it seemed like a portent, and over the Pacific ocean it may have been the setting sun of Nippon, taking a furious nose-dive into the abyss.

Came the laundryman with remorseful explanations of why he was two weeks behind schedule with my shirts. It was all on account of Decoration day falling on Tuesday. The help didn't work Saturday because of the law, and Sunday, of course, was devoted to religious meditation, and Monday was a day off because of the impending holiday, and Tuesday was a legal holiday, and Wednesday was shot to pieces because the help was too tired from its long week-end to go to work. Must issue a solemn warning: After a century or two of this sort of thing, any country will go to pot.

Decided to do something about the overflow of books in my study, for they had risen as high as my ears and were threatening to get into my hair. So I weeded out the riff-raff and carried them in bundles to various libraries, to be given to the soldiers. Made quite a hit at the public library, where the staff exclaimed, "O, what beautiful, clean books!"

Heard nothing but painful news from Wrigley field all week and am ready to go to their rescue. Am warming up my pitching arm by taking long shots at the wastebasket, and can throw strikes regularly with contributions, paper clips, and stray hunks of type metal. Think it would be a nice vacation for me to make the team and sit on the bench every afternoon, gossiping with Stanley Hack, Jimmie Foxx, and other old-timers.

CLASS OF '44.

This is the day, the hour. I close my eyes
To things around me; leaden English skies,
The age-old spires, prim hawthorns in a row,
The long, gray twilight I have come to know;
And I am back again. My eager feet
Impatient up the old familiar street
To join the shadowy horde awaiting me.
We are the ones who would be there. Would be
With old, untroubled things today, and find
Unchanged the careless joys we left behind.
The long line forms. In readiness we stand
'Neath campus trees, a silent, waiting band.
And as they pass, with solemn, measured pace,
Step forward, one by one, to take his place.
A glance, a smile, eyes bright with unshed tears,
"So you have come." . . . Forever thru the years
I will remember. . . . Stars break thru, but I
See only stars of home, a peaceful sky.

Long khaki lines are forming here today,
I take my place. . . . This is another day.

Margaret D.

North Shore's First Wedding.

The bride was Archange, the daughter of a Potawatomi woman and a Frenchman named Chevalier. The groom was Antoine Ouilmette. The time was about the year 1796; the place, according to tradition, the log cabin of one John Doyle. The probable location was somewhere near the lake and on ground which subsequently became the Ouilmette reservation.

Not much can be said about Archange except that thru her, Ouilmette and their children came into possession of what is now known as Ouilmette reservation, a tract of about 640 acres lying north of Central st., Evanston, and extending into the south limits of Kenilworth. Archange's children subsequently sold the tract for $1,000, or at the rate of $1.50 per acre.

Antoine looms large in the history of Chicago and the north shore. He was a trader of no mean ability. The records indicate that he was one of the largest taxpayers when Chicago was young. Benjamin Hill, an old resident of Evanston, describes Antoine as a very old man in the year 1840. He remembers him as wearing a turban cap and dressed much like an Indian.

POEMS FOR PAM—XXX.

How is it
That your little nieces
Can tear your doting heart
To pieces,
Whereas
Your own sweet, precious child
Only seems to drive you wild?
Things your nieces say
Are cunning!
Dresses nieces wear
Are stunning!
Manners nieces have are charming—
Daughter's manners are Alarming!
Niece falls down and still looks
Purty.
Daughter merely gets all dirty.
But then, our daughter gets her due,
For Pamela has an Auntie,
Too!

I have seen the mountains, the deserts, tropical islands, banana plantations, jungles, California, the north woods, the great plains, and I have looked upon the oceans, east and west, but the only spot I have ever seen that is prettier than Lincoln park in May is Lincoln park in June.

I suggest that to make room for returning service men we retire all the "yes" men, building for them a haven where they could kowtow to each other for the balance of their lives. The name of this retreat, of course, would be Manor Mouse.

M. B. writes: "My son has been a prisoner of Germany since Feb. 21, and so far I have not received his address. Can you suggest any bureau from which I might get his address?"

ANSWER: Probably no address has been given our government. You might be able to learn something of his whereabouts thru an inquiry to the aliens' information bureau, provost marshal general's office, Washington, D. C. Give his full military identification.

V. B. asks: "Would six months' residence in Canada make a United States citizen acceptable for service in the Canadian forces? Several of my friends seem to have gotten in somehow despite the regulations. Could it be that the recruiting officer seeing these persons around so much made a 'mistake'?"

ANSWER: We can't answer for the "mistakes," but as far as the regulations go, a six months' residence would not change things.

TRAINING THE CHILD AWAY FROM BEDWETTING.

BEDWETTING has constituted an important medical and social problem for centuries. It will continue to engross our attention until we learn that proper child training is the answer.

First of all, we must drop the notion that the tendency is a disgrace. It is no such thing. But it does signify that parents have not given their offspring adequate assistance in overcoming it. Increasing the sense of shame is not conducive to cure. Neither is there a particle of use in scolding, physical punishment, or social ostracism. From babyhood on we must promote self-confidence rather than destroy it. Boys, particularly, need to be encouraged because they are offenders more frequently.

The family doctor should, of course, be consulted because now and then the urine will be highly acid or strongly alkaline. In either situation, it can become irritating, especially if concentrated. Pinworms are sometimes causative and constipation can be corrected either with diet or via mild suppositories or enemas.

The most common cause, however, is fear. Perhaps this is not the exact word. Let's call it "anxiety." With a lad on a visit to relatives, trying to be on his best behavior, he is more likely than not to experience an accident. If he were only at ease, victory would be his. Comfort and understanding mean more to the patient than any other attitude. But cure will come if we can lower the threshold of consciousness so that the youngster will awaken before the incident occurs.

The child may be permitted to drink all the water he wishes in the early part of the day. Very little should be taken at the evening meal and none thereafter. Tea or coffee should not be given as each is stimulating. Bed covers which are too heavy are never advised. Sleeping garments should be loose and roomy so that pressure will not ensue.

If bedtime is at 8 p. m., the tot can be roused and placed on a chamber at the bedside at 10 p. m. and again at midnight. Rarely will he become fully conscious—just enough to empty the bladder. It is well to repeat this procedure for a series of nights, using the alarm clock. The whole effect will be lost, however, unless the boy is sufficiently alert to know what is expected of him. Let father take over this part of the program.

With those who are older it may be desirable to continue the plan for several weeks. That interval of time will help to establish a habit reflex which, when pressure on the bladder reaches a certain stage, will waken him so that he will pile out of bed.

Despite a few weeks of practice, lapses may be observed. But they will be rare. The lad now has the matter on his mind and it will soon become second nature.

Mishaps during the day are usually the result of heedlessness and should never be allowed to continue with children after the age of 4. It may be necessary to establish a regular schedule of visits to the bathroom, which will be observed scrupulously.

OVARIAN FUNCTION.

A. B. writes: I understand that ovarian cysts are caused by local irritation but what could bring this about?

REPLY.

For about 30 years the ovaries are active in producing ova. Furthermore, they secrete hormones, which are of considerable importance. In consequence, they may reflect the state of general health. During a severe illness, for example, their productive powers may be reduced. In like manner, if congestion comes from any cause, they will be likely to misbehave.

MOTHER IS SLEEPY.

D. J. writes: My mother becomes very sleepy at work and has to pour water down her neck to snap out of it. What is responsible?

REPLY.

Probably poor elimination. The blood is obliged to retain toxic elements, which should be cast off. It would be wise to check the output of the kidneys.

WON'T DISTURB.

L. G. writes: Do hay fever injections have any reaction on the heart?

REPLY.

No. If cautiously administered, they are harmless.

THE LONG ARM OF THE LAW

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Election in the Bag.

A great many earnest men and women are sitting in the Stevens hotel's west ballroom this week shaking their heads over the Republican platform. Their problem is what to put in it.

Now, a platform is what a political party stands on. It has to be large enough, as far as the Republicans are concerned, so that enough voters to defeat Mr. Roosevelt can also stand on it. It is a serious matter and deserves the consideration of thoughtful Americans.

With that in mind this department is offering a few suggestions. Some of them have been noted here in months gone by. In general our platform concerns itself with little things because little things are why people vote. The Republicans are welcome to steal them if they please. If they scorn them, Texas or any other enlightened region can have them.

[Editor's note: These are couched in the formal language of formal platforms to save the platform-makers undue trouble.]

1. Resolved, that the use of the alphabet in naming federal agencies be banned. In 12 long years the public has mastered all possible combinations of the 26 letters. It is time we turned to Arabic numerals in the lower ranges, those innocents long neglected on the American scene. Henceforth, federal agencies will begin with 1 and stop—again and again and again—at 90,000. No one number will be used twice in the same sequence.

2. Resolved, that the first new agency to be set up in the new Washington will be a stabilizing commission. This will see that reading equals writing, and that for every federal writer there is a reader—at least one.

3. Resolved, that the national debt now having become insoluble thru human artifice, it be liquidated thru a birth tax on rabbits who long have demonstrated their ability to multiply faster than any one can subtract or divide.

4. Resolved, that rationing be extended to the field of words. Only one speech a year will be permitted any man, and that man must be a Coolidge.

5. Resolved, that post-war jobs and infinite human happiness be created thru crossing the Christmas tree with the glow worm; crossing the silkworm with the loom and a Power's model; crossing the elbow of the white collar office lounger with a chin rest, and crossing arid lands with seeds that grow predehydrated foods.

6. Resolved, that the voice of the women, now shrill in the land, be heard and we have less elasticity in our laws and more elasticity in our girdles.

7. Resolved, that in the realm of social security the Roosevelt family be well provided for. The country has kept them as long as any one can expect to keep retainers these days, and they should be rewarded. Mr. Roosevelt should be given a good supply of Vigoro to nourish his Christmas tree plantation at Hyde Park with permission to plant Mrs. Roosevelt if he thinks she will take root. Mr. Hull, an old and faithful servitor, should be given an atlas with movable frontiers so that he can set up at will the world he would like to have. Mr. Ickes should be given a Mechano set with which to build miniature pipelines. Mr. Wallace should be give a return ticket from China. We want him back.

In summation, let us say that this platform is for and against internationalism. It is for and against a police force. It is for and against liquor, sin, capital, labor, and worse. It is for equal rights and no rights but should never be confused with anything that sounds forthright. While all men may not agree with all its planks, it has at least one plank for every man.

Most of all, however, it is for an amendment to the Bill of Rights. This amendment will make constitutional the American right to be wrong.

DEFENDS CO-EDUCATION.

Huntington, Ind., June 16.—Mr. Kuhne's attempt to misplace the blame for youth's unhappy experiences is most unreasonable. It is quite typical in character, if not in degree of ferocity, of a large percentage of adult discussions on the matter. Nearly always there is a reluctance to place the responsibility on the home where it belongs and a tendency to pass the buck to the schools, to the community as a whole, or to the young people themselves.

The system of co-education deserves only a minimum of the blame for the high divorce rate of today. It might even be said that co-education has prevented far more unhappy experiences than it has caused. It is necessary for young people of high school and college age to develop normal relationships with the opposite sex. They learn to exercise self-control before they reach emotional maturity. The importance of the co-educational school in this matter is proved by the existing conditions and consequent attitudes which have developed in schools where young men and women are segregated.

To deprive young people of normal relationships thruout their formal education would be immoral and unfair, and would probably result in something much worse than a high divorce rate.

SITTING OUT THE WAR WORK.

Chicago, June 21.—I am a machinist by trade, doing this kind of work for 15 years. I am a precision grinder and have been a top salaried man every place I worked. The war plants are very much in need of my line of work. I have been working nights. Suddenly conditions at home forced me to ask for a day job. The company refused. I gave the war man power commission a legitimate excuse. They refused to release me. I appealed the case, and was also turned down. They told me to stay home for two months. Now, is that helping the man power shortage any?

Anthony Iovino.

REPORT FROM TEXAS.

Austin, Tex., June 18.—There is nothing to the report that Texas would be willing to trade Wallace for Rayburn. Most people I talk to had as soon keep Wallace. Rayburn will be doing well if he returns to congress, judging from reports coming from his district, where he has strong opposition in Texas' Senator G. C. Morris. The unbeatable team, in my opinion, would be Bricker and Byrd. The south would vote solidly for such a ticket.

One of the "Uninstructed."

SAD TRUTH.

Chicago, June 21.—Is it true that beef tenderloin may, under the law, be sold by retail markets only to restaurants, night clubs, and other public eating places? Our market so informed us today when we asked for beef tenderloin. If this is actually the truth, I am sure hard working men and women in war plants would be interested.

QUESTION OF INTEGRITY.

Chicago, June 19.—An American's reaction upon reading Dr. Gellerman's "Martin Dies" is not to doubt the integrity of Mr. Dies, but rather to question sharply the background and ideology of the author in this vicious and bitter attack upon a forthright and sincere American.

THE WAITRESS' SIDE OF IT.

Chicago, June 21.—I have been a waitress for 15 years, and I believe the waitresses deserve a lot of credit for even staying on their jobs these days. Before the war we were kicked around and fired if we even looked cross at a customer. We have to handle all sorts of people including fresh married men and intoxicated ones. We work for tips and yet people come in, play a juke box for a half hour, hold down our tables so we can't make any money, get up and leave nothing but their cigar and cigaret butts. We put up with complaints eight hours a day and on our feet. Some unreasonable customers [and there are plenty] deserve their soup on their heads.

BEACON LIGHT OF LIBERTY.

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC, June 14.—I was very much surprised to read the article about myself and the boys of the submarine supply center which appeared in The Chicago Sunday Tribune of June 4.

I receive The Tribune and enjoy reading every page of it, in fact, it is passed around to every one here until a person just cannot read it. Your paper has played an important part in my life. I truly believe that in civilian life the best way to start the day is to read The Chicago Tribune.

Yes, America is the beacon light of liberty for this world and The Chicago Tribune is playing a great part to keep that light burning.

LIQUOR FOR DELEGATES.

Fairbury, Ill., June 20.—I took particular notice of an article in The Tribune of June 19, under the caption of "Liquor Assured All Delegates to Convention."

May I be so gullible as to ask why the delegates to conventions, which are held for the purpose of selecting candidates for the Presidency of the United States, have to be assured a sufficient amount of liquor?

Miss Dorothy Duggan.

THE GARDEN COLUMN.

Morton Grove, Ill., June 20.—I wish to thank The Tribune for the helpful garden articles printed each day. I have learned so much from them.

This is my second year as a war gardener and I still am in need of such help. For Father's day dinner we had our first green peas, 3¾ pounds from the 16 foot double row, and more to come on same vines. Kohlrabis are tender and delicious.

Mrs. J. F. Horn.

ALD. A. J. SOBOTA DIES OF A HEART ATTACK IN CAFE

Was Leader Among Poles Over 20 Years.

Alexander J. Sobota, 49, alderman of the 26th ward since 1939 and a director of the Polish National alliance, died of a heart attack last night while he was dining in the Como Inn, 546 Milwaukee av. He was hurried to St. Mary's hospital, but efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

Ald. A. J. Sobota

Ald. Sobota, a leader among Poles on the northwest side for more than 20 years, was a druggist before he entered politics. His first position of consequence was chief deputy bailiff of the Municipal court in 1933. In his successful bid for alderman in 1939 Mr. Sobota ran as a non-partisan candidate.

He was born in the ward in 1895, near his present home at 928 Willard ct., where he lived with his mother, Catherine. Ald Sobota, who was unmarried, served overseas during World War I. and was a member of Pulaski post, No. 86, American Legion, and Theodore Roosevelt post, No. 4, Polish American Veterans. He had been Democratic captain of his home precinct since 1924.

SCHOOL PALS DIE HOURS APART IN PLANE CRASHES

Two Chicago flyers who lived within four blocks of each other in Auburn Park, were pals in grammar school and in Leo high school, and enlisted in the army air forces within a few months of each other, were killed in plane crashes only a few hours apart in widely separated parts of the country, the parents were notified yesterday by the war department.

Lt. R. F. Keevers Jr.

Cadet McCambridge.

The victims were Cadet John J. McCambridge, 22, son of Mrs. Frances McCambridge, 740 W. 80th st., and 2d Lt. Robert F. Keevers Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Keevers Sr., 7708 Lowe av.

McCambridge was killed yesterday when his training ship from Freeman field crashed near Seymour, Ind. Also killed in the crash was Robert M. Roberts, 19, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Keevers, a bombardier, was one of a crew of 10 killed Thursday night in the crash of a B-24 Liberator near the Walla Walla, Wash., army air field. Keevers was a member of Leo's 1941 city championship football team.

TERRY

THOUSANDS DEFY SUN AT U.S. SALE OF NYLON HOSE

Line Up 4 Abreast for Seized Stock.

Greensboro, N. C., June 23 [Special].—Hungry for a pre-war luxury close to feminine hearts, thousands of women stood for hours in a blazing sun here today to buy 4,800 pairs of nylon hosiery sold by the government at ceiling prices.

Young women, old women, matrons, and shopgirls, they stood four abreast in a line four blocks long. Some had been there since 7 a. m., three hours before the hose were placed on sale. Perspiring and weary, they stayed on, many aware that there weren't enough stockings for them all, but just hoping.

Prosecutor's Daughter Present.

Among the yearning throng was Mary Cecile Higgins, comely daughter of District Atty. Carlysle W. Higgins, who prosecuted the case in which the hosiery was confiscated. As she waited to get the three pairs to which each buyer was limited, she summed up the case for herself and adjacent standees:

"I don't wear hose in summer and by winter I will have forgotten how tired my knees and ankles have become from standing in this line. And it'll be much easier to forget with three pairs of nylons to wear. Sure, women are foolish, but don't you think nylons are pretty?"

Stock Sold in Hour.

Finally the line began to move. Women were admitted in groups of five to the office of United States Marshal Edney Ridge. In an hour the entire stock was sold. But hardly a dent had been made in the waiting crowd.

The hose were sold at ceiling prices ranging from a maximum of $1.65 a pair for first grade stockings to $1 a pair for interior grades.

The government charged that the nylon used to make the stockings was stolen from an interstate shipment. Three men were convicted and fined amounts ranging from $5,000 to $12,500 each and one was sentenced to prison for two years. Sale of the hose was directed by a federal court order with the proceeds going to repay $1,300 for the stolen yarn and the remainder into the United States treasury.

"Since word of the sale got out I've received $10,000 in mail orders from people all over the country," said Marshal Ridge. "Now my office has to mail all that money back."

CITY'S BEACHES OPEN AND PARKS PROVIDE GUARDS

The city's 28 beaches were opened yesterday with a full complement of 125 life guards on duty, Walter E. Wright, superintendent of city beaches, said. All of the guards are men.

The Chicago park district's 250 life guards will go on duty next Saturday at the district's 12 beaches and 48 pools, altho a small staff will be on hand today and tomorrow to guard early bathers.

Sam D. Pecoraro, of the district's beach and golf section, estimated that 150 of this year's guards are women. Last year, there were 100. In pre-war years, the life guard staff was entirely male.

OBITUARIES

POLICE WIDOW DIES 9 HOURS AFTER HER SON

Mrs. Nellie Harnett, 74, of 4921 Maypole av., widow of a Chicago police sergeant, died yesterday nine hours after the death of her son, John R. Harnett, 50, of 4948 Maypole av., who retired from the police department last month after serving 20 years. Mrs. Harnett died in St. Therese hospital in Waukegan without knowing of her son's death, which occurred Thursday afternoon in his home.

Another son, the Rev. Daniel R. Harnett, pastor of St. Gilbert's church, Grayslake, Lake county, will sing a requiem mass for his mother and brother at 11 a. m. Monday in St. Thomas Aquinas church, 5112 Washington blvd.

John Harnett was a policeman at the Fillmore st. station when he retired. He had been ill for several months. He was a veteran of World War I. and served 18 months overseas. He is survived by his widow, Hannah, and one stepdaughter and four stepsons. His mother, who was the widow of Michael Harnett, who died in March, 1930, is survived by two daughters, Anna and Mrs. Harold Corboy, besides the Rev. Harnett.

NAVY TO PROBE SAILORS' GIFT TO BUY OFF STRIKE

Acts After Radicals Make Complaint.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The crewmen of the seaplane tender U. S. S. Coos Bay who sent $412 to the Associated Press with instructions that it be used to help pay the "wage increase that money hungry strikers are demanding" are going to be investigated by the navy.

The navy tonight issued a statement saying the money, turned over to it by the Associated Press, was being returned to the commanding officer of the Coos Bay and that steps were being taken to obtain information about the collection.

The statement said that while the navy holds no brief for strikes in war time it does not condone expressions by its personnel "which are in disregard of regulations, which may be founded on imperfect knowledge of the issues, and which are so handled that they can be construed to be publicity seeking."

PM Charges a "Smear."

The navy's action came after labor leaders and PM, New York's so-called uptown edition of the Communist Daily Worker, had complained bitterly that labor had been smeared by the letter. Whether pressure was exerted from these sources to get navy action could not be learned.

PM devoted two-thirds of one of its 24 tabloid pages today to an editorial attacking the Associated Press for circulating the letter on its wires and a review of the story, including critical statements by union leaders—statements carried in the AP's original story.

The Coos Bay crewmen in their letter to the Associated Press said they could deal with their foreign enemies but not with those at home whom they could not reach.

"Therefore, in desperation, we can think of nothing but to offer our money to 'buy' them back to work; this money having been earned honestly and in the belief that our efforts were the salvation and protection of those who are striking against us," they wrote.

Referred to Wright Strike.

The letter referred to paying the strikers at the Wright aeronautical plant at Lockland, O., and a postscript said: "If the Wright strike is over just chose another. There always are plenty at hand."

Editorially PM charged the strike was one against labor and asserted that "if ever a strike was fascist in intent and effect that strike was."

"God knows the four-day strike of the Wright Aircraft workers was enough to make any decent man angry whether he be in or out of the service."

The navy statement did not indicate what punishment, if any, might be imposed on the veterans of the Coos Bay, whose letter from "somewhere at sea" was passed by navy censors.

Letter from a Lieutenant.

Rep. Compton [R., Conn.] announced that he had received a copy of the letter from Lt. W. J. James and said James was one of the authors of the letter. He said that on Jan. 12 he also received a letter from James concerning the reaction of men in the military forces to war plant strikes, in which the lieutenant wrote that "we have a double battle, one with our external enemies and the other with our internal enemies."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by John Martin, 1506 W. Thome av.]

THE QUESTION.

When and where did you spend your darkest night.

WHERE ASKED.

Henninger building, Riverside.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Leon Baker, fountain manager, 107 Forest av., Riverside—I was driving home and the lights on my car went out. I lived in the country and was about a mile and a half from home. I decided to walk home. There was a total eclipse of the moon on my way home. It was so black I couldn't see my hand in front of my face.

Mrs. Harry Erixson, clerk, 153 Barry Point, Riverside—In this suburb it's usually peaceful and not very bright at night. It was really dark the night of the practice black-out. There are gas lamps on the streets. They turned them all down and left just the pilot lights burning. It was an eerie sight so early in the evening.

Cadet Midshipman W. G. Welch, 199 Parkview av., Riverside—I was at sea on a Liberty ship and for three days and nights we had no sights—that is we couldn't see the sun or moon. Our fathometer wasn't working so we didn't know how deep the water was. Things were never brighter than when we saw the lights of San Francisco.

Ensign R. W. Rice, 214 Scottswood rd., Riverside—The first night I was at the controls of a huge flying boat the night and my whole future looked black. I had flown at night before but never as pilot. It was scary to keep coming down, down, and down to land in the black night and water that you couldn't see.

Mrs. Lawrence Dunn, housewife, 219 W. Quincy st., Riverside—We used to have a lodge in the mountains in New York. I was home alone one night when there was a violent thunderstorm. There was a waterfall near our house that was roaring as loud as Niagara falls. Lightning bolted in one door and out the other.

Joseph A. Sanda, pharmacist, 2338 S. Euclid av., Berwyn—When I was just a youngster a group of us boys were digging ourselves caves in the sand. After I finished my sand home I crawled in. Just as I settled down it caved in on me and I was trapped. I spent the afternoon and most of the night waiting for a rescue party.

Chicagoan, 2 Others Die, 16 Hurt in Truck Wreck

Program Filled as Convention Guests Gather

LUNCHEON parties in the country for visitors who have come to attend the Republican national convention, opening Monday, and the fourth annual Galloping Hills Horse show tomorrow at the Louis F. Swifts' farm in Wheaton will make the pre-convention day a busy one.

Mrs. James V. Forrestal, wife of the secretary of the navy, who will be Mrs. Adlai Stevenson's guest thru the coming excitement, will stay in the apartment of Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter. Over this week-end she will go to Lake Bluff to be with the Howard Linns, who are giving a dinner there tonight for her and for their house guests, the Reeve Schleys. Mr. Schley is a delegate from New Jersey.

Yesterday at the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations luncheon Mrs. Linn had Mrs. Forrestal as her guest. Another visitor chatting with Mrs. Linn and Mrs. Henriques Crawford, who were in their Red Cross uniforms, was Mrs. George Fielding Eliot, a small woman with dark auburn hair. The Linns and Mrs. Forrestal will be among the guests at a small luncheon Mrs. Dexter Cummings is giving in Lake Forest tomorrow for her convention guest, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon. Mrs. Cummings recently returned from Washington to open her house for the summer, and Lt. Cummings of the navy will join her here for a visit next month. During the convention the Schleys will be billeted in the Linns' Chicago apartment.

Other Lake Forest luncheon parties tomorrow include the Laurance H. Armours' for their Washington house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krock; the Edward A. Cudahys' for their convention guests, the Charles MacNeals, Mrs. MacNeal's aunt, Mrs. Alvin Hert, and the Jouett Todds, all of Louisville, and the Howard Fentons' for their week-end guests, the Raymond Rubicams and the Bruce Bartons of New York.

Horse Show Program.

Convenient electric and rail transportation, tickets on sale at the gates, and refreshments provided at stands will add to the enjoyment of horse show lovers in journeying out to the Swifts' farm tomorrow. More than 390 entries have been made in the day long events, and added recently was a class for thorobreds, brought about when James M. Hopkins offered Mrs. Swift a stunning trophy, a Paul Revere sterling silver bowl, in memory of his wife's daughter, the late Kay Goodman King. She was one of Mrs. Swift's first pupils when she started teaching riding to Lake Forest youngsters at Misery farm 25 years ago. Little Kay, then 3½, had a brown pony on which she first learned the fine points of horsemanship. Also added to the day's program will be the sale of war bonds to ride a horse.

Engagement News.

At a tea today in Milton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. George Newell Hurd are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Sylvia, to Pvt. Keith Robinson of the marine corps reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Snelling Robinson of State pkwy. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have gone east for the party, and Pvt. Robinson also will be present, having obtained a furlough from his post at Western Michigan college.

Miss Hurd, a granddaughter of the late Robert F. Herrick of Boston, was graduated in May from Milton academy, from which her fiancé received his diploma last year. He and his brothers, Ensign C. Snelling Robinson and Ralph L. Robinson, are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Flanders of Brookline, Mass., and Northport, Me., and of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Robinson of Youngstown, O.

From Washington, D. C., comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Wilkins, daughter of Mrs. Van Dorn Wilkins of Washington and Tampa, Fla., to Lt. [j. g.] Edmund James Frazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Frazer of Winnetka. Miss Wilkins attended the Stuart school and Holton-Arms. Her fiancé, a grandson of the late Dr. Edmund J. James, founder of the Wharton School of Finance in Philadelphia and former president of the University of Illinois and of Northwestern university, attended the University of Wisconsin and Northwestern's law school. He now is on foreign duty.

Birth News.

On their first wedding anniversary last Monday, Lt. and Mrs. W. C. Dustin Grannis [Mary Mahone] became the parents of a daughter, who has been named Jane Given after Lt. Grannis' mother, the late Jane Given Grannis. The baby and her mother are in Petersburg, Va., with young Mrs. Grannis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mahone, with whom she has been living since Lt. Grannis was sent to New London, Conn., with the army. One of his brothers, William Grannis, also an army lieutenant, is in Normandy, and the other, Lt. [j. g.] Url Balcom Grannis Jr., is stationed in Washington, D. C. They are sons of Mr. Grannis of Lake Forest.

On the Calendar.

Ninety-two convention visitors, including the Republican national committeemen, will be entertained at dinner tonight at the Tavern club by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Spangler. The women's committee of Bricker-for-President committee of Chicago will entertain at luncheon for Mrs. John W. Bricker at noon today in the Palmer House. At 2 p. m. the women's division of the Dwight H. Green courtesy committee will start receiving in its headquarters in the Stevens hotel.

Members of the Cliff Dwellers will gather for dinner and music tonight to open the club terrace for the summer. There will be a Beachcomer's party at the Saddle and Cycle club tonight, to which members are urged to come in appropriate costumes.

Wins Bryn Mawr Scholarship

Miss Welborn to Be Wed in South Tonight

The Curtis R. Welborns and their daughter, Miss Frances Welborn, of Winnetka, are in Miami Beach, Fla., for the marriage at 8:30 o'clock tonight of Miss Welborn and Ensign John Harold Perkins, son of Harold R. Perkins of Evanston. Also in the south is Miss Susanne Landis, who will attend the bride. The ceremony will take place in All Souls' Episcopal church. Ensign Perkins and his bride will be at home in Florida.

Two young people, who are being married far from home but who will have a home wedding none the less are Miss Janet Salisbury, daughter of Mrs. Cecil Salisbury of Providence, R. I., and David Duncan Jr. of the marines, son of Mrs. Duncan, also of Providence. Mr. Duncan is a nephew of Maj. Theodore Sizer of New Haven, Conn., brother-in-law of Mrs. Albert D. Farwell of Lake Forest, in whose home a reception will follow the wedding, which is planned for 6:30 o'clock this evening in Lake Forest's Church of the Holy Spirit. The bride's mother and sister, Katherine, and aunt, Miss Anne Mitchell, and the bridegroom's mother all are here for the wedding. Young Mr. Duncan is attending a radar school in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Nielsen of Winnetka are in the east for the marriage today of their son, Capt. Nielsen Jr. of the army, and Miss Patricia McKnew, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Donald Harrison McKnew of Washington, D. C. The ceremony will take place in the Gibson Island, Md., summer home of the bride's parents.

Miss Helen Phyllis Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Collins of Evanston, and William Douglas Beers of Appleton, Wis., son of Dr. and Mrs. E. McD. Beers of Schenectady, N. Y., will be married at 4:30 p. m. today in St. Matthew's church, Evanston, with a reception following in the Collins home. Miss Collins and Mr. Beers attended Iowa State college.

The marriage of Miss Dorothymae Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lewis of Lowell av., to John Francis Fentiman of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Fentiman, will take place at 10 a. m. today in the Queen of Angels church. A reception will follow from 3 to 6 p. m. in the east lounge of the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Following their marriage today in the chapel of the First Methodist church in Evanston, Capt. Carroll Thomas Cox and his bride, Miss Alice Macqueen, will go to Arlington, Va., to live while Capt. Cox is in Washington with the army. The Rev. Ernest F. Tittle will read the service at 4 p. m. and a reception will follow in the Georgian hotel. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Winfield N. Macqueen of Chicago.

The marriage of Miss Cynthia Meyer to Lt. Thomas Plantz Green at 8 o'clock tonight in the Saugatuck Community church will be followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Meyer of Forest Glen av. Lt. Green will take his bride to Wildwood, where he is stationed with the naval air corps.

Negligees Help You Attain That Frosty Effect

BY REA SEEGER.

The coolest looking summer negligees are undeniably those of frost white, whether of crepe or gossamer sheer or the newest trim swishy taffetas. Add soft ruffles of lace, net, or self-material, very short sleeves, simply cut and draped bodices, the popular scantily gathered straight skirts, a simple tie belt or neat belt with buckle and you have some of the fast vanishing summer beauties, specially designed for effective house lounging during the coming sultry weather. While the preferred buys are those in all white, a few pale pastels in pink, blue, green, or yellow provide a refreshing change if you crave color when you relax.

New taffetas are made in straight lines with long straight sleeves. Down the front are wide ruffles of the same taffeta to match the deep ruffles which edge the sleeves. These revive a certain Sarah Bernhardt picturesque charm, and the all-white affairs are ideal for a summer trousseau. The pink and blue models are bonbon tints, light and cool and airy. Teamed with nightgowns of either sheer or less transparent summer crepe or silk, a super-combination in blending or contrasting color can be achieved quickly and effectively to suit the whim of the moment.

Lovely dull white crepe negligees made with long sleeves gathered into dainty cuffs have frills of fagoted band lace, and there are nightgowns to match of sheer, trimmed with the same lace. Exquisitively made white negligees, smoothly simple, have unusual motifs of tiny hand painted flowers and leaves along the pockets on the skirt, around the round high neck line and on the short straight sleeves.

Others boast bertha collars with deep edging of fine white lace, some have deep swinging fringe and others have crisp edges of eyelet embroidery. All have that enviable cool allure of frost white winter window pane pictures, just what you need most for a sizzling summer morning or a day at home.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Office Memo.

I love the clatter of the typist's keys,
It's music to my ears—it thrills my soul;
The office boy who's striving for a goal . . .
I love my office job for things like these.
[The dust upon my desk—the blatant breeze
Which scatters everything and makes life droll
Deter me not the least, for on the whole
I only do just what I darn well please.
The boss is on vacation now, you see.]
I love my desk, so soft beneath my feet;
The typist, silent, casts a glance at me
Of envy. Ladylike, she takes a seat.
"You'd like to sit like me?" I ask.
"You can—
But only, honey dear, if you're a man!"

RICK MORAN.

Something for the Boys.

A friend of mine works in an office which has become depopulated because of the war. All the employes now in service write home to her and she, in turn, makes enough copies of these letters to send one to each of the other lads and lassies in Uncle Sam's regiments. These are bunched and sent out once a month in a large envelope, together with her personal chatter note of office comments. To the last man the employes in uniform have voiced their appreciation of the copies of their friends' letters. Possibly some other WCGs might consider this idea for their own use.

The girls enjoy talking about their women superiors, as evidenced by these scraps of conversation:

"You know, I was absolutely floored when Mr. D. told me I would have to take Miss Blank's dictation and I didn't pull any punches letting him know."

"That old scare-brow likes to show her authority. She's all out for attention from the men."

"I said to Miss C. 'Bring on the reports; I'll make 'em balance or else!'"

"Dear Miss T., what a disposition! She reprimanded me because my posting figures didn't balance—just off a few pennies, I said to her——"

"Imagine her nerve—telling me she didn't see how I ever got anything done—too many social distractions!"

City Piles Up Waste Paper in Drive Today

Waste paper for the manufacture of more than 1,800,000 containers for 75 mm. shells and containers for sufficient blood plasma to save the lives of 2 million wounded American fighters will be sought from Chicagoans today in the first of the summer's city-wide curb collections of waste paper.

William L. McFetridge, general chairman of the Chicago waste paper salvage committee, has set 6 million pounds as the day's quota. Of this, he said, 5½ million will be sent to mills manufacturing paper board for use in making shell containers and the remainder will be converted into 1 million plasma containers, each holding enough blood plasma to save two wounded men's lives.

John R. Robinson, representing the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association, which is spearheading the drive, asked householders to observe the following suggestions for efficient disposal of their paper:

It should be placed on the sidewalk before 8 a. m. today or as soon thereafter as possible. Newspapers should be tied in bundles 12 inches high and magazines in bundles 15 inches high. Cartons should be broken down and bundled with papers.

A fleet of 500 trucks, including 50 army trucks, will collect the paper. Office of civilian defense members have said they will bring the paper from the walks to the curbs and assemble piles in the centers of the blocks to simplify truck collections.

Householders also have been asked to see that the truck gathering up their paper carries the banner of the waste paper salvage committee, so that the proceeds of the collection will reach the Chicago service men's centers and coöperating youth organizations.

Catholic Women's Club to Hold Annual Breakfast

The Illinois Club for Catholic Women will give its annual breakfast tomorrow in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Junior members have invited representatives of the WAC, WAVES, SPARS, and cadet nurse corps to attend. Among the speakers will be Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison of Holy Name cathedral, who is the club's chaplain. Mrs. George J. Aste is chairman for the party, which is given to raise money toward a milk fund for tuberculous poor.

Thru the Looking Glass

We were interested in our readers' reaction to a little article we had earlier this week on the desirability or, more particularly, the downright necessity for men to use preparations that either checked perspiration completely or at least neutralized its odor.

One reader, mother of a man who is now a captain serving overseas, telephoned to say she felt service men in general might profit by the experience of her own son, who had ignored the very existence of such preparations until he returned on leave from his first taste of strenuous life in a steaming southern camp. He prowled thru the family bath cabinet until he found her anti-perspirants, asked her about their use, and promptly adopted the habit of using one religiously.

It's been his experience and that of many others that these preparations —and we want to emphasize for the doubting Thomases that such things are inexpensive, available almost everywhere and perfectly safe to use —are valuable for two reasons. They add to the sense of well being AND they save uniforms.

Socially, their use is certainly important. A man's best friend is the person who courageously advises him to use a deodorant if he offends friends and foe by reeking of perspiration, as so many men do. And, as this reader's son discovered, they do serve a practical purpose. Uniforms are rumpled more quickly and the fabric is stained and seriously damaged when perspiration permeates it.

Women Battle for Ideals—and 'Favorite Sons'

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Miss Alice Paul, a dark haired little woman who has had a crusader's gleam in her blue eyes since early in the century when she plumped fresh from Swarthmore into suffragism, is on hand for the Republican convention. She's here as president of the National Woman's party, and she's here for the same reason she's been visiting conventions ever since women won her first crusading aim, the franchise.

Now she wants a plank in the party platform [Republican at the moment, but the Democrats always hear about it, too] indorsing women's equal rights and thereby promising support for the so-called Lucretia Mott amendment which has been introduced at every session of congress for the last 23 years.

Women who consider themselves free and unhampered might come away pretty disillusioned after a five minute talk with Miss Paul. Says she: It took years of work to get the vote, but still women haven't won the "right to be people." State laws all over the country remain to hinder and limit women's rights in heirship, custody of children, contract signing, and divorce. Of course, Miss Paul likes to tell how Texas had to pass a new law when "Ma" [Mrs. James E.] Ferguson became governor so that she, "Ma," could sign the papers pertaining to her job.

The Republicans accepted the equal rights plank four years ago and it has been presented to the resolutions committee here with Matilda Fenberg, Chicago lawyer, as one of the spokesmen.

The National Woman's party, born to promote women's rights, now has the support of 26 organizations, including the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Paul was world chairman of her party at Geneva, Switzerland, until war compelled her to return home to suburban Philadelphia. She hopes the amendment will go thru soon, but if not—she can wait as she has been doing for more than 30 years. But it hasn't been quiet waiting. It's been working and, years ago, a little picketing and—yes—a little jail in the name of suffragism.

Many women asrembling at this convention are fighting for ideals as is Miss Paul, but most of them have something more tangible to support—a candidate. Such a one is the author, Margaret Culkin Banning, over at Stassen headquarters in the Hotel Sherman. Her own work forgotten for the moment, she heads the women for Stassen committee.

This is her fourth Republican convention, says Mrs. Banning, in addition to "Democratic conventions on the side," and she's here to tell women about ex-Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

Women, she says, have written from every state in the union to inquire about the young man who left his political post to serve in the navy. Her hopes? The well known writer puts it this way: "In a political convention anyone who assumes it's all over until the vote is taken is not proceeding along democratic principles."

Wright Junior College to Open Summer Term

Wright Junior college, 4261 Wareland av., will open its summer school Monday with a good attendance anticipated, school officials announced yesterday. Pre-engineering, pre-induction, pre-medic, and liberal arts courses will be offered. All courses are fully accredited. Registration will take place Monday.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mme. Marie Julie Colbjornsen, a Red Cross volunteer in two nations, will arrive in Chicago today for a three-day visit. Mme. Colbjornsen, the wife of a Norwegian parliament member who at present is financial counselor of his country's embassy in Washington, D. C., has more than 1,000 hours of volunteer service to her credit.

While her husband was carrying out the dangerous mission of taking the Bank of Norway's gold out of the country by rowboat, Mme. Colbjornsen remained in occupied territory for a year, later escaping from the Gestapo alone on skis across the mountains to Sweden. She joined her husband in the United States after a hazardous and circuitous journey thru Russia, Turkey, India, and South America.

Soon after arriving in this country she resumed Red Cross work. A member of the first nurses' aid class to be graduated in the nation, she has served in two hospitals and now is assistant captain of Red Cross nurses' aids in several clinics in the capital.

Women of the motor corps will meet Mme. Colbjornsen on her arrival here and take her to the Edgewater Beach hotel, where she will be a special luncheon guest at the convention of Zonta International. Miss Harriet McLaughlin, chairman of volunteer special services for the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, will entertain for the visitor at luncheon Monday at the Racquet club.

Six new women in war work now are on duty at the Union station as "roving" information clerks to assist war time travelers thru the maze of the depot concourse and waiting rooms. Especially trained and dressed in uniforms to distinguish them from other Union station personnel, the six young women are the first of a contingent with fingertip information regarding train schedules, rail fares, and local transportation facilities.

Mary A. Keith, Ruth S. Chatterton, Eileen G. Groble, Betty S. Zuber, Shirley P. Sanders, and Helen E. Fitzgerald compose the sextet trained by Marie B. Griffith, manager of the station information bureau.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. James D. Cameron, the Marine Mothers' club, assisted by the sisters' and wives' auxiliary, will have a benefit card party and dance at 8 o'clock tonight in the Mural ballroom of the Morrison hotel. Marines in uniform will be special guests, and Mrs. Catherine Rogal, president, and the directors have arranged for an attractive feminine "stag line."

Proceeds of the party, like those of the dance which the mothers gave last month, will go into the organization's hospital fund, where by members provide gifts, recreational materials, and refreshments for 500 marines convalescing in the hospital at the Great Lakes naval training center.

National officers of Alpha Delta Pi sorority will meet all day today in the Edgewater Beach hotel. The session is in place of the organization's biennial national convention, eliminated this year to relieve the burden on transportation facilities. A workshop for all province officers and committee chairmen from the United States and Canada will be held in the hotel June 29 to July 4.

The workshop has been adopted to give active and alumnae officers assistance in planning, coördinating, and expanding war projects of the sorority, one of which is providing funds for fellowships awarded to women of allied nations for study in their special fields in the United States. Funds usually spent on the convention will be reallocated to this project.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 23.—Dennis Morgan has come up so fast in the last two pictures, especially "Harvest Moon," that Warner Brothers has handed him the part of Tony Pastor in "The Life of Tony Pastor" opposite Ann Sheridan. . . . Wait until you hear Cole Porter's new cowboy song. It's a dilly titled "Don't Fence Me In," written especially for the "Hollywood Canteen" picture, to be sung by Roy Rogers and his Sons of the Pioneers, with his horse, Trigger, coming in for a hey—nonny-nonny. I'll never forget the night I M. C.'d a canteen show with Roy and the Pioneers. I thought our doughboys would never let them off that stage. . . . Claudette Colbert is reading the script of "Trouble with Women." Whether she'll play it is another question. Her role would be the mother of a young girl. Diana Lynn already is set for it. Story's by Dwight Mitchell Wiley. Gives you quite a glow just to read it. . . . Nancy Porter, who used to be Ethel Merman's understudy, has been signed by Paramount, and her first picture will be "Out of This World" with Eddie Bracken, Veronica Lake, and Diana Lynn.

It's About Time to Wake Up.

It's come to light that Metro's looking for a story, and has been all these years, for Greta Garbo. She's still a hot favorite with top man Louis B. Mayer. Well, she'd be a hot favorite with the public, too, if she'd stop this nonsense about not doing anything to help the war or the Red Cross, or saying "hello" to the soldiers, and give up that pretense of being shy and unapproachable. There's no time in this present life of strife for that kind of stuff. . . . Bless Adrian! He sent me three lovely gowns for my Chicago trip. . . . And wouldn't you know, after I started the campaign which put "Snow White" back into your theaters, that when it finally comes to our town I won't be here to see it? Sure, I could see it any day at the Disney studio, but I enjoy the laughter of the audience while I'm looking at the picture.

Hollywood Coming and Going.

Evalyn Walsh McLean is back in town, but not as robust as she was a year ago. Those broken ribs she got in a fall in Washington last winter haven't joined together as fast as the doctor hoped. . . . Many reunions are planned for Lt. Bruce Cabot when he arrives July 1. . . . Pvt. Lynn W. Johnson of the original "Meet the People" cast got a cash prize and trip to New York, with all expenses, for his song, "New Dawn," in a war song contest sponsored by Raymond Paige. . . . Walter Greaza, known as Broadway's Lewis Stone, comes out for Warner Brothers' production of "Wallflower," but returns east to resume his "Crime Doctor."

This May Be Her Lucky Number.

Now June Millard has changed her name to Toni Seven, which she thinks will be easier to pronounce and spell. She's already being screen tested. She's the daughter of June Caprice and the late Harry Millard, who directed "Over the Hill," but she insists upon starting her screen career on her own two feet without relying on her father's name. . . . Mimi Chandler's Paramount contract has been washed up at her request. Says she, "I married to be with my husband." . . . Quite a chance for Art Director Al Ybarra. He's building a skyscraper background for "Three's a Family." But he was in charge of all steel construction during the building of the Empire State building in New York. . . . When Sam Goldwyn heard Bob Hope was being a little difficult about publicity on "The Princess and the Pirate" set, Goldwyn replied, "Concentrate on what's-her-name—she'll sell my picture." So they're concentrating on the girl whose name Goldwyn couldn't remember. It's Virginia Mayo.

Short Takes from a Busy Burg.

Groucho Marx, who's taking an eight week vacation from his radio show, is off with Fay McKenzie to visit army camps in the south which are off the beaten track and have had little or no entertainment. . . . If Bill Goodwin buys that ranch in Douglas, Ariz., one of his partners will be Al Levy. . . . Marianne Martinet, camera girl, is being tested at Twentieth Century-Fox. . . . Bryant Washburn's son, Dwight, is now a talent scout in the Windy City, where his papa got his break many years ago. . . . Watson Webb is the busiest young man in town, running between Judy Garland and Jennifer Jones as escort. . . . Slapsie Maxie asks, "Why is a hunting license like a wedding license? Because it entitles you to one deer and no more."

Movie Adds Some Furbelows to 'The Story of Dr. Wassell'

"THE STORY OF DR. WASSELL."

A Paramount picture, directed by Cecil B. De Mille, starring Gary Cooper, and presented at the State-Lake.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

The gospel of Dr. Wassell, according to Cecil B. De Mille.

Dr. Corydon M. Wassell, the country doctor of Arkansas—and the navy—was, as you undoubtedly know, hero of one of the Pacific's most gallant episodes. . . . He was assigned to Java for the purpose of attending the wounded officers of the cruisers Houston and Marblehead. The Japanese advance caused the decision to move all "walking cases" to Australia. . . . Dr. Wassell stayed behind with some 13 badly shattered men and miraculously managed to move them from Jokyakarta to the port of Tjilatjap, which was 50 terrible miles away.

By hook and by crook he got them aboard a small Dutch vessel—then took command himself. All this, unbelievable—but true.

The facts concerning Dr. Wassell are undoubtedly revealed in this picture. But everything else is there, too, including the bathtub with which Mr. De Mille may be said to sign off, as it appears along toward the last—the long, long last. . . . A Dr. Wayne—I think that's his name—is introduced as Doc. Wassell's rival in love and bacteriology. I may tell you, I think, that the hero gets the girl—e-ven-tu-ally. Laraine Day, as the wanted woman, is pleasing but not at her best, due to the corny script.

Gary Cooper is conscientious and likable as the doctor—but you do get sort of tired of him. He's in practically every scene, and, brothers and sisters, there are a lot of scenes . . . Excellent in supporting roles are Signe Hasso, Carol Thurston, and Dennis O'Keefe.

Action starts in Arkansas showing Dr. Wassell devoting himself to poor patients who pay him principally in pigs. Mr. De Mille gets whimsical about all this. . . . How he finagles his hero into the war I shan't say.

The picture is glowingly photographed in technicolor and some of the war sequences are brilliantly and realistically executed. Accorded the polished directorial technique with which such biographical films as "Nurse Edith Cavell," "Madame Curie," etc., were blessed, "The Story of Dr. Wassell" might have been one of the great movies of all time.

See you tomorrow.

Inbetween Age Children React to Restrictions

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today I want to touch upon a group of actions of these inbetween children, all having one common cause: argumentativeness, impudence, defiance, and disobedience. These traits are due to the maturing child's growing sense of his own power and his natural distaste for authority. They often develop if we have not wisely changed our handling of him to suit his new status.

He is learning to think for himself now, to act for himself, and so needs greater physical freedom. Because these young children seem to us so young, we find we have gone on treating them as if they were still dependent little things. They have changed, but we have not changed our handling of them. And so this rebellion, this questioning, is their instinctive method of gaining the ends they need for their own development.

We must be wise then and loosen the apron strings, treat them more as adults, and grant them more and more liberty. As their friendships and interests take them increasingly away from home and under outside influences, for good or for bad, it is necessary that we keep close to them spiritually, even tho we may not physically. They always will need as their Rock of Gibraltar our confidence, respect, and love.

Then lastly there are a number of more intangible behavior manifestations of these years. To meet them wisely there is no hard and fast advice. But there is this I want to say: Keep close to your child. Even when you can't understand him or his behavior, when you may be seriously worried, try to have confidence in him and what you hope you have built up thru these earlier years and make him feel some of your trust, love, and affection. And somehow you will find that you have stumbled and fumbled thru these inbetween years with at least a measure of success and with your child's affection and respect intact.

Midwest Methodist Conferees to Name Two New Bishops

Two Methodist bishops will be elected at sessions of a jurisdictional [regional] conference of that church, beginning Thursday at Minneapolis, Minn. Delegates numbering 370 from north central western states are divided equally between ministers and laymen. One of the bishops to be elected will fill the vacancy left by the death of Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf nine months ago.

At closing sessions of the Rock River [Northern Illinois] conference last Tuesday an invitation was extended to Bishop J. Ralph Magee of Des Moines, Ia., to be transferred here. The Minneapolis conference will decide on this invitation. This would mean a new bishop to be named for Des Moines. A second bishop probably will be elected for Milwaukee, Wis., a leading city of the jurisdiction not now having an episcopal residence. A proposal to set up an Ohio area will come before the sessions. There are nearly two million Methodists in the north central jurisdiction, extending from Ohio to the Missouri river.

Several Chicago ministers are being considered for the bishoprics. Among these are Dr. Aubrey S. Moore, superintendent of the Chicago Home Missionary and Church Extension society, and Dr. Thomas Pender of St. James Methodist church.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I have often pointed out in this column, preëmptive bids have great value, both offensively and defensively. This does not mean, however, that they can be used loosely, without regard to the rigid requirements of winners. Consider this case:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 10 8 6 5
♥ K Q J
♦ K Q 10 5

WEST
♠ 3
♥ 10 8 2
♦ A J 6

EAST
♠ J 4
♥ A 9 6 5 3
♦ 9 7 4 2

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 9 7 2
♥ 7 4
♦ 8 3
♣ Q 7 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the club king and East started an echo with the jack. West cashed the club and diamond aces, then led a third club. Declarer did his best to shut out the impending ruff by trumping with dummy's spade 10, but East had the spade jack, and after over-ruffing with that card, laid down the heart ace for a two trick, 1,000 point, set.

This is the sort of debacle that is apt to result from the loose use of a preëmptive opening bid. South was a full winner short of the seven tricks required for his vulnerable bid of nine tricks. In other words, a player who engages to take nine tricks, when vulnerable, has no right to risk more than a two trick defeat in the event he picks up a worthless dummy. North had every reason to feel that, at the very worst, a four spade contract could not go down more than one trick, hence his redouble seemed a good speculation on the basis of pure percentage.

Incidentally, of course, West's double was just a wild gamble, and its success was due to the great luck of finding East with the heart ace, a doubleton club, and the spade jack.

Clothing Price Control No. 1 OPA Problem, Says U. S. Economist

Price control of clothing is now the OPA's No. 1 problem, James S. Earley, head economist in the OPA's office of economic advisor, said yesterday in address before the American Home Economics association, closing its four day convention in the Stevens hotel.

"Clothing prices continue to creep upward and quality deteriorating, only partially reflected in price statistics, is very serious," Mr. Earley asserted. Since February, 1943, he said, the clothing index of the bureau of labor statistics has jumped 8 per cent, making a total rise of 37 per cent above pre-war levels. He added that the disappearance of low priced clothing is the major development reflected in the recent rise of the retail clothing index.

Mrs. Dora Lewis of New York City, the organization's new president, took office yesterday, succeeding Miss Jessie W. Harris, Knoxville, Tenn. Other new officers are Lucy Rathbone, Austin, Tex., vice president, and Elizabeth Guilford, New York, treasurer.

Kitchen Pointers
—By Mary Meade—

"What's the secret of making fluffy dumplings?" phoned a bride who had been having bad luck with her new husband's favorite dish of stew 'n' dumplings.

First, use a reliable recipe with the right proportion of baking powder to flour [four teaspoons baking powder to two cups flour]. Be sure to have an accurate flour measurement, for too much flour results in a heavy product. Add dumpling mixture to boiling hot stew, dropping by small spoonfuls directly onto pieces of meat or vegetables and not allowing it to settle into the liquid. If there is too much liquid, remove part to another pan [keeping hot] before adding dumplings. Cover stew pan tightly [very important!] and cook for 12 minutes. Do not peek even once, as uncovering causes dumplings to become soggy. Note: If dumplings are not to be served immediately, prick each one to let steam escape.

"How is fluffy rice prepared? The rice I cook usually results in a pasty mess." This question has been asked of our department so frequently that we feel a complete answer may help many.

The first step is to wash the raw rice thoroly, changing the water until it ceases to be cloudy. The kernels may not appear to be starch-coated, but such is the case and the starch removal is important. Slowly add rice to boiling salted water in order not to stop active boiling. Boil gently in an uncovered pan without stirring for 12 to 25 minutes or until soft. To test for doneness, press a kernel between the fingers; if there is any hard core, the rice is not done. Do not overcook. Pour into large sieve or colander and wash well with hot water to remove excess starch. To dry and fluff rice, cover with cloth and place over steaming water or in the oven with door open for 10 minutes.

Get Diplomacy Down to Earth, Zontans Urged

The problem of international relations is being treated entirely too much as an academic question, Dr. Marian Hilliard, woman obstetrician of Toronto, Canada, yesterday warned delegates to the 24th annual convention of Zontal International, which today closes its three day session in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Dr. Hilliard, who is a former chairman of international relations for the Toronto Zonta club, spoke at a round table conducted under the chairmanship of Miss Jessie Ekins of St. Catharines, Ont.

"War is the explosion," she said. "that gives you the chance to go back and solve the problems which cause it." She emphasized the necessity of intelligent participation in political questions as a factor in setting the world to rights.

Miss Mabel Stoakley of Toronto, addressing the group at luncheon, urged Zontans to plan for full employment of women both now and after the war. She pointed out that three out of four women who enter industry during the present emergency wish to remain there after the war, according to a dominion survey conducted by the Canadian department of labor.

The work of the Iceland chapter in vocational guidance for young people and in collecting funds for a children's hospital was touched upon by Miss Helga Sigurdsson of Reykjavik.

The question of whether Zonta should admit change in its membership ruling so that two instead of only one woman executive of a particular business classification might be admitted in a unit club brought so much controversial discussion from the floor that it was necessary to table the question in order to continue the morning program. Another issue provoking much discussion was the question of eliminating a second vice president. The decision to retain this officer left the name of Miss Marie Fitzgerald of Spokane, Wash., as unopposed candidate for the post for the coming year.

The ballot box remained open last night until 11 o'clock, others on the proposed slate including Miss Ekins and Miss Louise C. Grace of Detroit, Mich., candidates for president; Miss Ruth H. Gates of Evanston, treasurer; Mrs. Georgia C. Boucher of Fresno, Cal., and Mrs. Bess B. Judd of Dallas, Tex., first vice president.

Household Forum
—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Harold S., Battle Creek, Mich.—Here are a few simple rules I have learned to get the most wear out of my household brushes: I wash all of them frequently, using warm water and soap and rinsing well, then shaking to straighten fibers or bristles. If brushes are set in a wood block, I dry with bristle side down, while those twisted in wire I hang up to dry. And I keep all my brushes on hooks when not in use.

Mrs. George B., Davenport, Ia.—I save gas these days by not using a small utensil on a large burner, for no heat is wasted around the edges. Also I've learned NOT to use a large utensil on a small burner; the outer edges won't heat well and cooking time is slowed up.

Four Are Elected as Vice Presidents of Lutheran Synod

Saginaw, Mich., June 23 (AP).—Delegates to the 39th triennial convention of the Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, elected four vice presidents today, completing their roster of officers. Balloting continued into a night session.

The vice presidents are Dr. Henry Grueber, Milwaukee, Wis.; the Rev. Herman Harms, Davenport, Ia.; the Rev. J. Christian Barth, Cincinnati, O., and Dr. Arthur Brunn, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Establishment of independent Christian high schools and junior colleges by local congregations within the synod was indorsed by the convention, which instructed the synodical board of Christian education and the board of higher education to survey communities where congregations and groups of congregations would be encouraged to establish the schools.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.
A FIXED IDEA.

"We might have guessed," said Woods. "Esther was very queer when she first came back, after her mother was killed, you know, Freddi. She used to forget things terribly and she was vague and nervy and always crying in odd corners; I'm sure she never slept—I used to hear her tossing and turning all night. It got better, of course, but she was terribly devoted to her mother and it must have been the most ghastly experience waiting, literally for days, for her to be rescued . . ."

"Thousands of other people have had to do the same thing in this filthy war," said Frederica.

"You can't match suffering," said Eden, soberly. "Because thousands of people have had the same experience, it didn't make it any better for Esther. And then, perhaps, when she was getting over it, getting back to normal again, Higgins was brought in, and she recognized him as the foreman who had refused to go on searching for her mother. He was perfectly right, I expect; he couldn't sacrifice his men for a hopeless cause."

"Why didn't Higgins recognize Esther?"

"I suppose she was covered in dust and filth when he spoke to her; she'd been digging with the rest of them."

"I can't understand how she never realized that William had been brought in with Higgins," said Woody. "Every one else did. I did. I don't know how I did or who told me, but I seem always to have known that the fractured tib. and fib. was one of the lot who were hit in the A. R. P. center."

"A pub in Godlistone was hit at the same time," suggested Eden. "I expect she vaguely connected it with William and his beer. Her mind would obviously be entirely given up to the problem of Higgins and what to do about him."

"Higgins kept saying that night that all his mates had been killed," said Freddi. "He didn't realize that William was still being dug out, and William was unconscious most of the night with anesthetic and morphia. He thought he was the last of his squad."

"That may have put the idea into Esther's head; that all the others had been punished and Higgins was not to escape retribution either; especially as he had been the one to give the order to cease digging."

"No wonder Higgins had heard all that had gone on in the booth next door to him," said Barney. "Esther withheld the morphia from him; I suppose she just gave him a shot of sterile water, so that he could suffer thru a long night of pain as her mother had suffered for three days and three nights. And then, as she left the ward, she saw one of the tins of paint; and the whole idea popped into her mind at once."

"It must have been ghastly for her, standing there watching Higgins die," Freddi said.

"She looked terrible. I remember during the operation before Higgins, I made her sit down," said Woods. "Of course I thought she just couldn't take it. It was her first abdominal."

"And poor old Higgins was so sort of pathetic with her. He kept calling her 'my dear.'"

"Mrs. Higgins told Cockie that Esther was hard and cruel," said Eden. "The old girl must have spotted what all the rest of us missed."

"But Esther wasn't cruel," insisted Woody, earnestly: "She hated doing it. She just had an idee fixe."

"She didn't kill Sister Bates to revenge her mother. She killed her so that she herself shouldn't be found out."

"Yes, but you can see how the thing worked in her mind. She thought she'd done right; she thought she ought not to be punished. She sort of owed it to her mother not to be. You see what I mean?"

"No, I don't," said Freddi.

"Yes, I do," said Eden. "It was as if the magic would go out of her revenge if she were found out and punished for it. Of course she was happier, she'd met William by that time, and perhaps she wanted to live; but I think the other was the really important reason, the real reason why she went on fighting discovery. That's why she started collecting the morphia; it had become an obsession with her that she shouldn't be caught and punished for her mother's death."

"To think that she should let the men suffer, just that she could save up some morphia! It was too awful; I can't forgive Esther that part of it; it's the worst of all to me!"

"She gave them a little, Freddi; she gave them half doses and things like that. Altogether in the three nights she was on, she must have had, say eight grains to give out. Suppose she kept back four; with the two original grains and then the extra quarter grain she pinched from your haversack, she had six and a quarter grains; and there was the original quarter that she didn't give Higgins. That would almost certainly have killed her; quite apart from her having managed to get some into the vein."

"Of course that's why she died so quickly?"

"Of course. It takes hours of coma and what-not in the ordinary way. I don't think Moon would have saved her, anyway, but if he could stall Cockrill off for a bit, he might pull her round . . ."

"And then when Cockie broke in before he could give her the antidote, they both were relieved."

"Well, yes; Moon must have seen then that the game was up for poor Esther. It was best that she should die."

"But, Gervase, Cockrill obviously knew by then that it was Esther who had—had killed Higgins and Bates . . ."

"We don't know that Moon realized that. I believe he thought that Cockie really suspected him. Don't you remember how he called out to stop Esther from confessing. I believe he'd have given himself up for the murders to save her. After all, he didn't care about life very much even then."

"Of course, it wasn't a postman's bicycle that he saw?"

"No, no, of course, it wasn't," said Barnes. "Cockrill was just stringing Esther along, trying to work her up to tell the real truth, tho it's true that 10 or 15 years ago when Moon's child was killed country postmen did have red bicycles. No, this was a silver plated thing belonging to a young fellow in the neighborhood; he saw it gleaming in the sun. He's told me about it often."

Prune Tapioca Pudding.
[Serves 10.]

3 cups cooked prune pulp
1 cup prune juice
1 cup water
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
Few grains salt
½ teaspoon lemon juice
2 eggs, separated

Combine prunes, liquids, sugar, tapioca, and salt, and cook slowly until tapioca is clear. Add lemon juice; then slightly beaten egg yolks and cook 2 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Cool until mixture is partially thickened; fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill and serve with custard sauce or cream.

WMC OUTLINES RULES OF NEW HIRING SYSTEM

Referral Plan to Go Into Effect July 1.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—WMC Chairman McNutt today outlined 10 conditions which will govern recruitment of labor outside a worker's home region under the new priority referral program of the WMC which becomes effective July 1.

The referral program imposes federal control on all male labor over 17 years of age except workers in agriculture. It forbids the hiring of workers on a full time basis except thru referral to employers by the United States employment service or thru arrangements approved by local USES offices.

The WMC said the program will result in referring workers to jobs in the order of relative importance to the war program.

10 Conditions Listed.

The 10 conditions governing recruiting outside the home region are:

1. That the employer is making full use of his present labor force.
2. That all local sources of labor supply have been exhausted.
3. That the need for workers is hindering, or in the near future will hinder, war production.
4. That the number of workers requested represents the employer's actual needs.
5. That the employer's specifications represent the minimum specifications for performance of the job and the range of wages rates he will pay.
6. That the employer will follow the recruitment itinerary arranged by the USES, will advertise at recruitment points, if necessary, and send his hiring representatives to make hiring commitments or delegate hiring authority to the USES. [The "recruitment itinerary" provides the places where an employer's hiring representatives may be sent to interview prospective workers.]
7. That where medical examinations are required, they will be given at the employer's expense, either at the recruitment point or at the location of the job.

Certification Required.

8. That the employer agrees to provide transportation for workers from the recruitment point to the job in all cases where it is considered necessary to the successful recruitment of workers.
9. That in the event the worker is not accepted, without just cause, upon his arrival at the job, the employer will provide return transportation for the worker.
10. That housing facilities be available for the worker upon his arrival at the job.

McNutt said that before interregional recruitment is undertaken for a specific employer the WMC regional director originating the order for workers outside his region must certify to WMC headquarters in Washington that the 10 conditions have been met or will be met.

He said that when the Washington office is satisfied that the employer must go outside his home region to obtain necessary workers an order will be transmitted to regions where recruitment is likely to be most fruitful.

The employer then will be notified where to send hiring representatives to engage workers.

ARREST SECOND MAN IN $51,000 THEFT CHARGE OF COMPANY

William A. Woods, 62, of 1010 Springfield av., Deerfield, was arrested yesterday by state's attorney's police and charged with conspiracy with Knud Nielsen, 47, of Hinsdale in connection with Nielsen's embezzlement of $51,000 from the Belden Manufacturing company, where he was manager of the foreign sales division.

The conspiracy charge was placed against Woods after Nielsen said he made out vouchers for payment by check to Woods, who cashed the checks for him. Woods admitted cashing several of the checks and returning most of the money to Nielsen but said he did it as a favor.

Nielsen, an employe of the company for more than 20 years, has admitted taking the money during the last three years. His only explanation, according to Prosecutor C. Vernon Thompson, was that his salary was not sufficient. Nielsen has returned approximately $35,000 of the embezzled funds. In Felony court Judge Francis Borrelli continued until June 30 hearings on a charge of conspiracy against Woods and Nielsen and an additional charge of embezzlement against Nielsen.

BLACKMAIL PLAN FAILS; WOMAN GETS 6 MONTHS

Miss Muriel Beier, 30, who was arrested after trying to collect $75 from a motorist by posing as a policewoman and as a Tribune reporter, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in Felony court to six months in the Bridewell on her plea of guilty to attempted extortion.

In addition, Judge Borrelli fined her a total of $100 on charges of attempted extortion, assault and battery, and impersonating a policewoman.

Albert Hanson, 46, of 722 N. Laramie av., a salesman, told the court she asked for a ride in his car, then said she was a policewoman and was going to arrest him unless he paid her $75. When he refused, she then said she was a Tribune reporter.

A 57 MILE WIND DAMAGES CITY'S ROOFS AND TREES

Damaged roofs, gutters, smokestacks, automobiles, felled trees, and utility poles were the chief casualties yesterday in Chicago's early morning thunder squall. A 57 mile wind was recorded by the weather bureau at the University of Chicago in the path of the severest blow. Principal damage was reported on the south and northwest sides.

Altho part of the same general atmospheric disturbances which brought a tornadic wind in Lafayette county, Wis., and Stephenson county, Ill., with 9 deaths reported and 22 persons in hospitals. The thunderstorm here was local.

Hyde Park was the center of south side damage, and a number of trees in Jackson park were snapped by the wind. Two houses, at 6512 Eberhart av., and 5227 S. Morgan st., and autos of Walter Bloom of the Windermere hotel, 1642 E. 56th st.; H. G. Batten, 4547 Lake Park av., and Knut Upstead, 4453 Berkeley av., were struck by fallen trees. Electric service was cut off for 2 hours and 28 minutes in the district bounded by Fulton st., Warren, Albany, and California avs., and for lesser periods in three localities on the northwest side.

PRESS FREEDOM WILL PRESERVE PEACE—KNIGHT

Detroit, Mich., June 23 (AP).—Terming freedom of the press thruout the world a means of preserving the future peace, John S. Knight, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, today appointed a committee of 13 editors whose objective will be to establish the principle in future national and international agreements.

Will Seek Adoption.

"The people do not desire war and all peoples would discourage it if the real causes or motives for war were exposed thru the daily publication of news free from the influence of self interest," Knight, publisher of the Detroit Free Press, the Akron Beacon-Journal, and the Miami Herald, said in a statement.

Appointment of the "committee on freedom of communications" was provided for in a resolution adopted at the April, 1944 meeting of the ASNE. Its first action, Knight said, would be to seek adoption of freedom of the press resolutions by the Republican and Democratic national political conventions.

List Committee Members.

Members of the committee are: Ralph E. McGill, Atlanta Constitution, chairman; Carl W. Ackerman, graduate school of journalism, Columbia university, vice chairman; Palmer Hoyt, Portland Oregonian; Laurence L. Winship, Boston Globe; Ralph Coghlan, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Raymond McCaw, New York Times; Paul Scott Mowrer, Chicago Daily News; Nelson D. Poynter, St. Petersburg Times; Carl D. Groat, Cincinnati Post; Sevellon Brown, Providence Journal-Bulletin; James E. Chappell, Birmingham News and Age-Herald; Gardner Cowles Jr., Des Moines Register and Tribune; and John H. Sorrells, Memphis Commercial Appeal.

APPEAL FILED ON SEDITION CASE DISMISSAL

The United States Supreme court may be asked again to rule on the question of free speech in connection with violation of espionage laws, it was indicated yesterday when John Owen, assistant United States attorney, filed notice of appeal on the ruling dismissing a sedition indictment against Walter Bober, 26, of 4018 N. Hamlin av.

The indictment was dismissed by Federal Judge William J. Campbell because of the recent Supreme court ruling reversing the conviction of Elmer Hartzel of Chicago on a similar charge of sedition. Bober was accused of violation of the sedition laws in letters written to his brother in the army.

In dismissing the indictment, Judge Campbell expressed his "violent disagreement" with the Hartzel ruling.

CLOSING WON'T WIPE OUT POINT OVERDRAFT: OPA

Office of price administration officials had a new headache last night over Barney Kessel, who earlier in the day informed Federal Judge John P. Barnes that he had closed up his steak house and bar at 741 Randolph st. until he makes up his overdraft of 404,569 points in his ration bank account.

The OPA officials said Kessel had a right to close his business, but as a closed business he would not be entitled to ration points and therefore would not receive any points to make up the overdraft.

On the complaint that Kessel continued to serve rationed steaks after he had been ordered to stop by OPA officials, Judge Barnes issued a restraining order against him. OPA officials said that because of his violations of the order, they would ask that Kessel be suspended from dealing in rationed goods for the duration of the war.

BOWLES SAYS OPA NEEDS MORE INVESTIGATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The OPA, which already has 3,300 investigators thruout the nation, will need 1,200 more to enforce the provisions of the amended price control act that now is awaiting Presidential approval, Price Administrator Bowles said today.

Bowles said other additional employes would be needed to speed up the work of expediting price control orders and handling increased administrative work. He anticipated an increased load in connection with rent adjustments.

He said that OPA officials were pleased that "congress took, in general, favorable action" on the bill and eliminated those amendments which he considered inflationary.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., June 23.—The eighth place Cubs stepped out with all the mannerisms of professionals this evening and amused themselves by polishing off the Reds in the opener of a four game series before 8,200, some of whom booed as if they weren't exactly pleased. The Chicagoans jumped off to a flying start and sailed nonchalantly thru a 3 to 1 decision that broke their losing streak at four games and gave the Rhinelanders a string of equal length.

Hank Wyse, who conquered the Reds on opening day, after which the Cubs went into their 13 game drouth, went the distance tonight in impressive style, but he enjoyed an able assistant in the person of Andy Pafko, the center field patrolman. The ex-Coast leaguer committed two brazen robberies, once making a backhanded running catch with an enemy runner on base and doing it again to spear an extra base hit at the start of an inning. Andy also doubled to get the Cubs their third run.

Johnson Gets Double.

To provide Wyse with the needed runs the Cubs stepped on Alumnus Clyde Shoun, getting him down with two runs in the first inning which Roy Hughes featured with a single and Don Johnson with a double. In the remaining eight innings only six Cubs reached base but only one of them, Pafko, went farther than second.

Meanwhile, the Reds punched Wyse for one or two hits in all except two innings, once having the bases filled with none out, but couldn't find the plate until the eighth, their run at that stage preventing Wyse from duplicating his shutout here on opening day.

Phil Cavarretta was charged with no time at bat. He went to the plate four times, sacrificed twice, and drew two walks.

Shoun's Throw Is Late.

Shoun helped himself into the first inning jam by making a late throw of Cavarretta's bunt trying to force Hughes, who had opened the entertainment with a single. Novikoff advanced the two runners by bunting, whereupon Nicholson was purposely passed. Pafko skipped a grounder to Mesner who whipped it back to the plate to force Hughes. Johnson then aimed a tantalizing bounder between Miller and Williams, who both touched the ball and thus slowed it down enough to make it a double, Cavarretta and Nicholson scoring. York ended the joy by flying to Walker.

For the next four innings the Cubs did so little with Shoun's southpawing that it looked as if they had exhausted themselves with their first inning production, but they finally got service in the sixth on the two base hit with which Pafko led off. He dashed over to third on Johnson's bunt and sprinted home on York's fly to Tipton.

Wyse Strong in Pinches.

The most severe strain on Wyse's pitching resources came in the sixth, which Walker opened with a scratch hit behind second. McCormick flied out and Mueller uncorked what had the makings of an easy double play, but in his haste York gave the thing a boot and nobody was retired. To make it worse Tipton accepted free transportation, loading the bags. Estel Crabtree, batting for Mesner, popped to Hughes, and Miller succumbed on strikes.

The Reds started the eighth as if they had figured out a foolproof scheme to bring on Wyse's hasty removal. Walker led off with a two base punch to right center and, after a brief pause, went the rest of the way on a single by McCormick. Wyse took hold of the situation by fanning Mueller and inducing Tipton to bang a double play ball to York. There was a mild threat in the ninth which Chuck Aleno opened with a single, but the next three gentlemen did nothing.

Illini Head A.A.U. Track Field Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Six members of the University of Illinois track team, headed by Buddy Young, will seek the Central A. A. U. championship this afternoon in Key Branch Athletic field, Roosevelt rd. and Central av. The program for the 43d annual track meet of the Central association is to begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Young certainly should have no difficulty winning the 100 and 220 yard sprints, since he is the National Collegiate champion in these events and he also won the National A. A. U. 100 meter event last week. The other members of the Illini group, who will represent the Campus Business Men's association of Champaign, are expected to add sufficient points to clinch the team title.

Kelley to Be Unattached.

Bob Kelley, captain of the Illinois team which won the Central Collegiate and National Collegiate championships after finishing second in the Western conference, can not compete for the Champaign club because he is enrolled in summer school. Kelley, who is entered in the quarter mile and half mile, will compete unattached. Glenn Wehrman, Maine Township High school hurdler, who also is enrolled at Illinois, will compete without affiliation.

Other members of the Business Men's club from Champaign are Marce Gonzalez, quarter miler; Bob Phelps, pole vaulter; Bob Ruther and Dave Nichols, hurdlers, and Ralph Dowling, half miler. Paul Patterson, discus thrower, who also competed for Illinois, may be added to the group.

21 Events Scheduled.

Illinois Tech, with 20 entries, and the Olde Tymers club of Chicago, are rivals for the team championship. Twenty-one events are scheduled.

Henry Altepeter and Bill Madden of Northwestern university are entered. Other outstanding athletes are Dick Rider of the University of Chicago and Walter Farmer of the Olde Tymers club. Team entries have been received from Columbus, Washington, Douglas, Madden, and Hamilton parks; Pullman Technical High school; Naperville Athletic club; Morton Track club of Cicero, and the Green and Gold A. C., composed of athletes from Lane Tech and Schurz High schools.

Jackson Park Club Regatta Begins Today

A total of 27 Star class sloops from the Columbia, Chicago, Chicago Corinthian, Sheridan Shore, and Jackson Park yacht clubs are expected to compete today and tomorrow in the latter club's 10th annual invitational regatta.

The first race will start at 3 p. m. off Jackson Park harbor, with the second race beginning at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow morning. The final event will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

Bert Williams of the Chicago Yacht club will defend the regatta title with his new 22 foot yacht, Katie. He won the series last year in Bubbling Over. Dr. Florus Black in Silver King, Richard Stearns in Shrew, and Jack Rice in Mutinous, are expected to be the leading Jackson Park entrants. Commodore Durl Ruger, former chief flag officer of the club, will be chairman of the regatta committee.

Falcon, Clare Udell's 52 foot sailing yacht, will defend the Virginia trophy today at 2:30 p. m. and tomorrow in the annual series for Q class racing sloops over a 12 mile course off Belmont harbor. Four other large craft, L. L. [Ole] Karas' new Cara Mia, Otto Dreher's Lively Lady, Walter Heinichen's Hornet, and Joe Stein's Hope, are entered in the three races scheduled.

Braves Dedicate Army Field with 11 to 2 Victory

Camp Shanks, N. Y., June 23 (AP).—The Boston Braves exploded six home runs over the comparatively short outfield fences of the new Camp Shanks baseball diamond to defeat the soldiers, 11 to 2, today in an exhibition game which dedicated the new ball field. Score:

Boston	201	011	240	11	10	0
Camp Shanks	101	000	000	2	7	1

I'm longing for the Cashel hills today,
Where you and I had sauntered long ago
Before the wanderlust drew me away
From the sun-dappled valley's verdant glow;
Could I but twine a wild rose in your hair
And bask in the soft sunshine of your smile
My troubled bosom should forget its care
And life lose its deceitfulness and guile.

Ah, strange that we should be so far apart
Who in the long ago were side by side!
How often I had pressed you to my heart
And promised only you should be my bride!
O, give me back the Cashel hills I know,
The shamrock and the Irish mist—and you.

17 NAMED FOR EQUIPOISE MILE AT ARLINGTON

Wright Trio Is 7-5 in Today's Race.

Equipoise Field

SEVENTEEN horses were named for Arlington Park's $10,000 added Equipoise mile to be run at Washington Park today. The field in order of post positions follows:

	Wgt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Quizzle	98	S. Freeman	20-1
War Knight	105	No boy	50-1
Night Shadow	100	G. Seabo	15-1
*Mar-Kell	110	C. McCreary	7-5
†Salto	102	N. Jemas	5-1
‡Equifox	102	A. Bodlou	10-1
Corona Corona	100	No boy	8-1
Georgie Drum	108	G. Woolf	10-1
Brief Sigh	95	No boy	15-1
*Sun Again	127	C. McCreary	7-5
Martian	96	No boy	12-1
Fire Dust	93	W. Gillespie	30-1
‡Daily Trouble	100	No boy	10-1
Anticlimax	104	A. Skoronski	25-1
†Rounders	117	N. Jemas	5-1
*Son of Peace	108	C. McCreary	7-5
Occupation	120	O. Grohs	4-1

*Calumet farm entry. †W. M. Helis entry. ‡Wells and Straus entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The devil's red of the mighty Calumet farm will not be the only splash of color in Arlington Park's Equipoise mile at Washington Park, but it dominates the pre-race lineup of 17 handicap stars named to start in the fourth running of the $10,000 added event.

Warren Wright and his astute charge d'affairs, Trainer Ben Jones of the Missouri hills, are loaded for bear with three of the fleetest—Sun Again, defending champion of the handicap division; Mar-Kell, a daughter of the imported Blenheim II., and Son of Peace, a Stimulus gelding. Sun Again, 5 year old son of Sun Teddy-Hug Again, has been allotted top weight of 127 pounds and no doubt will have the flashy Conn McCreary in the saddle.

There'll Be Competition.

There will be plenty of competition Irish-bred Rounders and the 5 year for the Calumet entry, however, for William Helis has entered the old Salto, a product of the Willis Sharpe Kilmer breeding farm. Then, too, Wright's fellow Chicagoan, John Marsch, will send his great sprinter, Occupation, to the post with the money-riding Otto Grohs aboard.

Sun Again and his mates no doubt will be post time favorites, but the field is filled with capable milers and Occupation demonstrated his ability at that distance last year when he won the 8 furlong Dick Welles handicap at Washington Park. Occupation drew the outside post position and Sun Again pulled number 10.

Equifox Seeks No. 2.

Equifox, 7 year old son of Equipoise, will be after his second victory in the race named for his sire, having won the inaugural in 1941 at Arlington Park.

If all 17 start, the race will have a gross value of $14,700, and will be worth $10,950 to the winner, which also will gain the first leg on the Challenge cup. Col. C. V. Whitney presented the trophy in memory of Equipoise, whose world mile record of 1:34 2-5 established at Arlington Park in 1932, still stands.

A Long Shot Scores.

The seven year old Strombus, a 21 to 1 shot, captured the fifth race, the day's $2,000 co-feature, with a one-length margin over H. L. Kelley's Piplad in a field of eight. Strombus, owned by F. and R. Maviglano and ridden by George Seabo, paid $45.20. Funk and Roth's Fair Sand took the show.

Yesterday's crowd, estimated at 11,000, wagered $706,072, as compared with $419,593 for the corresponding day of the 1943 meeting.

The daily double was worth $34.40 when Marion Brink's Little Monarch took the first race and E. H. McMahon's Orchard Run accounted for the second. Little Monarch paid $13.60 and Orchard Run $5.

Maryland Tracks to Ask for 72 Day Fall Season

Baltimore, Md., June 23 (AP).—Major Maryland race track officials said today they would ask the state racing commission to approve a 72-day fall racing season at Laurel and Pimlico—the longest consecutive program ever held in the state. Under the plan the season would open at Laurel Sept. 4 and continue thru 50 racing days. Pimlico would open Nov. 1 and close Nov. 25. The meetings would be conducted jointly by Pimlico, Laurel, Bowie and Harve de Grace.

ZAHARIAS, GERMAIN MEET TODAY IN 36 HOLE WESTERN GOLF FINAL

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Mildred Didrikson Zaharias, the 30 year old Texan who won the 1940 Open championship of the Women's Western Golf association, as a professional, today will attempt to play an encore in the role of an amateur when she steps on the first tee of the Park Ridge Country club as one of the finalists. She made certain of a place in the 36 hole title match by winning one of yesterday's 18 hole semi-final matches from sturdy and determined Betty Haemerle of St. Louis by a 2 and 1 margin.

In what should prove to be one of the best finals in Western history, the first eighteen beginning at 9 a. m., and the second at 2 p. m., Mrs. Zaharias will find a worthy foe in personable Dorothy Germain, the Philadelphia collegian who currently holds the association's amateur championship. Dot reached her second W. W. G. A. final in two years by winning yesterday's other semi-final from Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., 4 and 3.

Wins on 17th Green.

One up at the turn by reason of a medal card of 39, one over par, the Babe found herself in a real fight with Miss Haemerle. The latter squared it at the 11th, yielded the 12th, then won the 13th and 14th for a one up margin. Mrs. Zaharias then put on one of her patented rallies, taking the 15th with a par, the sixteenth with a birdie, and the 17th with a 20 foot putt for a match concluding deuce.

Mrs. Zaharias led early in the match by taking the second, but Miss Haemerle evened it at the third. They halved the next three holes and Mrs. Zaharias led again, 1 up, when she won the seventh with a par 4.

The Babe was two up after the 449 yard eighth, where, with the wind back of her, she needed only a driver and a No. 5 iron to reach the back fringe of the green. The Californian then hammered a No. 4 iron to the back of the sloping green at the 210 yard ninth, but her chip overran the cup and she missed the remaining 10 footer to lose the hole. Her opponent, short of the green, recovered within 12 feet and holed the putt.

Match Tightens Up.

Mrs. Zaharias and her 18 year old opponent halved the 447 yard tenth in par fives, and then the match tightened up when the Babe three-putted from 35 feet on the 356 yard eleventh. A trap cost Betty Jane the 12th, but she holed a 35 footer for a winning par at the 424 yard thirteenth, where Mrs. Zaharias put her first two shots in the rough. The Babe visited the rough at No. 14 and here Betty Jane again showed her mettle under fire, as she had in eliminating in succession the 1943 finalists, Dorothy Kirby and Lt. Patty Berg. Her tee shot wound up in the sand, but she nearly holed her explosion shot, winning the hole with a par tree.

Then the Babe went to work. A drive and a 5 iron left her over the green at the 468 yard fifteenth, but she recovered and got down in two putts. Miss Haemerle was in the rough twice, and then after sending her third into a trap she blasted out to the back edge of the green, wherefrom she nearly holed her chip shot for a half. The youngster missed her drive at the 438 yard sixteenth, however, finally taking a six on the hole and conceding a four to Babe, who lashed out a tremendous drive, then rifled a neat iron to the green. The deuce on the 200 yard seventeenth finished the day's business.

Even the Best Get 7s.

Miss Germain encountered all manner of grief on the first two holes, winding up with a seven at the 415 yard first; where she buried a ball in the bushes. She lost both, but came back to even the count at the turn.

Two shots in the rough off the tenth tee cost Miss Cline that hole, and her opponent then proceeded to add to the first advantage she had held during the match. She holed a ten footer for a birdie on the 386 yard 11th, and won the 12th with a par despite the failure to hit the green. They both took bogey fives at the 13th, and a 15 foot deuce putt for Dorothy on No. 14, together with a half in birdies on the 15th ended it.

The first nine cards follow:

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, who haven't finished as high as second place in the American league for 24 years, were confronted with the chance to take over that lofty perch before 22,684 in Comiskey park last night thru the supposedly simple expedient of beating the lowly Cleveland Indians.

The Chicagoans made a run in the first inning all right—it was forced home—and then the lads seemed to stiffen from the night air while the Indians made two runs without a hit in the fifth inning. And three runs on four singles and an error in the sixth gave them five for the eventful score of 5 to 1.

The slightly choking Sox fell into a tie with the Yankees for third place and hardly can wait this afternoon, when they expect the sunshine to ease up their throws and tonsils. They have played 11 night games this year and have blown eight of the nocturnal meetings.

Pretty Good for a Sore Arm.

Lefty Al Smith, who has been suffering from a sore arm this season, held the earnest but inadequate Chicagoans to four singles, three of them by Eddie Carnett, subbing for Wally Moses. The other single was made by Ralph Hodgin, like Carnett, a left handed hitter. The right handed hitters were more confused than the lefties against Smith's southpaw stuff.

Le Roy Schalk, Grey Clarke, and Mike Tresh got a grand total of one ball to the outfield. Skeeter Webb was retired twice by outfielders Thurman Tucker and Hal Trosky made the lefty vs. lefty tradition stand up well, however, as neither got the ball out of the infield.

There Still Is Hope.

Despite their fold-up last night, the Sox are only four games back of St. Louis and a game behind the Boston Red Sox, who also swooned in the hot pursuit of the Brownies.

Thornton Lee, who suffered his eighth loss, against one victory, was emphatic enough in the first inning. He made Oris Hockett roll to Webb, then fanned Ken Keltner and Paul O'Dea, all of which formed a contrast for Smith's wild opening session.

Carnett opened the Chicago offense with a single to center and advanced on Schalk's sacrifice. Tucker walked, after which Trosky popped to Russ Peters. Hodgin walked, loading the bases, and Clarke walked, forcing Carnett across the plate. Three died on base when Tresh whiffed on three straight pitches.

Here's the Bad News.

Here's the detail of the way the Indians made two runs without a hit and without getting the ball out of the infield in the fifth. Lou Boudreau led off with a walk, then Roy Cullenbine fouled to Tresh and Norm Schlueter tapped to Lee. Mickey Rocco walked and Peters bounced one straight to Clarke, who fumbled, loading the bases.

Lee then walked Smith, forcing Boudreau across the plate with the tying run. Next, Lee loosed a wild pitch, Rocco scoring. Hockett struck out.

The real Lee collapse, in the sixth, was a bit different from the big fellow's distress in the fifth. After Keltner had started in the sixth with a line drive to Hodgin

BROWNS SCORE IN TWO INNINGS; BEAT TIGERS, 5-0

Gain Full Game in Race as Boston Loses.

St. Louis, Mo., June 23 (AP).—Sig Jakucki turned in a five hit game tonight as the St. Louis Browns defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 0. It was Jakucki's second straight shutout over Detroit by the same score.

Frank Overmire, the Tigers' starting pitcher, was hit hard by the Browns in the first inning when they scored three times. Don Gutteridge walked and Mike Kreevich singled. George McQuinn followed with a double, and Vern Stephens got a single before the first out. Walter Beck replaced Overmire after the Browns collected three hits for two runs in the second.

AfghanHound Takes Honors in Dog Show

BY BOB BECKER.

A champion Afghan hound named Yenghiz Khan of Five Mile, owned by Mrs. Marion Foster Florsheim of New York City, won the coveted honor of best in show yesterday in the first annual dog show presented by the Steel City Kennel club in Dyche stadium. This tawny-colored purebred, handled by W. J. Adair of Northbrook, Ill., was the only eastern dog in the finals. More than 400 dogs were benched for this show.

Young Pointer Gains Finals.

Several startling upsets featured this one day show. In the sporting dog group, a young pointer named Rolew Startler bested champion setters, a springer spaniel, and other noted winners to win the variety group and to compete in the finals for best of show. Startler is owned by S. B. Sullivan of De Kalb.

Other finalists in the best in show judging were Duke Kildare Von De Odehove, 2 year old German shepherd owned by Martin B. Romeiser of Park Ridge; C H. Kinclaven the Stooge, the well known Scottish terrier owned by Mrs. Marie Stone of Milwaukee; the year old Toy Manchester terrier, Johnny Zero of Kent, owned by Mrs. Ruby M. Owen of Aurora, which beat a champion to be the representative of the toy breeds in the finals; and the Schipperke, champion Walrose Maroufkin owned by Walter H. Chute, director of the Shedd aquarium.

Champion Setters Win.

G. V. Glebe of Bryn Athyn, Pa., who picked the best dog in the show, also judged the brace class. He pinned the first place ribbon, the handsome Brace of Orange belt, on setters Ch. Polly's Blazing Star and Ch. Captain Jinks owned by Mrs. Franklin Pierce of Wilmette.

The exhibit of purebred dogs in Dyche stadium continues today when the Skokie Valley Kennel club holds its annual all bred dog show starting at 9:45 a. m. More than 600 dogs have been entered in this classic which is the largest outdoor show scheduled for Chicagoland. Judging will continue thru the afternoon until the best in show is picked.

PURDUE HONORS BASEBALL STARS

TIMM, ELLIOTT

Lafayette, Ind., June 23 [Special].—Eddie Timm of Whiting, veteran right handed hurler was named honorary captain of Purdue's baseball squad for the season just closed, and Chalmers [Bump] Elliott of Bloomington, Ill., center field and shortstop, was named the most valuable player, it was announced today by Coach C. S. [Pop] Doan, following a meeting of lettermen.

Timm, a navy V-12 trainee, was one of the most consistent performers on the mound for the Boilermakers as they wound up in a tie for sixth place in the Big Ten race.

Elliott's selection as the most valuable player climaxed a brilliant freshman year in intercollegiate competition for the former Bloomington High school star. In addition to this honor in baseball, Elliott won a major letter as a back on the football squad, and a major letter in basketball as a guard.

ELAINE PASSOW LOSES TRI-STATE TENNIS MATCH

Cincinnati, O., June 23 (AP).—Most divisions in the 43d Tri-State tennis tournament moved into the semi-finals today with results holding true to pre-tournament predictions. Mary Arnold, Philadelphia, beat Catherine Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., 6-1, 6-0, and Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Elaine Passow, Chicago, 6-2, 6-1.

Shirley Fry, hard hitting youngster from Akron, O., defeated Joanne Dunne, 19, Des Moines, Ia., champion, 6-2, 6-1, and Pauline Betz, Los Angeles, beat Gloria Thompson, St. Louis, 6-2, 6-1.

Billy Talbert, Indianapolis, beat Leonard Schiff, Columbus, O., 6-1, 6-0, in the only men's singles encounter of the day, and in the women's doubles Betz-Thompson defeated Nancy Corbett, Chicago, and Fry, 6-4, 6-2; Arnold-Bundy defeated Wolf and Mary Donnalley, Forest Hills, N. Y., 7-5, 6-2.

BOUNDING HOME TOPS FIELD FOR $50,000 DWYER

New York, June 23 (AP).—Bounding Home will attempt to prove his Belmont stakes victory was no fluke tomorrow when he opposes nine other 3 year olds in the $50,000 Dwyer stakes.

He will be required to contend with such speed horses as A. P. Parker's By Jimminy, winner of the Shevlin last Saturday; Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up, third in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness; George D. Widener's Lucky Draw, and such fast finishers as Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, Shut Up from Joe Goldblanď's Erlanger stable, and Roy B. Martin's Kaytee.

By Jimminy, who failed to train for the Derby, and Stir Up probably will be the choice of the expected crowd of 40,000.

Admission to Aqueduct will be by war bond only, with $25 and $50 bonds entitling the purchaser to the grandstand and $100 or more to a seat in the clubhouse.

ROLLINS STARS REACH EASTERN NET SEMI-FINALS

Elizabeth, N. J., June 23 (AP).—Betty Rosenquest of Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla., seeded No. 2 in the women's eastern intercollegiate tennis tournament, breezed thru a quarter-final match today to defeat Joan Wheeler of Temple university, 6-1, 6-1.

She will be matched tomorrow in the semi-finals against another Rollins entry, Constance Clifton, who beat Louise Oslin of the University of Georgia, 6-4, 6-2, today. Miss Clifton is the only unseeded player in the field of 33 to reach the semi-final round of the tournament.

Doris Hart, top seeded, of Barry college, Miami, Fla., and Lillian Lopaus, seeded No. 3, of Rollins, who won quarter-final matches yesterday, will face each other in the other semi-final bracket tomorrow.

In men's singles Chadwick Johnson of Princeton scored a major upset by downing second seeded Lt. David P. Wood Jr. of West Point, 6-4, 6-1. Johnson and top seeded Frederick C. Prior, the Princeton doubles team, defeated Edward L. Slater and Don S. Willner of Harvard, 6-1, 6-1, in a semi-final match. They will meet an American university team of Robert Miller and Merrill Heddings Jr. in finals Sunday.

NORTH SIDERS TO DEFEND TITLE IN POLICE SERIES

First game in the 22d annual police baseball series will be played in Wrigley field tomorrow when a team composed of policemen from the north side meets a team from the south side districts. The other games of the series will be played at Comiskey park on Saturday and Sunday, July 1 and 2.

A trophy donated by John D. Allen, vice president of Brinks, Inc., will be presented to the winning team. Last year the north side team swept the series. Entire proceeds of the games go to the Policemen's Benevolent association insurance fund, which provides for the widows and orphans of police killed in the line of duty, as well as those of other deceased members of the force.

Lincolnshire Club to Hold Swimming Events Today

Swimming as well as golf will be prominent today at the Lincolnshire Country club. The outdoor pool will open with swimming and diving contests, as well as a water polo game.

Indians' Smith Beats Lee and White Sox, 5-1

Paul O'Dea knocked the third Indian hit of the game and went to third on Boudreau's single to right. Cullenbine singled to center, scoring O'Dea. Lee tried to catch Cullenbine off first but threw to the bullpen, Boudreau scoring and Cullenbine reaching third. Norm Schlueter singled to left, scoring Cullenbine. Joe Haynes replaced Lee and Schlueter was caught stealing. Then Rocco struck out.

Joe Is Rather Tough.

Haynes pitched the last three innings and held the Indians to three hits, one the only extra baser of the game, by Peters in the ninth. Haynes caught him dozing off second, so no harm was done.

Orval Grove and Allie Reynolds will be the pitchers at the start of this afternoon's contest.

MONEY PARLEY DECISIONS NOT BINDING: F. D. R.

Morgenthau Heads Bipartisan Group.

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt named a bipartisan delegation today to represent the United States at the world monetary and financial conference.

He reiterated, in a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau made public by the treasury chief, that neither the United States nor any other government would be bound by decisions of the conference to be held at Bretton Woods, N. H., starting July 1.

The President's letter also said the American delegation would be expected to adhere closely to previously announced principles covering proposals for an 8 billion dollar currency stabilization fund and a 10 billion world bank for reconstruction and development.

Includes Committee Members.

Among the delegation, headed by Secretary Morgenthau, are Republican and Democratic members of the senate and house banking and currency committee.

Sen. Tobey [R., N. H.], who is one of the delegates, said, "This association of nations is the first definite step for permanent world cooperation."

However, 21 house Republicans said in the statement that altho the United States has a "moral and practical responsibility" to share in rebuilding war ravaged nations, the administration's world monetary plan is not the proper approach.

They proposed instead as the first step the creation by congress of a United States reconstruction fund under the supervision of a United States board of directors, confirmed by the senate. The fund would act separately or in joint account with foreign governments, individuals, or corporations with all loans or credits made "in consideration of approved plans seeking to balance the budget of the recipient country."

Signers Are Listed.

Signing the statement were Representatives Dewey of Illinois, Eaton and Auchincloss of New Jersey, Judd and Gale of Minnesota; Kinzer, Pennsylvania; Holmes, Washington; Ellsworth, Oregon; Baldwin, Lefevre, Hancock, and Wadsworth, New York; La Follette, Indiana; Carlson, Kansas; Jenkins and Vorys, Ohio; Clare Boothe Luce, Connecticut; Herter and Rogers, Massachusetts; Hinshaw, California, and Cunningham, Iowa.

Besides Morgenthau and Sen. Tobey, the delegation includes:

Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director, vice chairman; Assistant Secretary of State Atcheson; Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley; Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board of governors; Mabel Newcomer, professor of economics at Vassar college; Rep. Spence [D., Ky.], chairman of the house committee; Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], chairman of the senate committee; Harry D. White, assistant to the secretary of the treasury, and Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.].

Text of President's Letter.

The President's letter said in part:

"It is my hope that this conference will formulate for presentation to the participating governments definite proposals for an international monetary fund and possibly a bank for reconstruction and development. In the invitation which I extended to these governments to participate in the conference, I stated that the agreement by the conference upon definite proposals will not be binding either morally or legally on the governments represented but will be referred to the respective governments for adoption or rejection. You will, of course, be governed accordingly in your discussions and negotiations.

Modifications Are Authorized.

"In formulating a definite proposal for an international monetary fund, both you and the other delegates will be expected to adhere to the joint statement of principles of an international monetary fund announced April 21, 1944. You, as head of the delegation, are authorized, however, after consultation with the other delegates, to agree to modifications which, in your opinion, are essential to the effectuation of an agreement and provided that such modifications do not fundamentally alter the principles set forth in the joint statement.

"You will apply the same principles in your discussions and negotiations with respect to the proposed bank for reconstruction and development except that you will be governed by the principles agreed upon by the American technical committee."

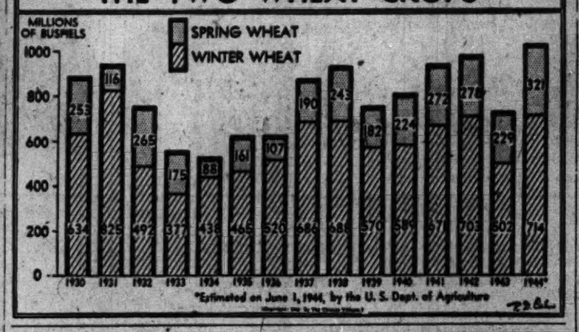
AYRES OPPOSES FUND

New Brunswick, N. J., June 23 (AP).—Opposition to the proposed international monetary stabilization fund on the ground it would result in a scarcity of dollars for this country's international trade was expressed tonight by Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres.

In an address before the graduate school of banking of the American Bankers association at Rutgers university, Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, said:

"The first requisite for any genuine progress toward stabilization of exchanges is a stable dollar free of all exchange restrictions, a dollar in which the world has full confidence. It appears to me inevitable that if the plan with its provisions for borrowing should be put into effect the supply of dollars in the fund would promptly become scarce."

THE TWO WHEAT CROPS



Rolls-Royce Asks Delay in Renegotiation

Washington, D. C., June 23 [Special].—Rolls-Royce, Inc., today asked the federal District court to postpone the Detroit renegotiation board's final review of the company's war contracts until the Supreme court has ruled on a legal question regarding the type of information the board is requiring of the company.

The corporation, a Michigan company, which manufactures, among other products, small precision tools for the Rolls-Royce engine used in Spitfire, Hurricane, and other combat planes, petitioned the Supreme court last month for permission to file a restraining writ prohibiting the board from exacting from the company what it termed confidential corporate information. This included stock ownership, patents, trade marks, designs, and copyrights, the company said.

Court Stay Necessary.

Because the Supreme court had not acted upon the petition and the renegotiation board had scheduled a hearing on Rolls-Royce contracts this week, it was necessary for the company to seek a stay of proceedings in the District court,

At the request of District Judge Morris, who said he needed several days to study the company's plea, the war department, under which the renegotiation board functions, and the justice department agreed to continue the board's hearing until June 30.

Position in Jeopardy.

Charles F. Short Jr., Chicago, company counsel, said that the renegotiation act provides that any business which does not furnish the information requested by the board is held liable of a criminal act, and consequently the company would unjustly jeopardize its position if it appeared at the hearing and refused the information when the propriety of the board's request was still an unsettled question.

The purpose of the district court petition, Short said, was to maintain the "status quo" until the company had received a court ruling on the justice of the renegotiation board's demands.

DPC TAKES OVER PLANT OPERATED WITHOUT PROFIT

Newport, Ky., June 23 (AP).—The Defense Plant corporation today took over operations of the Andrews Steel company at Wilder, Ky., closed for a week because of war orders which could not be handled at reasonable profit, the company said. Approximately 1,100 men have been idle since open hearth furnaces were shut down Saturday.

Charles H. Stamm, president, said that arrangements under which the plant will be operated for the account of the DPC at a fixed fee, were concluded "at the request of the war production board and at the instance of the war department." It would "assure continued and uninterrupted operation, he added.

Paul D. Angell, vice president, said the plant recently had been operating at an average loss of $100,000 a month. "Now the DPC will lease the plant, add an estimated half million dollars worth of necessary improvements and absorb whatever losses might be incurred in operations," he said.

TAX BASIS OF GIFTS.

Several years ago I gave my wife a bond which has been called for redemption this year, and I would like to know if she must report the profit on this bond in her income tax return. I also gave my wife several other bonds for which I paid a premium. These bonds are due this year and there will be a loss on them. Will my wife report the loss? W. S.

Answer: In the case of property acquired by gift on or after Jan. 1, 1921, the "basis" [equivalent of cost for determining gain or loss] in the hands of the person receiving the gift is the same as it would be in the hands of the donor or the last preceding owner who did not acquire the property as a gift.

A different rule applies in determining the loss on property received as a gift since Jan. 1, 1921. In this case the "basis" is either the same as it would be in the hands of the donor or the last preceding owner who did not acquire the property by gift, or the fair market value of the property at the time of the gift, whichever is lower.

Thus, if one bond given to your wife is redeemed for more than you paid for it, she must report this additional amount as a long term capital gain.

The loss on the other bonds would be the difference between the amount received at maturity and either the cost of the bonds to you or their fair market value when the gift was made, whichever was lower. Your wife would be entitled to report this as a long term capital loss.

STRIKE DETERRENTS PROPOSED AS CLAUSE OF STEEL CONTRACT

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—A detailed proposal to write strike deterrents into steel wage contracts was offered today by W. H. Harvey, representing the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, Pittsburgh, before the war labor board panel in the steel wage dispute.

The plan would establish a permanent salaried arbitrator empowered to fix responsibility for the strike and enforce the contract by imposing penalties upon the corporation, the union, or employes found responsible for strikes.

Employes found responsible for the strike would be penalized by any one or combination of the following: a reprimand, probation, $5 fine or less for each day of offense, cut in vacation allowance, loss of seniority, suspension from work, or discharge.

If the union leadership is to blame, it would lose the benefits of maintenance of membership and check-off of dues and reimbursement by the union of any loss suffered by the corporation and the employe might be ordered. As a sanction against a lock-out by the company, the arbitrator would be authorized to order that the employes be reimbursed for wages lost while locked out.

New Pig Crop 28 Pct. Below 1943's Record

Pig production in the United States this year will be the smallest in three years, the department of agriculture predicted yesterday. The total of the spring and fall crops was estimated at 87,925,000 head, a reduction of 28 per cent from the all-time record output in 1943, and 16 per cent under 1942.

The decrease in the crop is in line with the forecasts made in private surveys in recent months, but much larger than the preliminary estimate by the government last December. Instead of the 16 per cent reduction indicated then for the 1944 spring crop, the department placed the spring cut at 24 per cent.

Spring Crop 55 Million.

Farmers in the spring season this year raised about 55,925,000 pigs, the smallest spring crop since 1941, the department reported. The 1943 crop was 73,911,000 and in 1942 60,902,000. However, the 1944 spring crop was larger than any peace time production on record.

Basing its forecast of the fall crop on breeding intentions reported by farmers, the department predicted it would reach 32 million head, the smallest in four years and the second lowest since 1938, a year before the war began in Europe. The fall crop was 47,831,000 and two years ago 43,657,000.

HOG PRICES RISE

Clearance of hogs in the Chicago stock yards yesterday was the best for a Friday in 11 weeks. Fewer than 3,000 were not sold compared with an average Friday holdover of 9,000 in the last 10 weeks.

Buyers paid a 5 cents higher average of $12.70, which was 20 cents more than hogs averaged at the close of last week. The $13.75 top was paid only for the best 180 to 270 pound government weights.

Cattle buyers continued their efforts to reduce cattle costs to the level approved by the war food administration. As a result trade was dull and many animals were carried over by owners who refused to accept a price cut. The highest steer sale was $17.10.

Lambs were weak to 25 cents lower in slow trade. The $15.25 top was paid for native new crop stock.

Rock Island's Bond Program Causes Clash

A court hearing on the reorganization plan for the Rock Island lines was enlivened yesterday when the road's two trustees expressed differences of opinion over a detail of financial procedure. The incident occurred while Federal Judge Igoe was hearing objections to the amended reorganization plan.

Aaron Colnon, a co-trustee with Joseph B. Fleming, upset the calm courtroom routine when he told the judge that he wished to make a statement on his proposal to retire 3½ million dollars of Choctaw and Memphis [one of the Rock Island divisions] 5 per cent bonds.

Objections are Raised.

Colnon said he, Fleming, and J. D. Farrington, chief executive officer of the Rock Island, had agreed on the advisability of paying off the bonds from cash in the road's treasury, but when the proposal was made the various bondholders' protective committees, which largely represent eastern interests, raised strong objections.

Fleming and Farrington decided not to push the proposal because they thought the objections would delay completion of the reorganization plan, but Colnon said he believed it his duty to bring the matter to the attention of the court.

Colnon asserted that in the 13 months he has been a co-trustee, with only one exception, he had never received a visit from any representative of a bondholders committee. He said he had never received constructive help from the various committees whose duty is to protect the interests of bondholders. On the contrary in the case of three constructive proposals which would have strengthened the financial structure of the road, protective committees had presented obstructive objections, he asserted.

Argue for Retirement.

"Heaven help you if you propose a piece of sound financing to the bondholder committees," Colnon said. He argued that retirement of the Choctaw and Memphis bonds from cash available would reduce the road's interest charges. Others also explained that retirement of the bonds would simplify the corporate structure of the road.

Fleming said that altho he was convinced of the advisability of buying the bonds he did not believe it feasible to get in all the bonds and that to pursue the course over the objections of the various groups would cause litigation. He also said the bondholder committees had cooperated satisfactorily with him.

In taking the objections under advisement Judge Igoe said:

"I never before heard a more shocking situation that the one presented here today. They want to pay off 100 cents on the dollar, but no one wants to take it."

Contends Plan Is Not Fair.

Earlier John Gerdes, an attorney for the road, said he did not believe the amended reorganization plan is fair to certain classes of securities holders because it fails to take into account the improved financial position of the road since the plan was developed. He said the plan was based on financial calculations made as of Jan. 1, 1936, whereas it will go into effect as of Jan. 1, 1944.

Representatives of the principal bondholder groups said that they have withdrawn objections to the amended plan.

AXTON-FISHER OFFERS TOBACCO IN ASSETS SPLIT

Louisville, Ky., June 23 (AP).—The Axton-Fisher Tobacco company, in dissolution, today offered to give class B shareholders 141 pounds of tobacco in the form of warehouse receipts as a means of distributing assets. The offer consists of 65 pounds of flue cured leaf, 30 pounds of flue cured strip tobacco and 46 pounds of burley leaf per share.

Tobacco dealers said the value of the offer could not be estimated without knowing the grades of the leaf, but described the dividend as a "technical way" devised by the company's counsel for distributing assets.

The B shares, on which the dividend is to be made, are owned largely by Transamerica corporation, which is selling out to Philip Morris.

Auto Equipment Needs Will Be Filed Thru ODT

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—After July 1 commercial motor vehicle operators who need new equipment should file applications thru the 142 district offices of the office of defense transportation instead of the interstate commerce commission bureau of motor carriers, ODT said today.

TRACTION PLAN GETS A JOLT IN FEDERAL COURT

Igoe to Aid Junior Security Holders.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

A neatly worked out schedule, under which the city of Chicago proposed to buy the elevated and surface lines systems and to unify them with municipal ownership, was jolted at a hearing yesterday before Federal District Judge Igoe.

Judge Igoe.

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways, read the schedule as a representative of Mayor Kelly. It contemplated the passage of a municipal ownership ordinance in four to six weeks, the holding of a referendum in mid-September, the approval of technical legal provisions in November by the Illinois Supreme court, and the purchase [with borrowed money] of the systems early in 1945.

Who Will Sell?

"And whom will you buy from?" asked the judge. The answer was that heads of surface lines bond owners' committees had agreed to recommend a purchase price of 75 million dollars to the owners.

The judge said these men represented the lien holders, not the surface lines.

"Certain gentlemen who have refused to cooperate with the court in reorganizing the properties have gone to the city hall and presumed to talk for the owners," he continued. "Certain banking interests have pretended to own the properties, but they don't.

"This court, I want to say, will protect the interests of the junior security holders of the surface lines. They [the banking interests] are not going to put on a rush act here. They are not going to wrap up a bundle and carry it out of this court."

Aid for Junior Holders.

Judge Igoe said a previous reorganization plan, rejected by the Illinois commerce commission, called for the issuance of 179 millions of securities to the present L and surface lines owners and that the 86 millions for purchase by the city indicated to him that junior lien holders might need protection.

His remarks about "certain gentlemen" apparently were directed at committees of senior bondholders of the surface lines, who expect to get 100 per cent for their 72 million dollar holdings, leaving little for the juniors. The senior interests had displayed no intention to follow the judge's instructions to formulate a plan for a unified company with a fixed capital of only 45 millions.

The judge indicated that a valid title would be difficult to acquire for the city under present circumstances and hinted it might be better to throw the surface lines into bankruptcy, that this might speed things up. He set next Friday as a date for hearing requests for a bankruptcy proceeding. The L lines already are in bankruptcy.

Alternative Proposed.

Henry F. Tenney and William J. Friedman, attorneys for the court, announced they would present an alternative plan under which the two companies would be separately reorganized and then merged by agreement, or, if necessary, by arbitration. Judge Igoe, who said he had no objection to municipal ownership as such, offered to hear the plans.

The surface lines have been in receivership since 1927. The city offered to give 75 millions for them and allow the bondholders to keep about 8 millions more of cash on hand. The L bondholders were to receive about 14 millions.

New Deal Intrigue in REA Is Alleged in Senate Report

Washington, D. C., June 23 (AP).—Charging that the rural electrification administration is being demoralized by "dissatisfaction, controversy, and intrigue," a senate agriculture subcommittee today proposed to return it to its former status as an independent agency.

Chairman Smith [D., S. C.] submitted a 10 page report in which the National Rural Electric Cooperative association and unidentified officials of the agriculture department were said to have "brought pressure to bear on the White House" in an unsuccessful attempt to remove Administrator Harry Slattery.

Under the agency's present setup as an arm of the agriculture department, the report continued, Slattery is administrator in name only.

Opposed Insurance Scheme.

The committee said the attack on Slattery's administration seems to have been precipitated by Slattery's opposition to a plan of the NRECA to start an insurance business, using the money of more 800 local REA cooperatives.

When pressure on President Roosevelt for Slattery's removal failed, the report added, the administrator was offered a chance to go to Europe to study rural electrification, "if he would resign."

"Rumors and charges of incompetency and mismanagement" on Slattery's part, said the report, "were suddenly discovered" after he opposed the insurance plan and "were carried to the President and made the basis for the request for his discharge or removal. Such action has our unqualified disapproval."

Political Angle Considered.

Weeks of inquiry by the subcommittee preceded the issuance of the report. The insurance scheme, the report said, "was originated by the [former] deputy administrator, Robert B. Craig, who, under oath, testified he was willing to accept the responsibility of parentage of this scheme."

Altho asserting there was some evidence to indicate that the importance of such an organization for political purposes was "estimated and appraised," there is "no testimony that the REA organization itself ever engaged in political activity," the report said.

Slattery was represented in the report as having written a letter of protest to cooperatives and to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard when he learned of the insurance plan.

U. S. Wastes Rail's Funds, Suit Charges

Macomb, Ill., June 23 [Special].—The Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad filed suit in Circuit court today to halt what it termed unnecessary expenditures of company funds by government operators of the 239 mile road. The suit seeks to reopen a number of legal questions raised since the office of defense transportation took over the road in March, 1942, after protracted labor difficulties.

Circuit Judge Burton A. Roeth was asked to halt installation of 100 pound rail on several miles of trackage in McDonough county to replace lighter rail the company contends is adequate to handle traffic.

Track Relocation Planned.

Atty. Clarence W. Heyl, on behalf of the company and George P. McNear Jr., president, told the court the expenditures were beyond the authority of the federal operators, whose powers are limited to keeping the railroad in sound operating condition. Heyl said future plans of the railroad include relocation of tracks where the new rail is ready for installation.

The suit named Holly Stover, federal manager of the line, and George Voeltner, his assistant, and asked a temporary injunction against expenditure of funds. Judge Roeth set a hearing for July 10.

Heyl also demanded compensation for owners of the road. He said nothing has been paid them, altho 4 or 5 million dollars of railroad funds are in Peoria bank accounts controled by ODT. The road has been held the longest of any of the private properties seized by the government under President Roosevelt's war powers.

Constitution Held Violated.

Failure to compensate McNear and other stockholders of the company violates federal and state constitutions that provide for just compensation for commandeered properties, Heyl said.

One of the other legal points concerned the order of the secretary of war returning all railroads to their owners after the brief period of government seizure and operation several months ago. Because the T. P. & W. was not named in this order, ODT is in illegal possession of property that should have been returned to its owners, Heyl contended.

GRAINS ADVANCE ON LARGE WHEAT SALES TO MILLS

When heavy mill buying developed on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, a firm market in wheat futures resulted. The demand for wheat for flour was stimulated by belief the subsidy payment may be reduced. Wheat rose ⅛ to ⅝ cent a bushel, oats ⅛ to ⅜, and rye ½ to 1⅛. Barley closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Rye was active, prices advancing sharply in response to buying that came in part from commercial interests.

Oats were influenced by wheat and rye, but trade was sluggish.

People and Events

Bror Dahlberg, president of Celotex corporation, Chicago, yesterday announced the election of Andrew J. Dallstream and William D. Hart as directors to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of John G. Getz Jr., who is in the army, and Leo B. Ewing, who has retired from active business. Dallstream is a senior partner in the law firm of Pam, Hurd, and Reichmann, and Hart is president of the National Brass and Copper company.

Andrew J. Dallstream.

James A. Ferguson of Chicago has been appointed assistant to the president of the Barcalo Manufacturing company, Buffalo, N. Y., in charge of coordinating post-war planning and product development. Ferguson formerly was associated with Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The war production board announced the resignation of Joseph L. Block as deputy director of its steel division and said he would resume his position as executive vice president of Inland Steel company, Chicago. His successor is William B. Todd, Pittsburgh, who has been assistant deputy director.

Harry L. Goodbar was appointed Chicago regional director of Ben Franklin and Federated Stores succeeding Charles H. Eaton, T. B. Freeman, president of Butler brothers, announced.

The La Salle Street Cashiers will hold their 16th annual outing today at Sportsman's Golf club.

STOCKS CLIMB; MOTORS, RAILS, STEELS ACTIVE

Several Issues Set New 1944 Highs.

New York, June 23 (AP).—Stock prices turned upward today with high grade motors, steels, rails, utilities, gold and other metals, and packing company shares putting on bursts of speed. Many managed to hold small gains at the close altho support wavered.

The carriers and industrial specialties showed gains. Advancing fractions to more than a point among rails, which monopolized the last half hour, were Illinois Central, Delaware & Hudson, Atlantic Coast Line, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway and New York Central.

Several at New Highs.

Touching new highs for the year were American Bosch, Curtis Publishing, Certain-teed common and preferred, Wilson & Co., Sears, Roebuck, and Eastern Rolling Mill. Also ahead were Sperry, Chrysler, Dome Mines, Homestake, Armour of Illinois, Cerro de Pasco, and Park Utah.

Oils and several lower priced issues, chiefly motors, were lower, altho they were traded in large blocks of 1,000 to more than 16,000. Standard Oil [N. J.], Amerada, Standard of California, Graham-Paige, Willys-Overland, Packard, Hupp Motor, and Alleghany corporation all were lower. Park & Tilford lost 13¾.

The Associated Press 60 stock index rose 0.1 to 55.3, chiefly as a result of a gain of 0.4 in the rail section, which equaled its peak since late 1937. Transfers aggregated 1,301,015 shares, against 1,279,150 yesterday.

BOND PRICES RISE.

New York, June 23 (AP).—Bonds generally were higher today as demand broadened for many rails and industrial specialties. There were some backward issues.

Various loans of the Milwaukee railroad, in strong demand yesterday after court approval of an amended plan of reorganization, made new gains of 1 to more than 2 points and held a major part of the advance against lively profit taking in the final hour.

Sales of $11,671,400 compared with $10,752,500 yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN.

Prices were higher in increased turnover of 46,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Active issues included Armour & Co., up ¼, and Miller & Hart, Standard Dredging, and Central Illinois Securities, up ½.

Moore-McCormack Lines to Pay 62½ Cent Dividend

Moore-McCormack Lines, ship operators, yesterday declared a dividend of 62½ cents on $2.50 preferred stock for the first disbursements on the issue since the stock has been in public hands. Power Corporation of Canada increased its dividend to 20 cents from 15 cents a year ago.

LONGER LIVES PREDICTED IN POST-WAR ERA

Risk Executive Cites Favorable Factors.

The death rate in the United States probably will continue its generally downward trend, Leigh Cruess, vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, yesterday told the 33d annual meeting of the medical section of the American Life convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

"Estimates of the population living under substandard subsistence levels run as high as one-third," he said. "It does not seem reasonable to expect improvement for this under-privileged group."

He presented figures which indicated that the death rate among social and occupational groups which enjoyed adequate food, good housing, opportunities for relaxation, and frequent medical attention was radically lower.

Other Longevity Factors.

Other reasons for believing that the mortality rate would continue to fall were, Cruess thought, th econtinued progress of medical science, the improvement in public health and sanitation, and the emphasis which is now being laid on industrial hygiene and safety.

"There is abroad a wider conciousness that industry owes its workers safe and healthful working conditions," he declared. "We have ample reason to expect wider and more intensive measures in industrial health, safety and welfare."

Creuss conceded that there were dark spots in the mortality picture. "There is reason to believe," he said, "that the two principal causes of death in later life, diseases of the heart and cancer, are showing genuine increases in mortality rates." He noted, however, that more and more attention and research are being concentrated on these conditions.

Traffic Mortality to Rise.

Fatal automobile accidents, which were 42 per cent fewer in 1943 than in 1941, are sure to rise when war time restrictions on gasoline and on driving speeds are lifted, he said.

"Aviation, too," he continued, "is bound to assume increasing importance in accident mortality. Air travel has undoubtedly become safer and will continue to become safer, but we face the paradox that as it becomes safer more people will be killed by it, because the frequency of air travel will increase faster than the safety factor."

Dr. J. M. Livingston, medical director of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, Waterloo, Ont., was elected chairman of the medical section to succeed Dr. Thomas H. Dickson, medical director of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance company, St. Paul, Minn. Dr. B. F. Byrd, medical director of the National Life and Accident Insurance company, Nashville, Tenn., was reelected secretary. The new vice chairman is Dr. Raymond B. Hutchinson, medical director of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance company, Washington, D. C.

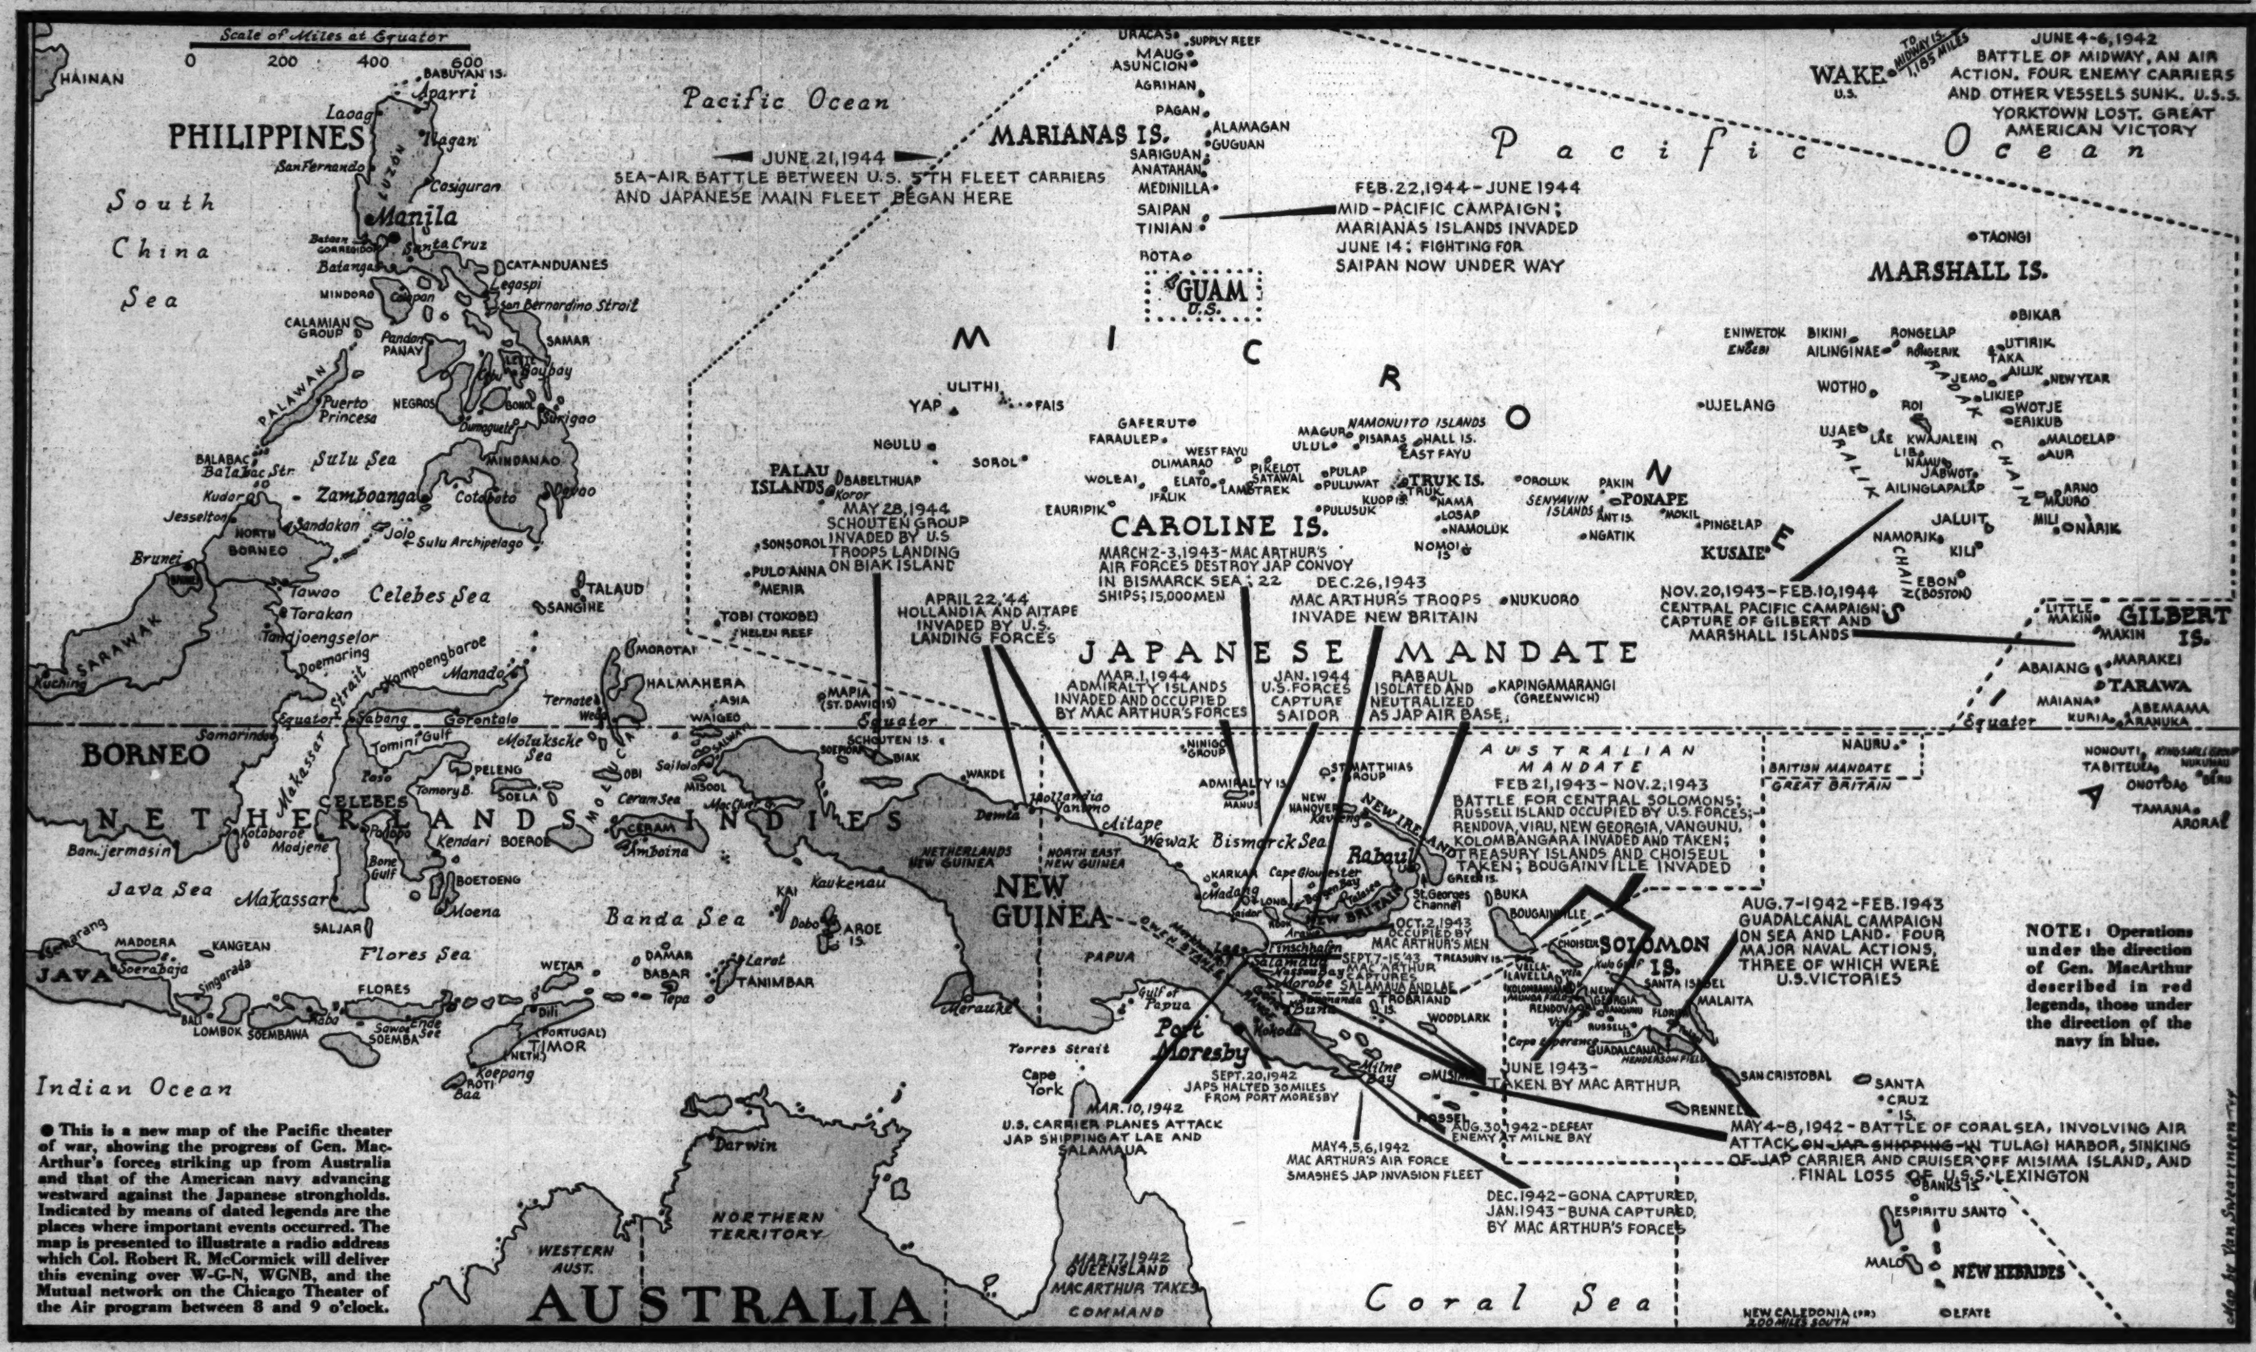
Retain This Map for Col. McCormick's Talk Over W-G-N Tonight



● This is a new map of the Pacific theater of war, showing the progress of Gen. MacArthur's forces striking up from Australia and that of the American navy advancing westward against the Japanese strongholds. Indicated by means of dated legends are the places where important events occurred. The map is presented to illustrate a radio address which Col. Robert R. McCormick will deliver this evening over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network on the Chicago Theater of the Air program between 8 and 9 o'clock.

Yanks Storm Heights as They Close In on Cherbourg—Tornado Spreads Death Thru Two States
